OAK PARK GIRL SLAIN ON RIDE

EUROPE CAN USE UNPAID DEBT TO HURT U. S. TRADE

Half Billion a Year Cost to Taxpayers.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25—[Special.]—What repudiation by Europe of the 11½ billion dollar war debts owed the United States would cost the American people is one of the phases of the debt question due for an airing in congress after the holidays.

Senators and congressmen were persuaded by the administration to withhold comment immediately after the default of France and four other debtors on Dec. 15, from fear that angry utterances might destroy whatever chance there might be of the French government reconsidering its attitude and coming across with that 19 millions after all.

Prepare to Unburden Selves.

Now that they find they have held their tongues in vain, numerous national legislators are preparing speeches in which they intend to unburden themselves of some extremely uncomplimentry views of those nations that have defaulted and those that have served notice they will default next June unless the debts are reduced to their liking.

Facts and figures are being marshaled to show how much repudiation would profit the Europeans and cost the Americans. One calculation is that repudiation of the entire debt would add 500 millions a year to the American tax burden for a generation or more.

"The result would be an increase in the cost of production of every American product," said Senator Hiram Johnson, [Rad., Cal.], who will be among the first to be heard on the subject. "With the cost of our production raised Europe could compete with us even more easily than now. Repudiation would be just another nail in the coffin of our foreign trade."

May Be Used Against U. S.

Other views are that the defaulters will not hesitate to employ the withheld payments directly to the disadvantage of the United States. The aggregate payments are scheduled to rise gradually from 270 millions this fiscal year to 417 millions in 1985.

It is suggested that the debtors might devote the withheld payments to subsidies of their agriculture production, steel manufacture, ocean shipping and other fields in which they come into competition with American enterprise and thereby put a crimp in American industry.

Great Britain might employ withheld annual payments of upwards of 275 millions to build a navy and a merchant marine with which the United States could never expect to attain parity except at ruinous cost.

Lewis Cites Unfriendliness.

"The foreign nations indebted to the United States," said Senator James Hamilton Lewis, [Dem., Ill.], "are only too anxious to see this country overthrown from the position of world economic, financial and commercial supremacy which we now enjoy.

"Should we agree to cancel the debts, it would mean granting just that much more money to the nations who owe us, in order that they might use it to finance a program destructive to our interests.

"In my belief, the first use to which the nations owing us would put the money we forgave them would be to loan it to other nations in order, through obligations thus incurred, to bind their alliances still more firmly.

"Europe is already the scene of such alliances cemented with so-called commercial loans."

Calls U. S. "Prize Sucker."

Senator Hiram Bingham said that our debtors wish to have their obligations to the United States canceled in order that their credit may be strengthened. "They wish this stronger credit in order that they may secure new loans," he added. "The only place to which they can come for such loans is, of course, the United States.

"If you say it is impossible that this country would be foolish enough to make further loans to Europe, I recommend that you recall the billions which Americans loaned to Germany. Germany staged the greatest repudiation of all time by her inflation of currency. Yet immediately thereafter our bankers floated and our people bought literally billions of German bonds.

"We are the prize sucker among nations."

Worship in Churches

Worshipers gathered in hundreds of Chicago churches to observe Christmas yesterday and thousands of poor received bountiful feasts.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Vibrant with the solemnity of its liturgy, stupendous in the sweep of its pageantry, the Feast of Lights, celebrated last night in the Chicago Stadium, united the entire Jewish world of Chicago, orthodox and reformed. Under auspices of the Zionist organization, 25,000 persons struggled to claim seats in a hall whose capacity is 23,000, to witness the spectacle of Chanukkah, joyous festival of an innately tragic race.

No structure of proportions less majestic than the stadium would have been adequate as the setting for the magnificent scene depicting the rededication of the temple at Jerusalem in 167 B. C. which is the basis for this ancient feast. As it was, not even the vast ensemble of hundreds of actors required for the episode could tax the spacious stretches of the arena floor.

Stadium Becomes a Temple.

This climax of the fete, which will endure in the memory of those who witnessed it, turned the huge stadium into a worthy rival of the temple it simulated. Rising high at the east end of the hall was the sanctuary of the temple, the "holy of holies," a background of gold and white and a dome of blue, with great electric candelabra glowing in gilded standards, sending shimmers along the ivory robes and golden ornaments of the priestly robes. Adolf Muhlmann, for twelve years baritone with the Metropolitan Opera company in New York, sang the role of the high priest.

Stately Procession.

A fanfare of horns announced the entrance of the temple dancers and the daughters of Zion. From six separate entrances began the stately, slow procession of girls, converging in single and in double files, onto the pillared stage in the center. Biblical days lived again in the sway of graceful robes and the uplifted arms steadying urns and baskets atop their heads as the first group advanced. Greek friezes lived and breathed in the simple rhythmic movements of the dark haired dancing girls bearing garlands of flowers and wearing gauzy pastel draperies.

From the balcony at the northeast end of the stadium a white robed chorus of 250 children blended their voices with the deeper, fuller tones of the priests, as the organ boomed out a background of melody for both. Midway in the scene below paced another company of girls, in simple costumes with long veils, each bearing and ringing a cystrum, an early, tinkling toned musical instrument, its considerable volume individual in the whole.

And Still There Is More.

There was more—far more—to the observance. Such important units as a prologue to the drama which was noteworthy in itself, showing the celebration of Chanukkah in 1880 in the home of a wealthy Russian Jew entertaining his neighbors and all the poor as well; an epilogue with modern Palestine for a setting; a concert that began with an organ recital by Abraham Leifer, and included a personal appearance by Ben Bernie, two arias by Rosalondi Morini, and choral singing of the "Hallelujah" and other numbers.

The temple spectacle, however, was the embodiment of the spirit of the feast and the dramatic moment of the entire evening. Isaac Van Grove was the director of the spectacle, which is, in effect, the reiteration of a tenet of Judaism, that when the Maccabeans under Judas Maccabeus conquered the Syrian Greek, Antiochus, enough holy oil to burn for one day was found inside the temple, yet miraculously it lasted eight days.

Restoration of the Temple.

The story of the restoration of their place of worship to the Jews relates how the pagan gods were overthrown and the rites of rededication restored it for the Hebrews.

Nathan Vizonsky, formerly of the Max Reinhardt theater group in Germany, was director of the dances. Hyman Resnick and Benjamin Pollock

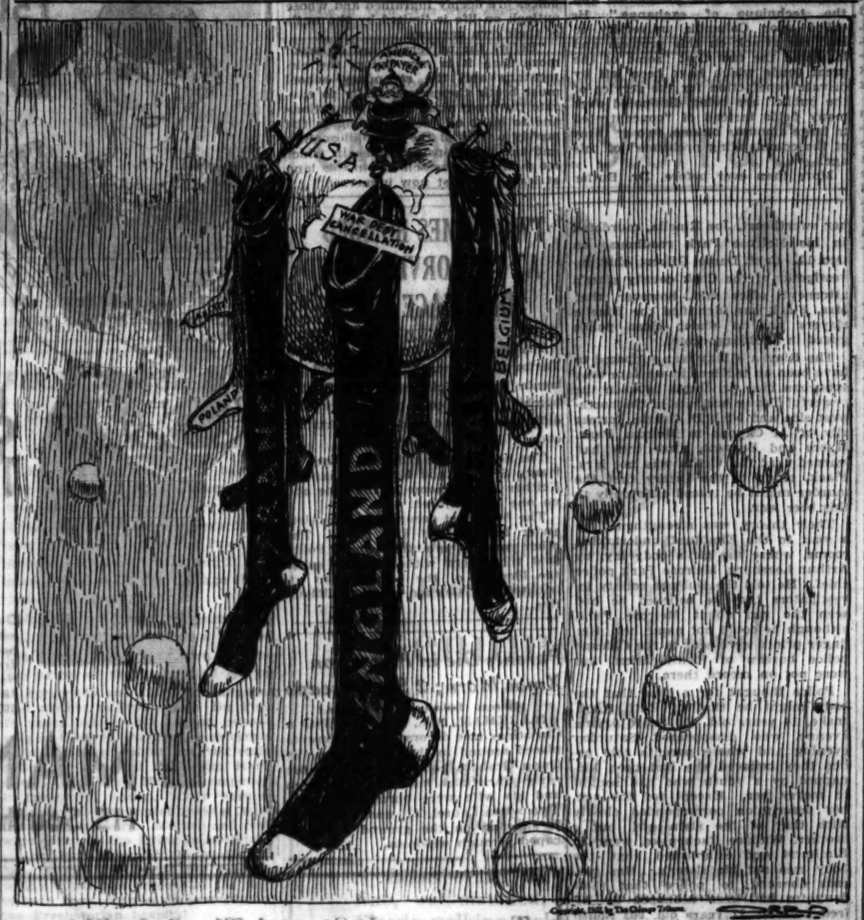
PERPETUAL CHRISTMAS



Norman Mack, Political Chief, Dies in Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y. [Monday], Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Norman E. Mack, former Buffalo newspaper publisher and for many years member and once chairman of the Democratic national committee, died at 12:50 o'clock this morning in his home here after a brief illness. He was 74 years old.

The end came with the passing of Christmas day, as members of the family gathered in the sickroom. Although Mr. Mack had been ill and confined to his room for several weeks, he did not take to his bed until Thursday. Recurrent attacks of asthma, an old affliction, had sapped his vitality and placed a burden on the heart.

Denies He's Seriously Ill.

To intimates who visited him during this period he steadfastly denied his condition. He requested one of them, connected with a local radio station, to have an announcement broadcast that his illness was not as serious as rumors had intimated.

Mr. Mack's name originally was McEachran, but that name was difficult for acquaintances and business associates to remember. From boyhood he spoke of himself as "Mac," and was known as Mack. In Buffalo it became "Mr. Mack," and much of his mail arrived addressed in that name. He was so generally committed to the name that he decided eventually to use it altogether and had it made Norman Edward Mack by court order instead of Norman Edward McEachran.

Norman Edward Mack asked the Democracy of New York state in 1932 to elect somebody else as national committeeman, after he had represented the state party continuously for 32 years in the conduct of the national Democracy under such diverse leadership as Bryan, Parker, Wilson, Cox, Davis, and Smith.

Retires from Newspaper.

So great was the affection in which he was held that he could have gone on, but he reminded the Roosevelt leaders that he was already 74 years old. "I think I owe my time now to my family," he said.

Three years earlier he had retired from newspaper publishing, through the sale of the Buffalo Times, which he founded and had published for 50 years. His success as a publisher is indicated by the fact that the paper which he started with $2,500 of borrowed capital at the age of 21 was purchased by the Scripps-Howard system for $5,000,000.

His newspaper had brought him what he admitted he sought when he decided to become the newspaper man that he always called himself, although he was little active on the editorial side. Equipped with a meager education by a Canadian country school at West Williams, Ont., where he was born in 1858, he went to work at the age of 10 at Pontiac, Mich., and did odd jobs. At the age of 18 he was in Wheeling, W. Va., where he first saw a newspaper man. Each evening he saw the politicians and prominent men of Wheeling gathered in the hotel lobby around the editor of the Register, giving the editor more attention and friendship than any other man in town.

Determines to Own Paper.

Many years afterward Mr. Mack told of this spectacle as the cause of his determination to own a newspaper. He made his initial newspaper venture at 20 by founding the Chautauqua Lake Gazette at Jamestown, N. Y., in 1878. In 1879 he established the Sunday Times in Buffalo.

The Buffalo Times prospered, with Mr. Mack applying himself to the business end. He was one of the pioneers in the publication of features, colored supplements, comic strips, and serial and short stories.

Mr. Mack first made himself politically important when he abandoned the independent editorial policy of the Buffalo Times in 1884 and indorsed Grover Cleveland for the presidency the first time he was elected.

Thereafter, although his occupation was publishing, his chief interest from the age of 26 was politics. He had indorsed Cleveland because he believed in party "regularity."

CHICAGO POPULATION CHANGES SLIGHT IN 1932, FIGURES SHOW

Population in the Chicago metropolitan area did not increase or decrease greatly during 1932, according to statistics of the Chicago Regional Planning association. Six major reasons were given last night by Robert Kingery, general manager of the organization, as follows:

1. Hundreds of families have left the city to settle on farms.
2. The normal population increase from rural dwellers moving to the city has not been in evidence.
3. Decreased immigration.
4. Fewer marriages.
5. Lower birth rates.
6. Lower death rates.

The estimated population of Chicago in 1931 was 3,400,000. The normal yearly rate of increase is 50,000. According to Mr. Kingery, his association believes that next year there will be a greater than normal population increase, partly because of the World's Fair and an expected upturn of business. He predicted that in 1940 Chicago will have 4,600,000 residents.

Fire Destroys 16th Century Images in Spanish Church

MURCIA, Spain, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Fire caused by a short circuit destroyed today the highly valued group of 16th century images arranged in the Misericordia church by Jesuit Brother Domingo Beltran. The group consisted of a central image of St. Stephen flanked by St. John the Baptist and St. Sebastian. The images were to have been transferred to the provincial museum soon.

It's a Merry Christmas for the 41 Voelzes

For the first time in the history of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Voelz, a family untouched by death in three generations, all its 41 members were gathered at a Christmas celebration yesterday in the Voelz home at 1114 North Menard avenue. Present were the old folks, ten children and their husbands and wives, 18 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mr. Voelz, a retired cabinet maker, will be 70 years old next February. His wife, Caroline, is 68. They have been married 49 years and have lived in Chicago for 53 years. Both came to this country from Pommern Germany, in 1877. They were married in Chicago.

Sons Come from Detroit.

To make the family reunion complete it was necessary for one daughter and her family to come to Chicago from Detroit. They are Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hanley, their daughter and son-in-law; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Philip and the Philips' son, Robert. They arrived early yesterday, in time to join the others in old-fashioned Christmas jollity around a big Christmas tree in the living room of the Voelz home.

In the afternoon the family enjoyed a bountiful Christmas dinner which was planned and cooked by Mrs. Voelz. She accepted help from her daughters only in serving. Afterward, as the party split up into groups to play cards and talk, she was the gayest of all.

"I'm not one bit tired!" she said. "It's so good to have them all together and to see them all so well."

None Ever Seriously Ill.

The first generation of Voelz children, none of whom has ever had a serious illness, are: Edward, Elizabeth, Mathilda, Hulda, Ida, Alvina, Lillian, Albert Jr., Harriet and Esther. The oldest is 48 and the youngest 32.

One of the grandchildren, Bud Voelz, son of Edward, is an athlete at York Township High school, Elmhurst. The youngest member of the family is Claudette Dorman, daughter of Elizabeth Voelz Dorman. She was born two weeks ago.

Mr. Voelz said he and his wife had no set rules for health and happiness. "We take things as they come," he said, "and we are grateful for all the blessings we have received."

Christmas Thief Steals Tree Decorated for Poor

Before dawn yesterday a thief entered the hall of the Salvation Army citadel at 1710 North California avenue, and stole a decorated Christmas tree. According to Capt. Tom Gabrielsen of the Salvation Army, the tree had been provided for the entertainment of poor children in the neighborhood.

Family Friend Identifies Her; Hunt a Motive

BULLETIN.

The body of the slain girl was identified shortly before 4 o'clock this morning as that of Miss Gertrude Modrow, 19 years old, who formerly lived in Bellwood and recently had been employed as a maid in an Oak Park home. The identification was made by Ernest Doweidt, 324 South 23d avenue, Bellwood, who said the Modrow family formerly lived across the street from his home. Doweidt said the family had broken up two years ago when the father was committed to the Kankakee State hospital. The mother is dead. The authorities sent for an older sister of Gertrude, who is the wife of Fireman Otto Danenberg of Oak Park, to verify Doweidt's identification. Doweidt said he knew of no motive for the slaying.

The body of a pretty girl, between 18 and 20 years of age, was found at dawn yesterday beside a lonely Du Page county road. She had been taken for a ride and shot to death in typical gangland fashion.

After three theories as to her identity had proved false investigators were left late last night with only one clew to her slayer or slayers. This was the single footprint of a man beside the body. The girl had been shot once in the back and then pushed out of an automobile. The killer then apparently had stood with one foot on the running board of the car and the other beside her as he sent two more bullets into her head.

Scene of the Killing.

The scene of the shooting was on Grand road, a continuation of Grand avenue westward from Chicago, about half a mile east of the village of Addison. The gravel road is little traveled at this point, for it intersects about half way toward Addison with the paved highway on Lake street, and with the Wooddale road, a north and south highway.

Leslie Stalley, a milk driver living in Addison, discovered the body about 6 a. m., but the hour of the murder was fixed at about midnight or 1 a. m. A farmer living in the nearest house, a quarter of a mile away, said that his dog was aroused and started to howl about that hour. Dr. Paul A. Isherwood, Du Page county deputy coroner, also said after an examination of the body that the girl had been dead five or six hours when the body was found.

Notifies the Authorities.

Stalley notified authorities as soon as he discovered the body. Allen Myers, chief investigator for Chauncey Reed, Du Page county state's attorney, and Chief Deputy Sheriff Arthur Bennett took charge of the investigation.

Dr. Isherwood informed them after a post-mortem examination of the evidence indicating that the girl apparently had been shot the first time in the automobile. A powder burn showed where a revolver had been pressed against her back and discharged. That bullet, apparently, struck a rib, was deflected and emerged under her arm, Dr. Isherwood said.

The position of the body as it was found indicated that two more bullets had been fired into the girl's head after she was dumped out of the car. Dr. Isherwood's autopsy gave no evidence that the girl had been attacked, another fact which strengthened the

12 BODIES FOUND IN MINE; HUNT 42 STILL ENTOMBED

Hope of Finding Any Alive Wanes.

BULLETIN.

Moweaqua, Ill., Dec. 26 (Monday). — (Special.) — Fresh air was being pumped at 2 a. m. into the chamber of the Moweaqua Co-operative mine, where an undetermined number of men are entombed, possibly alive. Glen Shafer, the mine owner, said the air within the chamber was bad, but that he expected rescue crews to enter the tomb within a few hours.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Moweaqua, Ill., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Twelve bodies have been recovered from the Mowesqua coöperative mine tonight, thirty-six hours after an explosion entombed one out of every five breadwinners in the town.

Numbness has fallen upon the mining folk as they contemplate the extent of the disaster. The number trapped, originally fixed at 54 and later reduced to 52, has been restored to the first figure. Hope for saving any of the entombed men is dwindling, although John Millhouse, director of rescue workers, was encouraged to believe that the group of workers may have escaped the explosion and gas.

Rescuers found tonight they could go no further until timbering was done to make safe their drive through fallen coal and rock to the place where most of the 42 miners are held. That spot may be reached tomorrow.

Some Hope for One Group.

Millhouse based his hope on the fact that in one gallery of the T shaped mine the debris blocked off that wing and he believed that the men in that part of the workings might have been able to keep out the gas. The condition of the remainder of the mine, however, gave but scant foundation for this hope.

Children roam up and down Main street tonight begging news of fathers and older brothers buried in tons of rock and shale 525 feet below the ground. Women stand outside the town morgue staring dully at the list of the recovered dead that is pasted on the window at intervals by the embalmers inside.

Aside from the crowds on Main street and at the colliery, Moweaqua is deserted. Front doors stand wide open and windows which were gay with holly wreaths and Christmas trees are vacant now.

Sunday services were canceled at two of the four churches, the pastors deeming it wiser to pray with the anxious ones at the colliery than attempt to celebrate the Christmas feast in church.

First Body Brought Aloft.

A groan arose from the crowd as the first body was brought aloft at 3:15 a. m. The face was seared with fire and the limbs swelled, confirming the hitherto questionable theory that an explosion brought on the catastrophe.

Women caught a glimpse as the blanket bundled form was laid in an ambulance and knew at once that there could be little hope for the others. At the morgue the victim was identified as Andrew Potsick, one of the 16 children of Mike Potsick, who also is buried in the mine below. The youth quit high school a few weeks ago to work in the mine.

The second body to come up was that of David Charles McDonald, whose two oldest sons were entombed with him, leaving two younger sons homeless. Their mother is dead.

Gas Hampers Rescuers.

By telephone from the bottom of the shaft Millhouse, who, as state superintendent of mines, took charge of the rescue work, reported slow and perilous progress in the hunt for other bodies. Black damp still poisoned the air, he said, and debris so choked the tunnels that the rescue crews had to crawl on hands and knees, working in relays of six. The ventilating system was not functioning properly and little speed could be made until repairs to it are completed.

The first crew into the death chamber came near getting lost before they reached it. It was 7 a. m. and other crews had been digging all night through shale that blocked the tunnel for a quarter of a mile.

Unknowingly these earlier crews had been boring on an upward slant instead of on a level. The morning relief crew, led by Millhouse himself, discovered the error. As they crept back and forth in the narrow bore their pick knocked the floor and gave forth a hollow echo.

Break Through Into Chamber.

Millhouse finally decided to risk an exploration below. The men began drilling down and within a minute their bits had cut through the shale which, they now realized, formed the roof of the tomb they were seeking.

A hole was punched through and the miners' lamps lit up a grisly sight. They were peering into a lofty room, hewn out to provide switching room for the donkey trains which branched right and left off the main tunnel.

On the tracks were five coupled cars. In them were sprawled seven dead men, their faces buried in their shielding sleeves and jackets. It was evident that a blast of explosive gas had filled the room with flame, spreading instant death and sparing the men the torture of slow strangulation.

An hour and fifteen minutes passed before the crew was able to bore back from the room on a true level, thus opening a passage for the bodies. All were seared and disfigured.

Millhouse Reconstructs Disaster.

From the ruins about him, Millhouse could surmise the manner of the disaster. The fifty-four doomed men had not yet gone to work when the blast occurred, he conjectures.

They had dropped to the bottom of the shaft in elevators at 7 a. m. They climbed into the cars to be drawn by an electric locomotive to the digging a mile west out of Shelby county into Christian county.

The train reached the switching room. The string of cars was split and the locomotive pulled up one branch of the line with one load of men to return and pick up the others. The seven who were found first must have been among those who waited, Millhouse believes.

Survivors Work at Rescue.

Dozens of the surviving miners have been toiling on the relay teams for 24 hours, refusing to come up for food or fresh air. The Illinois Central railroad has dispatched a dining car to the mine to feed them. They have canaries in the mine to warn them of accumulating gas. The birds show by drowsiness or death the presence of deadly gas before the men could otherwise percieve it. There are eight mules down there also, but these are less sensitive to gas than man.

Manning the hoisting engine is Fred Ruff, whose brother and nephew are buried below. Among the women in the crowd is the aged Mrs. Mary Vavrick. Her two sons, the husbands of her two daughters, and her grandson are in the mine.

Moving from one group to another with Bibles in hand are the Rev. G. R. Scroggs, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and the Rev. S. N. Wakefield, pastor of the Methodist church. Families of the Scotch and English miners of Moweaqua are among their parishioners.

Mass for Dead Said.

Christmas mass was offered for the redemption of the dead this morning at the Catholic church of St. Francis de Sales by the Rev. Michael Donahue, missionary priest from Assumption. Every child in the congregation took the Sacrament tof the Eucharist for the souls of fathers and brothers.

The bodies recovered were identified as those of Roy Catherwood, Sam Segelski Jr., John Supina, Andy Supina, his son; Michael Fluski, Charles Woodring, John Corby, Michael Tirpak, and Andrew Tirpak, his son; David Charles McDonald, Andrew Potsick, and David Cooley.

$3,500 to $5,500 Compensation.

Families of the dead miners will receive from $3,500 to $5,500 insurance under the Illinois compulsory compensation law. The amount depends on the number of surviving children under 16 years of age and the rate of the father's earnings.

At 6 o'clock this evening the Shelby county coroner, Wirt Lovens of Shelbyville, posted a bulletin at the morgue announcing that no more bodies were expected from the shaft for fourteen hours pending repairs to the ventilating ducts.

Lovens' neighbor, Coroner Gilbert T. Nolan of Christian county, will conduct the inquest. He has sworn a jury of two miners and four farmers over the bodies thus far found and set the inquest for Jan. 2 at the Moweaqua Masonic hall. Coroner Nolan has ruled against any autopsies, holding it self evident that the men were burned or suffocated to death. The mine mouth is in Shelby county, but the bodies were found in Christian county.

theory that the murder had been one of gang vengeance.

The girl had features of the Slavic type. She was about 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighing 135 pounds. She had hazel eyes, a fair complexion and light brown hair, worn in a medium bob.

Her clothing was of good quality, several articles having been purchased in loop shops or department stores. She wore a black silk crepe dress, gray hose, black patent leather slippers, a dark gray coat with a black fur collar, and a close fitting black hat.

Upon the body were several articles of costume jewelry and a fairly expensive white gold wrist watch. The girl wore crystal drop earrings, a green stone ring, which was too large for her finger and had a string wound around it to make it fit, and a yellow gold signet ring bearing the initial "C." This last ring, made on an antique pattern, was on her wedding ring finger.

Gang Threats Reported.

The description of the girl's personal effects led investigators to believe for a time that she was Martha Mitchell, associate of members of the "42" gang, who is reported to have been threatened by the gang on the suspicion that she had given information to the police. This belief was destroyed late last night when Sergt. Bernard Kennedy of the Maxwell street police looked at the victim's body and said she was not the Mitchell girl. He has arrested her several times in recent months.

Earlier, Sam Wahnon, 22 years old, of 1342 South Washtenaw avenue, husband of the Mitchell girl, appeared in Elmhurst and said that the slain victim looked like his wife. There is a slight resemblance, police said.

Story of the Husband.

Wahnon said his wife left him about six weeks ago. Police asserted that she has been living at times with Joe Clementi, alleged "42" gangster. On Dec. 10 Lieut. Paul Riccio and Sergt. Kennedy raided a flat at 2931 Adams street. They arrested the Mitchell girl, Clementi, and seven other men.

As a result of the raid, Clementi and three associates, Louis De Rudder, Harry Bramson and Alfred Glasser, were held to the grand jury on robbery charges and are now in jail. Miss Mitchell was charged with a minor offense and freed on bail. In court, according to Wahnon, three members of the "42" gang told him: "Get out of here, we're taking care of her," referring to his wife.

Another theory, which was quickly exploded, was that the slain girl might have been Mrs. Marie Flack, who saw her sweetheart, Joe Rinella, murdered in his Melrose Park roadhouse on Dec. 17. Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator of the Cook county state's attorney's office said, however, that Mrs. Flack has identified the Rinella slayers and is under close police guard in a Chicago hotel.

The Rinella killing was supposed to have been an incident in warfare over suburban beer privileges between the powerful Touhy brothers of the northwest side and Nick Di Grazia, former ally of Al Capone in Melrose Park. Myers and Bennett, after they had learned that the victim was not Mrs. Flack, clung to the theory that the murder might be traced eventually to this beer war.

Their theory was strengthened by a visit to the Elmhurst undertaking rooms, where the girl's body lay, by Arthur Loesburg, Melrose Park police chief. He told the DuPage county investigators that he believed he had seen the girl about Melrose Park. Although he could not name her. Her finger prints were sent to the Chicago police bureau of identification, but were not on record there.

Police thought for a time that the body might be that of Ruth Rachenske, 14 years old, 619 South Irving avenue, who disappeared Saturday evening and whose parents told police they believed she had been kidnapped by a youth who had sought to marry her. Except for the age, her description corresponded closely with that of the slain girl, but a brother, Wallace Rachenske, went to Elmhurst and established that the body was not his sister's. Her parents charged to police that their daughter had been kidnaped by Alfred Loiirillo, 17 years old, 902 South Irving avenue, with whom she had been keeping company for a month.

Colleges' Luxury Era Is Past, Dr. Butler Reports to Trustees

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler said today that liberal education in the United States suffers from overemphasis on vocational training and too much experimenting in the elementary and secondary schools. He so declared in his report to the trustees of Columbia university on the "condition and needs" of that institution.

Discussing the economic and financial depression as the "end of an era of academic luxury," which left Columbia with a deficit of $293,567.41 at the end of the year June 30 last, President Butler declared that educated leadership is more needed than ever before.

Urges More Concentration.

The fundamental problem of the times, he held, is to find a means of bringing into harmonious balance "two parts of our economic mechanism, the technique of production and the technique of exchange." He called upon Columbia university to lead the attack on this problem and lamented the fact that "some of the great funds which have been left by private benefaction for the service of the public" are being dissipated over many fields instead of "concentrated in large amounts on one, two or three of the commanding problems" of this age.

More than ever before, Dr. Butler wrote in his report, governments and public bodies are turning to scholars for guidance. At the same time, he pointed out, they are asking why democracies are not more intelligent and high minded and asserting that the universities "should have made the great war impossible," and prevented, or at least greatly diminished the effects of the world-wide economic and financial depression."

Masses Retard Ideas.

"Unfortunate as it may be," Dr. Butler's report continued, "the university as a human institution and a human agency cannot achieve perfection, certainly not at a single bound across a few centuries. Ideas travel quickly enough in the upper and rarified air of scholarship and highly trained minds, but they move with the sluggish slowness of a glacier over and among the great masses of the population whose habits and whose prejudices are deeply ingrained and whose outlook on life is limited by the walls of their own gardens.

"Before the university can do much more than it is now doing, the elementary and the secondary school must bestir themselves really to educate the great mass of the populations and to leave off their dabbling in the muddy waters of the anti-philosophies and the pseudo-psychologies in which too many of these schools, in this land at least, are just now immersed."

TWO HOMES BOMBED AT TAYLORVILLE; SAID MINE WAGE TROUBLE

Taylorville, Ill., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Two Taylorville homes were damaged by bombs here tonight, marking the 12th bombing since coal mine wage war difficulties broke out in Christian county last September.

The houses damaged were owned by Harry Stevens and Harry Alexander. Neither was at home at the time and no one was injured.

The first blast occurred at the Alexander home about 5:30 p. m. The other was 10 minutes later. Police said they were without clews as to the identity of the bombers but attributed the violence to mine difficulties.

Parents Die in Flames on Xmas Morn; 2 Sons Escape

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MARKHAM, Ont., Dec. 25.—With a Christmas tree decorated and presents placed around in the living room, the Owen Graham home here caught fire early Christmas morning. Graham and his wife were burned to death. Two sons, Laurel, 11, and Lawrence, 7, sleeping on the ground floor, escaped through windows.

WOUNDED NITTI IS BETTER; WIFE PAYS HIM VISIT

The condition of Frank Nitti, boss of the remnants of the old Capone gang, who was shot three times by Detective Harry Lang of the mayor's office last week, was reported definitely improved at the Jefferson Park hospital yesterday.

Nitti was visited by his wife during the day. She was accompanied by her father, Dr. Gaetano Ronga, member of the hospital staff. Because of the improvement in Nitti's condition, Dr. Ronga said he would soon be able to remove the two bullets still in his body.

PAINTERS BEGIN TODAY ON STREET SIGNS FOR FAIR

Preparations will be started tomorrow to place marker signs at all of the 330 street and boulevard intersections of the south park system, Edward J. Kelly, president of the park board, said yesterday that the sign painting will be a part of the program to dress up the town for the World's Fair next June.

The street names will be painted on the pavement in black on a yellow background, following out the government standard color scheme. The signs will be L shaped.

SCORES OF XMAS CALLERS CHEER BOY BOMB VICTIM

For 17 year old "Bill" Koeppen, whose sight was destroyed when a bomb exploded in front of the home of Judge John McGoorty last September, Christmas was as festive an occasion as was possible for a boy in his condition. Scores of friends kept the telephone at his home, 4305 Oakenwald avenue, ringing continually, and he had a steady stream of callers, among whom was Judge McGoorty, who brought some gifts for Bill. His choicest present, a piano donated by a Chicago firm, had been received two days earlier. Bill already has taken two music lessons, for which he displays aptitude.

STATE MAY ASK LENIENCY FOR 2 BOY SLAYERS

Mother Defends Young Killer of Father.

Two prosecutors spent yesterday investigating two unrelated slayings that occurred on Christmas eve. In one a boy of 17 killed his father in defense of his mother. In the other a boy of 16 killed his brother in defense of his father. In both cases the authorities, after preliminary investigations, were inclined to believe the killings were justified and the boys should not be prosecuted.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller had charge of the investigation of the killing of Carl Christ Romer, 39 years old, owner of a fur shop at 4543 Sheridan road, who was stabbed to death by his son, Donald Vernon Romer, a senior at the Lane Technical High school. The tragedy occurred in the Romer apartment at 4537 Sheridan road.

"This is one of the saddest cases I ever encountered," said Prosecutor Mueller. "The boy is a decent sort. His mother and his grandmother, the mother of his father, both take his part. He said his father was a fine dad when sober. If the evidence at the inquest is the same as presented to me I would recommend that he should not be prosecuted.

Story of the Tragedy.

"It appears that Romer went home Christmas eve with a gift bottle of whisky. He spend the evening drinking.

"Late in the evening Romer said he was going out. His wife, Mrs. Sophie Romer, and his mother, Mrs. Ettie Romer, tried to stop him. The boy came home and heard his father cursing his mother and grandmother. Romer was beating his wife. The boy tried to help his mother and Romer tore his shirt off. Donald said, 'I wish I was big enough; I'd give you a good beating.' Romer, who was 6 feet tall and weighed 180, told the boy he'd remember that remark.

"Donald ran to a kitchen drawer and took out a carving knife. Romer was still struggling with his wife and the boy suddenly stabbed him."

Other Case Investigated.

The other case is that of Herbert Polchow, 16 years old, a pupil of the Blue Island High school, who was held at the Willow Springs station of the county highway police for shooting to death his brother, Charles Polchow Jr., 33 years old. The slaying occurred outside the home of Herbert's father, Charles Polchow Sr., 61 years old, at 107th street and Ridgeland avenue, Chicago Ridge. This case was investigated by Assistant State's Attorney Wilkie Ham, who sent young Polchow to the juvenile home pending the inquest tomorrow.

"There was a Christmas reunion at the home of the elder Polchow," Prosecuter Ham said. "Eleven children and grandchildren were present. Charles Polchow Jr. had been drinking. He came in with a shotgun and said he was going to kill about nine people.

"Herbert saw his father and brother rolling around on the ground outside the house still fighting for the shotgun. He ran into the house, came out with a small rifle, and fired once, killing Charles Jr. Every one present said he was justified in shooting in defense of his father."

Stabbed to Death by Stepson.

Yesterday Julius Diaglochocki, 39 years old, was fatally stabbed by his stepson, Edward Andrzejewski, 19 years old, as they sat at a Christmas dinner in their home at 1534 McHenry street. The youth fled. Mrs. Antonia Diaglochocki, Edward's mother, told the police that the stabbing occurred when her husband became intoxicated and berated her son.

RAINEY CLAIMS VOTES TO ELECT HIM AS SPEAKER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—With numerical control of the Democratic party in the next house resting with the northern and western Democrats, Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, claimed tonight that he would be elected speaker of that body in the next congress. He said he had been assured of 160 votes, which is three more than the 157 necessary to make him his party's caucus nominee.

There will be 313 Democrats in the next house of which 170 come from western and northern states, 50 from the border states, and 93 from the south. The attitude of the Democrats in the new house, Mr. Rainey said, would be to make the Democratic party national in scope and distribute some of the honors of office to states which have recently elected Democratic members.

He said that his strength in the speakership race had developed not only from this movement to distribute control but likewise from the seniority succession rule. He has served longer in the house than any of the other contesting candidates, having a record of fourteen terms.

SPARK FROM TOY TRAIN SETS FIRE TO BARCELONA STORE

BARCELONA, Spain, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Fire today destroyed the El Siglo department store, causing an estimated loss of more than $3,000,000 and throwing about 1,500 employés out of work. The store was considered the most important in Barcelona. Two firemen, a Red Cross operative and two clerks were hurt.

Included in the loss was more than a half million dollars' worth of Christmas toys. A spark from a toy electric train is believed to have started the fire.

Col. Francisco Macia, president of Catalonia, who was among the thousands of spectators, instructed the fire, Red Cross and police departments to remain until the danger to nearby buildings had passed. Lack of water handicapped firemen.

CHRISTMAS DEATH TOLL IS 130; AUTOS ACCOUNT FOR 92

BOY, 17, SHOT TO DEATH ON WAY TO MOVIE

A 17 year old boy was shot to death last night as he was on his way to attend a moving picture theater. He was Ralph Pisano of 2149 Flournoy street.

Pisano left his home at about 9 o'clock to go to the Wilson theater at Madison street and Western avenue. He was walking alone when, in front of 417 South Western avenue, a gunman crept up behind him, placed a revolver behind young Pisano's left ear, and fired. The boy fell dead and the slayer fled.

Shortly after the shooting, an unidentified youth notified Mrs. Mary Pisano, the slain boy's mother, that her son had been hurt in an automobile accident. She went to the Warren avenue police station accompanied by Vito Marzullo, Democratic captain of the 17th precinct of the 26th ward. Police said that Pisano was freed on a disorderly conduct charge in the Boys' court last Tuesday.

FIRST CHRISTMAS BABY IS A BOY; SECOND A GIRL

Chicago's first Christmas baby of 1932 was born at 12:15 o'clock yesterday morning to Mrs. Robert L. Feltinton, of 4512 Jackson boulevard. The baby, a boy, arrived at the Passavant hospital. His father is Robert L. Feltinton, president of the Chicago Retail Collection bureau.

Not long afterward, Christmas baby No. 2 arrived, but not at a hospital. The infant, a girl, was born in a police patrol of the Town Hall station, at Sunnyside and Clarendon avenues. The mother is Mrs. Marie Du Pont, 26 years old, of 843 Leland avenue, wife of Godfrey Du Pont, a salesman. Shortly after midnight Du Pont called police for aid, and Policeman Harry Klein and Oscar Munson responded in the patrol wagon. They were on their way to the nearest hospital when the baby was born. Mother and child were taken to the Lying-In hospital.

Mrs. Earl King, of 215 North Kildare avenue, presented her husband with a Christmas present in the form of twin boys, born early yesterday at the Presbyterian hospital.

4 Gunmen Rob 25 in Club at Christmas Celebration

Twenty-five members of the Rancho Athletic club at 2161 North Irving avenue, were celebrating Christmas yesterday when four gunmen entered the club rooms. The bandits lined the members against the wall, searched all of them and escaped with $200.

MEXICAN STATE MAY LET PRIESTS RENEW SERVICES

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Persistent rumors were current today in political circles at Jalapa that an understanding will soon be reached between the present governor and the Catholic priests to permit resumption of services in the state of Vera Cruz.

In October the legislature of the state of Vera Cruz approved a decree declaring all Catholic priests had lost their citizenship rights and empowering the governor to take over all Catholic church property and convert it to other uses.

A law was put into effect in Vera Cruz last summer limiting the number of priests to one for each 100,000 inhabitants, the strictest limitation in Mexico. Local persecution of priests followed upon the administration of the law by Gov. Tejeda. In many Mexican states laws limiting the number of services were passed when priests in Vera Cruz were deprived of their citizenship.

SHOW $30,000,000 EXPENDED BY U. S. IN CHICAGO AREA

Approximately $30,000,000 has been expended in the Chicago area during the last two years in the federal government's program to create employment through public works. In a report, prepared by the treasury department and forwarded to Assistant United States District Attorney Benjamin Landis, who handled the leases, Chicago is shown to have received the largest individual allotment in this area. The allotment was divided into $18,700,000 expended for buildings and $10,151,600 expended for real estate.

While many of the buildings have been completed, several projects, including the new federal building, are in the process of erection. This project, the cost of which is estimated at $15,000,000, will be completed next spring.

STEVE O'DONNELL IN FATAL CRASH; VICTIM IS GIRL, 17

Young Wife Crushed to Death by Auto.

A 17 year old wife was killed last night in a collision at 55th street and Cicero avenue between two automobiles, one of which was driven by Steve O'Donnell, 1754 West Garfield boulevard, brother of Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, notorious south side beer boss. Two other persons were injured and nine others were bruised.

The dead girl was Mrs. Mary Petkiewicz, of 5815 West 64th street. The injured are Mrs. Heddy Kowandy, 44 years old, of 5707 Justine street, Steve O'Donnell's mother-in-law, and Mrs. Bernice Dunne, 30, of Berwyn, his sister-in-law. They were taken to the South Town hospital suffering from bone fractures.

Occurs at Dark Corner.

The accident occurred at a dark corner. There were six pasengers in each car. O'Donnell swerved sharply and the other car turned over, pinning Mrs. Petkiewicz beneath. In O'Donnell's auto were Mrs. Kowandy; her husband, Bartholomew; Mrs. Dunne; Mrs. Dunne's daughter, Doris, 6, and O'Donnell's son, Steve Jr., 3.

The other car contained the young wife; her husband, Casimir, 21, who was driving; his brother, Alex; Anna Gucinovich, 19, of 5710 64th place; Adeline Russis, 18, and Alcy Neal, 16, both of 6036 South Mason avenue.

Patrolman Is Killed.

Patrolman Richard J. Kealy, 67 years old, of the Deering police, who had expected to retire from the department on a pension on New Year's day, died early yesterday after being struck a hit and run motorist.

Kealy lost his life because he started work 20 minutes early. He was working on a shift from midnight to 8 a. m., but at 11:40 p. m. Saturday reported to his station from a call box on his beat at Archer avenue and Halsted street. As he stepped away from the patrol box, a small sedan struck him and sped away. He died a short time later.

Policeman Kealy, whose wife died recently, lived at 6045 Talman avenue. Three daughters and one son survive. They are Mrs. Ellen Smitana and Mrs. Julia Collis of Chicago and Mrs. Agnes Murray of New York City and James Kealy of Chicago.

William J. Chapp, 31 years old, 950 Columbian avenue, Oak Park, was killed yesterday when his automobile skidded and struck a lamp post at Division street and Cicero avenue.

A stoplight turned red as Chapp approached the crossing. He set his brakes suddenly, causing the skid which cost his life. His family said that he had returned home at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning from a Christmas eve party, taken his automobile and driven away immediately, without saying where he was bound.

James Taylor, 60 years old, 10440 South Campbell avenue, was instantly killed by an automobile early yesterday at Western avenue and 144th street, Harvey. He was returning from a Christmas eve party. Albert Herman, 512 State street, Calumet City, driver of the car, was also on his way home from a party.

Death Toll at 1,098.

These deaths and seven more raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 1,098. The other victims:

Mrs. Mary Madesi, 76 years old, of 1002 North Wood street. Killed by the car of Samuel Selpp, 712 Diversey parkway, at Addison street and California avenue, as she was homeward bound from a Christmas dinner with her daughter.

Peter Getes, 33 years old, of 5650 South Wells street. Died in the South Town hospital. He was hit by a car in front of 4257 South Ashland avenue Saturday night. The driver was Ben Weiner, 1853 13th street.

Charles Nansen, 54 years old, of 1646 Euclid avenue, Chicago Heights. Died in St. James' hospital, the victim of a hit and run driver.

Thomas Tarezon, 16 years old, 1925 Superior street. Struck by an automobile in front of 1837 Chicago avenue. Policeman Daniel Laughlin of the West North avenue station, who took the boy to the hospital, was held, although he said another car had struck Tarezon.

Arthur Gotthans, 79 years old, 5032 West 22d street, Cicero. Died in the county hospital of injuries suffered on Dec. 21 when he was struck at 22d street and 50th avenue by a car driven by G. W. Holliday, 404 Poplar avenue, Elmhurst.

Anton Czech, 63 years old, of 1461 Fry street, a shoe repairer. Fatally injured at Augusta boulevard and Noble street by a car driven by Theodore Tesch, 28 years old, 5944 Chicago avenue.

Unidentified man, about 45 years old. Struck at Western avenue and Warren boulevard by an auto driven by Harold Marks, 546 Roosevelt road, former assistant city prosecutor.

Two Victims Identified.

The body of a woman who was killed by an automobile at Division and Halsted streets on Christmas eve was identified as that of Mrs. Mary E. Miller, 38 years old, of 1525 North La Salle street. The identification was made by her brother, C. P. Coyle, 217 North Clark street. Calling at her home with Christmas gifts, and finding no one there, he investigated until he found her dead.

The body of a man who was killed by a car in front of 5537 22d street, Cicero, on Christmas eve, was identified as that of Theodore Zielke, 50 years old, 1848 South 55th avenue, Cicero. The driver of the car was Joseph Patence, 2245 Emerson avenue.

HOOVERS' CHRISTMAS QUIETLY SPENT; EAT AT ESTATE ON ISLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brunswick, Ga., Dec. 25.—[Off Sapelo Island, Ga.]—[Special.]—Christmas day was in every sense a day of rest as far as President Hoover is concerned. He spent the forenoon and part of the afternoon on the Sequoia. Tonight he is eating his Christmas dinner as the guest of Howard E. Coffin at the latter's estate on Sapelo Island, a few miles of secluded seaside country where the four Altamaha rivers enter the sea.

The day was overcast and the weather prophets in the Brunswick area are forecasting rain accompanied by rather chilly winds tomorrow. This would probably mean that the day, as was yesterday, will be a fishless one.

There was no celebration on the Sequoia by the President, Mrs. Hoover, Justice and Mrs. Stone, Senator and Mrs. Austin, Dr. Boone, Lawrence Richey, and Mark Sullivan. The party probably will go to Florida.

Several hundred telegrams were delivered to the President this morning. In most instances they were Christmas greetings. They came from all parts of the United States as well as many foreign countries.

TWO POLICE HURT, AUTOIST SHOT IN HOODLUM CHASE

Two men and two girls stole a car in the loop last night, ran into a pedestrian, and led pursuers in a wild chase through the loop. A policeman was injured in the pursuit. An hour later two men and two women in an automobile, possibly the same group, deliberately ran down another policeman after one of the men had shot a motorist.

The loop chase started at Dearborn and Randolph streets when the two couples in the stolen car passed a stop light and slightly injured an unidentified pedestrian. Policeman William Cantwell commandeered a taxicab. Both cars raced through downtown streets and then turned in Lake street to Halsted street, where Policeman Cantwell was flung from the running board of the commandeered cab as it turned a corner. He was slightly hurt. The fugitives escaped.

Early this morning Earl Cease, 26 years old, of 1135 North Hamlin avenue, remonstrated with two men and two girls in another car who refused to let him drive past them at Grand and Central avenues. One of the men shot Cease in the arm. Policemen Franklin Smith and Arthur Linderman of the bureau of identification were at the intersection. Smith stepped out and showed his star. The driver of the car containing the girls drove into him, knocking him down, and then sped away. Linderman fired at them. The hoodlums returned the fire and vanished.

MOTHER OF TWO IS ATTACKED BY GUNMAN IN AUTO

Mrs. Margaret Druno, 20 years old, of Rhinelander, Wis., was dragged into an automobile near Leavitt street and Chicago avenue last night and attacked by a gunman, she reported to the police. She is the mother of two children. Mrs. Druno is in Chicago visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary O'Toole, 2143 Huron street. She started out last night to attend a neighborhood movie. A car drew up beside her and the armed man, about 23 years old, forced her into the car. He released her in the 2200 block in Ohio street.

FALL CAUSES DEATH.

Charles Cunningham, 68 years old, 1510 East 52d street, died yesterday of injuries received two weeks ago when he fell down a flight of stairs.

A BULLET PROOF VEST SAVES THIEF SHOT BY POLICE

A bullet proof vest yesterday saved James Gerven, 18 years old, 1257 Macedonia court, from injury when he was fired on by two policemen as he fled from the A. Starr Best & Co. store at 11 North Wabash avenue, where he snatched an overcoat after smashing a display window. One of the bullets struck him in the back, but it was stopped by the vest and merely bruised his skin.

The theft was witnessed by a watchman, who called the Central police. A radio message was received by Policemen Matt Henderson and James Keating in a flivver squad two blocks from the store. They reached the store as Gerven was escaping. The policemen fired several shots. After a chase of several blocks, witnessed by a few Christmas day workers, Gerven was captured at Wabash avenue and Madison streets.

BOLIVIA HALLOWS CATHEDRAL — 100 YEARS IN BUILDING

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The huge cathedral, the construction of which has been going on for nearly a century, was dedicated at midnight with the Te Deum, the hymn sung at occasions of special thanksgiving.

It is said that the cathedral has the largest organ in South America, with 64 registers and 4,500 pipes.

The edifice cost more than a half million dollars.

Robbers Raid Villa Rica, Scene of Murder in 1930

Two gunmen early yesterday held up Miss Mary Carey, 559 Arlington place, cashier in the Villa Rica cafe, 2572 North Clark street, and escaped with $55. The Villa Rica was the scene of the murder in 1930 of Chris Patras, then the manager. Frank Bell and Richard Sullivan were later electrocuted for the crime.

LINCOLN PARK'S COSTS CUT HALF IN THREE YEARS

Annual Report Shows Savings of Millions.

The commissioners of Lincoln park, headed by President Warren Wright, have decreased operation and maintenance costs of the system by more than 50 per cent in their three year regime. This was accomplished in spite of the fact that the area under their jurisdiction was almost doubled during the period.

Highlights of the achievement of the park board and its officers were disclosed yesterday in Mr. Wright's annual report to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson.

When the board took office on Jan. 2, 1930, the average number of employes was 1,300 and the pay roll $231,000 a month. According to Mr. Wright, the employes now number less than 800 and the pay roll is now $95,000 a month.

Save $4,000,000 in Wages.

The saving in pay rolls, based on the foregoing comparison, amounted to nearly $4,000,000 in the last three years.

H. Otto Weege is superintendent of the park system. Politicians on the north side have reported that there are no political jobs to be obtained from Mr. Weege.

Mr. Wright said that at the outset the commissioners adopted the policy of encouraging competitive bidding on purchases and contracts, making awards to the lowest responsible bidder. He estimated the resulting saving at another $4,000,000.

The park revenue has been curtailed because of slow tax collections, but the commissioners have been able to meet all requirements in the payment of interest and retirement of bonds and tax anticipation warrants.

$4,701,091 Paid on Bonds.

Payment on bond obligations totaled $4,701,091 in the last three years. For the same period redemption of tax warrants and payment of their accrued interest amounted to $5,661,882.

The park treasury has on hand at present more than $3,000,000 worth of bonds and interest coupons to be redeemed by the state. The money was advanced from the corporate fund and represents a clear saving of that amount.

Mr. Wright called attention to the reorganization of the police department under Capt. James U. Sammis. The "fixing" of arrest tickets for motor vehicle violations has been abolished, Mr. Wright said.

More than 600 acres were added to the park system during the period. The northern boundary was extended a mile and a half to Foster avenue, providing room for additional bathing beaches, tennis courts, baseball and football fields and a new yacht harbor.

A new nine-hole golf course, with No. 1 tee at Wayeland avenue, was opened this year.

Other Improvements Listed.

Other improvements listed in the report included a new fieldhouse, rehabilitation of nearly all park buildings, increased facilities for Belmont harbor, rehabilitation of shore protection and breakwater, and extension and rehabilitation of drives and boulevards, as well as park lighting and water systems.

At the request of taxpayers in the district, the commissioners acquired a site for a new small park at a cost of $170,303 at Granville and Ravenswood avenues and named it after Gov. Emmerson.

The commissioners of Lincoln park include Sheldon Clark, Edwin L. Read, George W. Blomgren, George W. Dixon, Thomas W. Gilmore, and Oscar A. Reum. William H. Beckman is attorney for the board, and Louis Nettelhorst, secretary.

99 Robberies Committed in 32 Hours; Loot Is Small

In the thirty-two hour period ending at 2 o'clock Christmas morning 99 robberies and 7 purse snatchings were reported to the police. The crimes were the work of 230 men and three women. Their gain was slight as the loot averaged between $2 and $3 for each crime.

FIGHT LOOMS IN PHILIPPINES ON SELF-RULE OFFER

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Possibility of a bitter fight in the insular legislature over the question of accepting the congressional offer of independence, should President Hoover sign the Hawes-Cutting bill, was seen here today.

Numerous legislators have expressed themselves as in favor of the amended measure. Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, while declining to state his position publicly, has been reported as asserting privately that he would fight the Hawes-Cutting measure with every means in his power.

Definitely lined up against Quezon is a group of fifteen legislators headed by Francisco Verona, acting floor leader of the house. This group, proponents of the amended Hawes-Cutting bill, cabled the Philippine independence mission at Washington expressing confidence in the measure.

'SEEK PROSPERITY, TRANQUILLITY,' KING TO EMPIRE

LONDON, Dec. 25.—(AP)—From his armchair in Sandringham house, King George today broadcast a brief Christmas message to his subjects throughout the British empire.

He said in part:

"It may be that our future will lay upon us more than one stern test. Our past will have taught us how to meet it unshaken.

"For the present, the work to which we all are equally bound is to arrive at reasoned tranquillity within our borders, to regain prosperity without self-seeking, and to carry with us those whom the burden of the past years has disheartened.

"My life's aim has been to serve as I might towards those ends. Your loyalty, your confidence in me has been my abundant reward."

18 Freed by Spain for Part in August Revolt

SEVILLE, Spain, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The government order releasing officers implicated in the August revolt arrived this afternoon but involved only 13 men, instead of 41 as had been anticipated. Families of those who were released awaited them at the prison doors with Christmas greetings.

TOTAL VET COST OF 5 NATIONS IS LESS THAN U. S.

Payments in 1932 Exceed Billion Dollars.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—The United States, which had 360,000 men killed or wounded in the world war, is now footing a veterans' relief bill that in one year figures to 20 per cent more than the combined veterans' payments of England, France, Germany, Italy and Canada, whose dead and wounded totaled sixteen and a half million men.

The 1932 cost of veterans' relief in the United States is more than a billion dollars, 25 per cent of the national expenditures, and one-quarter out of every dollar of taxes collected by the government. The combined cost of veterans' relief in England, France, Germany, Italy and Canada is slightly more than 800 millions.

Cost Grows Yearly.

An analysis of reports compiled by various official and semi-official agencies during recent weeks shows that the 1932 bill for veterans' relief in Great Britain was about 175 millions, or 5.8 per cent of the national expenditures. France is paying veterans' benefits totaling 287 millions, or 17.5 per cent of her total expenditures. Italy's bill for veterans in 1932 amounted to about 70 millions, while Canada is paying her ex-service men a total of 61 millions.

Since the war the annual cost of veterans' relief has shown a steady decline in all of the combatant nations except the United States, where the yearly bill has grown by leaps and bounds. In 1911 this government was paying its veterans about 163 million dollars a year. In 1921 the total had jumped to 645 millions, and since then, under a maze of legislative acts, it has jumped to 835 millions in 1930, one billion 21 millions in 1931, and one billion 106 million in 1932.

14 Billion Spent on Veterans.

A recent report by the United States Chamber of Commerce disclosed the startling fact that in the fiscal year 1932 alone the United States government paid veterans an amount equal to one-fourteenth of all the benefits so administered in the preceding century and a half. Since 1790, the chamber's report said, the United States has paid about 14 billion dollars to veterans of all war, and one billion of that sum was paid out in 1932 alone.

Representative John M. Nelson [Rep., Wis.], former chairman of the house committee on invalid pensions, recently directed the compilation of a report on the problem of veterans' benefits for presentation to the committee. This document has not hitherto been made public.

Others Pay Only War Injured.

The report disclosed that in every major combatant nation of the world war, with the exception of the United States, pensions and compensation are paid only to ex-service men who can prove their disability "is attributable to or aggravated by military service during the war." Only in Germany, where the actual service connection of disability is assumed as "probable," is there an approach to deviation from this principle.

In the United States, on the other hand, veterans' compensation laws are so broad af interpretation that veterans must obtain only a perfunctory medical examination as proof that their disability is attributable to war service. The terminology of the laws of this country is that the injury be "incurred in line of duty."

Likewise, development of several diseases, notably tuberculosis and spinal meningitis, is "presumed" under the laws of the United States to be "conclusive" of service connection. Thus, any veteran who is shown to have had a condition of active tuberculosis or spinal meningitis prior to Jan. 1, 1925, developing a 10 per cent degree of disability, is presumed to have acquired his disability while in the service between April 6, 1917, and July 2, 1921, and consequently is eligible for disability compensation.

In such a case the veteran would be entitled to $50 a month for the rest of his life even though the tubercular condition was cured and the ex-service man engaged in normal occupation. In 1931 there were nearly 21,000 veterans rated "no disability" by the veterans' bureau, drawing more than a million dollars monthly under the classification "tuberculosis." They received $50 a month for a "presumptive" disability which had been cured, while under the same laws the widow of a veteran killed in action, with two children to support, was entitled to but $46 a month.

Pensions in Other Countries.

The basic pension paid by the United States to a totally disabled man is $1,200 a year. In England the comparable payment is $520, with an additional $130 for married men. France pays $286.40, with no additional amount for married men, while Italy provides $214.60, with nothing additional, and Canada $900, with $300 in addition if the man is married. In all countries additional amounts are provided if the ex-soldier has dependent children to support.

The chamber of commerce report disclosed that between 1919 and 1929 the number of veterans receiving disability awards from the government jumped from 27,517 to 262,138. They increased in 1930 to 279,539; in 1931 to 299,288, and in 1932 to 328,658.

"These figures," said the report, "suggest that vital disability compensation is not now restricted to men who suffered disability in war service."

Lists 7 Points in Report.

The report compiled by Congressman Nelson recommended seven steps looking to the elimination of a part of the huge burden of veterans' relief. They are as follows:

"1. Service pensions or compensation—There should be no further liberalization of servie pensions, and all future pensions or disability compensation should be granted only for disability determined by administrative agencies as incurred in or aggravated by military service.

"2. Medical treatment—Medical care and treatment, either outpatient or in hospital, should be provided only for veterans suffering from diseases or injuries determined by administrative agencies to be incurred in or aggravated by military service. The provisions of section 202 world war veterans' act, 1924, as amended authorizing hospitalization for veterans with conditions not attributable to military service, should be repealed.

"3. Retirement—No further legislation should be enacted liberalizing the present provisions for the retirement of emergency officers.

Equal Treatment.

"4. Bonuses—No further liberalization of the existing adjusted compensation provisions should be enacted, and all legislation granting bonuses or other gratuities, except for extraordinary meritorious services in individual cases, should be avoided in future.

"5. Equal treatment of veterans—Veteran relief legislation which accords with the principles just enunciated should be so amended as to provide the same benefits for deaths and for equal disabilities due to service, to all beneficiaries, regardless of time or sphere of such service.

"6. Special pension legislation—All applications for special pensions should be filed with the veterans administration in order that the equities of the claims can be determined by a fair and impartial investigation, and reported by the administrator of veterans affairs to congress for its guidance.

"7. Preference of veterans in civil employment—Preference to veterans to civil service positions should begin to operate only when, after having fully and without favor met the educational and other requirements demanded of other applicants, the veterans' names should have been placed on the lists of persons eligible for appointment."

CRIMINAL COURT BUILDING WARS ON CAR THIEVES

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 83; recovered, 57; stripped, 19 [from police records for the 24 hour period ending at midnight Saturday.]

Officials of the state's attorney's office and other offices in the Criminal court building are banding together to protect their automobiles from thieves, it was learned yesterday. They have under consideration a plan to restrict parking in front of the building to officials and to assign a special policeman to guard duty.

The action follows the theft of the car of Assistant State's Attorney Robert Donigan. The car was taken from in front of the Criminal court building on Christmas eve.

Records show that the automobiles of several other men employed in the building have been stolen there in recent months. Among the victims were Deputy Chief of Detectives William Blaul, whose car was taken when he was assistant chief investigator for the state's attorney, and former Assistant State's Attorney Richard Jackson.

Santa Claus' Cigaret Sets His Beard Afire!

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The kiddies got an extra thrill out of S. H. Strong's impersonation of Santa Claus. He lit a cigaret and his false beard caught fire. Treated at emergency hospital physicians for burns about the face, he resumed the rôle.

COURT WILL GET COMPLETE AUDIT ON ILLINOIS LIFE

A report on the complete audit of the Illinois Life Insurance company will be presented to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson this week, probably Wednesday or Thursday, agents of Gen. Abel Davis, the receiver, said yesterday.

The report will show in detail the relations between the life insurance company and the Lincoln Securities company, both of which were controlled by James W. Stevens and his sons. Loans totaling $1,160,000 were made by the Illinois Life to the Lincoln Securities company, a dummy corporations, and this money is believed to have been used in assisting the Stevens and La Salle hotels. The insurance company has $13,000,000 invested in frozen obligations of these hotels, which the Stevens family also controlled.

These revelation were made in a preliminary report submitted to the court by the receiver, but no complete audit of the insurance company's books has been made. A survey of the company's condition was made by Fackler & Breiber for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, after which a loan of $1,000,000 was obtained from the R. F. C., but this report was confidential.

Gen. Davis expects to receive bids for a reinsurance of the company's 70,000 policyholders after the audit is completed.

Waters, 26, office manager for a Kansas City lubricating company, was injured fatally by the car of a hit and run driver near Plattsburg, Mo., last night as he stopped to put chains on his own machine on the way to the home of his fiancee, Miss Eleanor Phillips.

VICTIM RETURNS; KIDNAP GANG'S ARREST SOUGHT

Spring Valley Merchant Tells Story.

Spring Valley, Ill., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Fred De Filippi, owner of warehouses here, at LaSalle, Peru, and Ottawa, returned to his home today after an absence of more than two weeks, stating that he had been held captive in Chicago by a gang of kidnapers.

His release followed shortly after the announcement of State's Attorney Joseph Skinner of Bureau county that if De Filippi were not freed he would arrest five men suspected of the kidnaping. Mr. Skinner said tonight some of the members of the gang are known, and that arrests may be expected shortly.

De Filippi said that two men approached him on Dec 9 and took him to his warehouse in Peru. There they made several telephone calls, then blindfolded him and placed him in an automobile, in which they rode for several hours. He was taken to a house, which he believes was in Chicago and turned over to some other men.

From time to time, De Filippi said, his blindfold was removed and he was forced, under threats of death, to write to his brother, Pino, and to friends, asking them to pay ransom for his release. The demanded ransom some was gradually scaled down from $50,000 to $5,000.

BULGAR BOMBER KILLED TRYING TO BLOW UP RAILS

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 25.—(AP)—A man attempting to place bombs on the railway line near the station here today was surprised by railway police and before he could escape one of the bombs he had put in place exploded and killed him.

An official news agency communique identified him only as Ghevheli. Another bomb, which had not exploded, was found near the body.

The communique said he wore the uniform of Bulgarian irregulars.

CHURCHES DRAW XMAS CROWDS IN MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Extraordinarily large crowds in the few Mexico City churches that were permitted to have services today distinguished this Christmas from previous celebrations. Masses starting at midnight drew many from the holiday crowd.

The government chose officially to disregard Christmas as such, but granted all governmental employés a 10 day "year-end" holiday and established a "year-end" fair in the principal downtown streets. Because of the holidays, many persons motored to resorts.

Cabaret and hotel dance floors were crowded to capacity until dawn today. There were fireworks displays at midnight.

Three Burned to Death as Gas Tank of Auto Explodes

Neon, Ky., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Claude Bowling, 18; Wayne Bowling, 19, and Bernice Bowling, 20, were burned to death tonight when the fuel tank of their automobile exploded.

Last night Brighton Park police arrested him at his home at the request of Sheriff Sid Howell of Bleckley county, Georgia. Jalloway is wanted there, the message stated, for a $14,000 bank robbery. Jalloway told the police that he had been down south recently, but was not involved in any holdups.

SBARBARO SEEKS COHEN'S MASTER IN CHANCERY JOB

Hard Times Put G. O. P. in Mad Scramble.

Political hard times have hit the Republicans of Cook county so severely, that they have begun to scramble for any sort of official post they see open to them. For the first time in the memory of old timers, for example, they have begun real contests for the appointments of masters in chancery of the Circuit and Superior courts.

A succession of Democratic victories topped off by the landslide of Nov. 8 left the G. O. P. almost jobless so far as elective offices are concerned and with nothing to look forward to in the way of appointments to federal, state, county or city positions. A survey of the offices open to them was the result.

Court Appointees.

Ordinarily little attention is paid to the selection of masters in chancery. These are fee offices filled by each of the two courts as a whole, but the practice has grown up of permitting each Circuit and Superior judge to name one master. The appointments are for two years and some of the terms have expired. The contests in progress involve these places.

One of the tests of strength centers around whether Archie H. Cohen, the master now serving in the Circuit court upon the nomination of Judge Kickham Scanlan, shall be replaced by John Sbarbaro, former municipal judge who was defeated for reelection in the November landslide.

In that election Sbarbaro carried the indorsement of the Chicago Bar association. His backers on the north side, where he lives, say they are boosting him for the mastership partly as a means of grooming him for Circuit judge nomination next June. With his record in the state's attorney's office before he went on the Municipal bench they consider him certain of nomination.

Line Up Indorsements.

His supporters say they have lined up indorsements for him from a majority of the county committee starting with all the ward committeemen from the north side and including representatives of several factions. The north siders are Charles E. Peace, Charles G. Burmeister, Thomas O. Wallace, William H. Feingenbutz, Oscar F. Nelson, John J. Hoellen, John A. Massen, William A. Burmeister and Louis Nettelhorst.

South siders supporting Sbarbaro are Congressman Oscar DePriest, Charles Krutekoff, John Leonard East, Ernest M. Cross, William S. Finucane, James W. Breen, Arthur F. Golk, William E. Reid, W. J. Balmer and James L. Brogan. The west siders listed for Sbarbaro are William V. Pacelli, Harry A. Steinmeyer, James Vignola, William M. Garrison, Daniel A. Roberts, John T. Dempsey, Francis A. Horrigan, Charles J. McGowan and James C. Moreland.

Unusual Activity.

Never, say the old timers, has there been such an extensive political activity in connection with the appointment of a master in chancery. The incumbent, Cohen, is classified as from the camp of Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, and his followers among the ward committeemen are standing by him for reappointment.

Judge Scanlan has not indicated when he will make his selection.

GAS INDUSTRY SIGNS CONTRACT FOR FAIR SPACE

The nation's gas industry will be represented with an exhibit at the World's Fair next year, Robert Harper, vice president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, said the display will occupy 4,000 square feet in the exposition's home planning hall, at 26th street and Leif Ericsson drive.

A meeting of the exhibition committee of the American Gas association, which is sponsoring the exhibit, will be held in New York after the first of the year, Mr. Harper said, to decide on an exhibition plan which will best show the production and distribution of natural and artificial gas and the story of its development.

The contract for the space is the twelfth signed during the week and brings the amount of exhibit space and special exhibit buildings contracted for to $4,735,550. Concession contracts providing for expenditures of an additional $4,200,000 have been signed, bringing the expenditures contracted for to nearly $9,000,000, according to exposition officials.

Dispatches from Buenos Aires said Argentina has decided to participate.

REPORT OF QUAKE LASTING 2 HOURS HEARD IN LONDON

LONDON, Dec. 25.—(AP)—J. J. Shar, seismologist at the West Bromwich observatory, reported an "extraordinarily severe earthquake" 4,560 miles away early today.

He said it started at 2:15 a. m. and reached its peak at 2:45 a. m. The quake was either in Mongolia or in the West Indies, he said, and lasted two hours. The needle of the seismograph here moved 13 inches during the disturbance.

Vienna Reports Quake.

VIENNA, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The seismograph in the Central Institute for Meteorology and Geodynamics reported at 2:15 a. m. today [8:15 p. m. C. S. T., Saturday] an earthquake of "catastrophic intensity" at a distance of 9,300 milometers.

Quake Felt in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 25.—(AP)—A dispatch from San Cristobal, capital of Chiapas province, said an extremely strong earthquake was felt there at 5:57 a. m. today. No damage was reported. This was the third quake felt in central Chiapas this month.

$27.50 AND $37.50

Doesn't a brand new, rich Kynoch Saxony, at $37.50, sound like a rare bargain?

Still, it is merely typical of the values. Dress coats, ulsters, town ulsters, even some of our famous DEERPATH coats will be found in the selection. Heavy worsteds, deep nap fleeces, plain weaves, over-plaids and popular Glen plaids in subdued tones.

Needless to say, we made use of every possible price advantage—and we're passing the saving on to you.

This offer comes at the time of year when most men consider older coats real bargains when marked at these figures. But these are NEW coats, highly desirable, fashionably designed and magnificently tailored in our own factory and in other leading establishments, all made our way from choice woolens, many from famous British looms.

Although the size range is complete, we do not have every fabric, color and model in every size. So we'll be looking for you EARLY.

BOGAN BOOSTS SCHOOL BUDGET BY $1,316,434

Superintendent Asks for 100 More Teachers.

The cost of instruction in the Chicago schools will be increased by $1,316,434.82 if the board of education accepts the request of the superintendent. Superintendent William J. Bogan has asked for an appropriation of $37,663,895.82 for instruction in all branches, in contrast to $36,347,461 in the 1932 school budget.

Totals on the proposed appropriations were disclosed yesterday by School Auditor Harry Brackett. The auditor's office is preparing revised estimates for the school board following a general trimming by department heads of their figures in the tentative 1933 budget of 80 million dollars.

Bogan Raises Budget.

Mr. Bogan requested the auditor to include additional appropriations of $200,000 for instruction in the senior high schools and $100,000 for the junior high schools.

A new senior high school teacher starts with a basic salary of $2,000. On this basis Mr. Bogan's proposed expenditure would provide 100 new teachers. There are 70 more senior high school teachers in the system at present than there were at budget making time a year ago.

The proposed expenditure for junior high school instruction would add 55 new teachers, calculating on the basis of $1,800 the starting basic salary for a teacher in this classification.

Mr. Bogan has stated that classes are overcrowded in the high schools and additional teachers are needed. The enrollment in the senior high schools this fall was 6,000 more than during the school opening the year previous.

Instruction Budget.

Appropriations for instruction in the 1933 budget are compared with the proposed appropriations for 1933 in the table which follows:

Instructional branch.	1932.—Appropriations—	1933.
College—
Chgo. Normal	$ 227,848.00	$ 363,963.00
Crane Junior	496,653.00	531,924.00
Schools—
Continuation	231,045.00	236,315.80
Senior high	10,711,553.00	11,432,493.13
Junior high	3,329,006.50	3,680,545.60
Elementary	20,936,290.50	20,799,556.36
Evening	219,500.00	343,000.00
Additional for salaries, supplies and equipment	73,346.00	454,000.00
Totals	$36,347,461.00	$37,663,895.88

The request for an additional $300,000 for high school teachers is reflected in the last item.

The increase of $25,071 in the proposed appropriation for Crane college is caused by the addition of certain classes. These classes had been cut out of the 1932 budget.

Ethel Barrymore Is Better After Having Pneumonia

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Attending physicians said today Ethel Barrymore would be able to leave her bed "within a few days." She has been ill with pneumonia for almost a month.

GOV. ROOSEVELT'S ADVISERS GIVEN POLITICAL VIEWS

Cleveland, O., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Technicians will arise in the science of politics because "much of what is called knowledge in political science" is "cockeyed," in the opinion of Prof. Raymond Moley of Columbia university.

Prof. Moley, adviser to President Elect Roosevelt during the election campaign, observed Christmas at the home of his mother, Mrs. Agnes Fairchild Moley, in suburban Berea.

Political technicians "haven't been called on much in the past, but, as I see it, it isn't the fault of the political leaders," he said.

"I haven't yet found a politician who would ignore reasonable and reasonably proferred information and advice.

"The trouble with much of what is considered knowledge in political science is that it cannot be used. Its premises and conclusions are cockeyed."

Prof. Moley described himself as merely an "instrument to make available knowledge and information within my field" during the campaign.

He is not a theorist, he said, because "a really informed man in the field of political science is a practical man in every sense of the word."

BOLIVIAN TROOPS BEATEN DURING ATTACK ON FORT

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The ministry of war issued a bulletin today saying that Bolivian forces had attacked Fort Corrales in the Gran Chaco and had been compelled to retire in disorderly fashion after a four and a half hour battle Saturday morning.

A pledge of a 24 hour Christmas armistice on the Gran Chaco battle front was given by the governments of Bolivia and Paraguay to Pope Pius Friday. Both agreed hostilities cease from 10 p. m. Saturday to 10 p. m. Sunday.

MRS. FLORENCE K. DUPEE WEDS IN CALIFORNIA

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Florence Kennett Dupee, a member of Coronado and San Diego society circles, and George Burnham, representative elect from the 30th California congressional district, were married at noon today in Christ Episcopal church, Coronado.

Mrs. Burnham has been identified with many charitable and civic movements in San Diego. She is a sister of Mrs. Frederick Holbrook Rawson of Chicago.

Burnham, a Republican and former banker, is facing a contest filed recently by Claude Chandler, Democratic candidate for congress in the November election, who asserts that the count of votes was inaccurate. On the face of the returns Burnham won by several hundred votes.

PREDICT FRENCH 'DECREE LAW' FOR DEBT PAYMENT

Would Let Premier Act on Overdue Interest.

PARIS, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Forecasts that France may temporarily adopt a system of "decree laws" as a means of expediting national affairs were heard here today with the suggestion that, if introduced, this system might provide a method of settling the defaulted payment of interest on debts due the United States.

Apparently the government has taken no action on the question of decree laws, although persons close to the government have been discussing it as a possibility.

It was pointed out that such a move might permit Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour to pay America when he believes the spirit and the letter of the ideas in the chamber of deputies have been met or are likely to be met and without specifically referring the question to parliament.

Hoover to Stand Pat.

Dispatches from Washington, D. C., said that President Hoover plans to take no further initiative in the debts situation and that Ambassador Walter E. Edge will merely be instructed to try to persuade France to pay the interest as negotiations in other directions might impinge on prerogatives of President Elect Roosevelt.

Newspapers also gave prominence to the report that Norman H. Davis, who has been the American emissary to the arms conference in Geneva, will act as a liaison official between President Hoover and President Elect Roosevelt to assure continuity in handling foreign affairs.

Significance is seen by the French press in statements attributed to Col. E. M. House, prominent Democrat, in which he advocated settlement of the debts question and pleaded that in disarmament nations must get the impression that their soil will be safe against attack. The national security of France and other countries against invasion in any system or organization for peace has long been a shibboleth with Paul-Boncour at Geneva. It was cited as the only basis on which France could make big reductions in her armed forces.

Herriot Attacked.

The Nationalist journal, Des Debats, commenting on the speech former Premier Herriot made at Lyons yesterday in which he said he would continue his fight for the payment of the debt installment of $19,261,432 due the United States on Dec. 15, says the former premier is talking too much and is now spoiling the splendor of his downfall.

The newspaper declares Herriot should go into retirement. It attacks Herriot for allegedly abandoning the reparations matter at Lausanne without the certainty of equivalent concessions from America.

U. S. FIGURES TELL ILLINOIS FARM LAND'S DECLINE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics has reported that the value of Illinois farm land has shrunk from an average of 160 per cent of the 1912-'14 value in 1920, to 66 per cent of that same value for 1932.

The shrinkage, however, has been gradual since 1920, as follows, by percentage: 1920, 160, and 1925, 115; 1926, 109; 1927, 99; 1929, 95; 1930, 91; 1931, 80; 1932, 66.

In this the state has been below the average for the same period, inasmuch as the bureau estimated that all lands in the east north central section which is composed of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, was, by percentage and based on the same 1912-'14 value: 1920, 161; 1925, 116, 1926, 111; 1927, 104; 1928, 100; 1929, 96; 1930, 87; 1932, 73.

The percentage of farm owners who lost their farms in Illinois during 1932 was 2.98 as against the section's percentage of 2.78.

Estimated real estate tax per acre on Illinois farm land has increased as the farmers' income decreased, the report continued. In 1913 the average tax per acre was 49 cents, while in 1930, it was 1.16 per acre. This steadily mounting figure, however, has been below that of other states, inasmuch as the average tax per acre in 1931 on Michigan land was $1.34; that in Indiana, $1.41; Ohio, $1.36; Wisconsin, $1.07. The rate of increase by percentage, as compared with that of 1913, is, for Illinois, 235; for the region, 240.

TYPOS WARNED OF COMMUNIST FOES OF UNIONS

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Warning that a communist group is "parading in our midst under the guise of a political party," and whose sole purpose it "is to disrupt and destroy the union," was issued today to the 11,000 members of Typographical Union 6 in a statement by Austin Hewson, president of the organization.

Mr. Hewson announced officially that on Wednesday the membership would be asked to vote in a referendum on a proposed settlement of the dispute in the book and job division of the printing industry. The dispute has been in progress for many months and Mr. Hewson urged its adjustment without further delay.

Alternatives will be presented on the referendum ballot. The first calls for the intervention of the executive council of the International Typographical union to bring about an acceptable basis for arbitration. The second provides for acceptance of the conciliation.

Mr. Hewson charged that the activities of the communist group, as well as lack of proper support from the international officers, headed by Charles P. Howard, international president, were responsible for the difficulties experienced by the union in the year now drawing to a close.

The local president warned that just as the communists "have wrecked the furriers' union and caused the garment workers injury from which it will take years to recover," so are they now engaged in an effort to wreck the Typographical union.

FAMILY TAKES HOLIDAY DINNER WITH ROOSEVELT

Ailing Grandchildren Each Has Tree.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—With only one of his four grandchildren able to join completely in the festivities, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President elect, today celebrated Christmas with his family. At his home on the Hudson at Krum Elbow. During the day Gov. Roosevelt laid aside all thoughts of government or politics. His chief task was the carving of a 40 pound turkey, the gift of South Trimble, clerk of the house of representatives.

Greets His Grandchild.

The one grandchild who could be carried into Gov. Roosevelt's room to receive in person the contents of her stocking was Sara Delano Roosevelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, 9 months old. Anna Roosevelt Dall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Dall, five and a half years old, and known in the family as "Sistie," got chickenpox on Friday. Yesterday her brother, Curtis Roosevelt Dall, two and a half years old, and nicknamed "Buzzy," developed tonsilitis. "Billie," son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, the fourth grandchild, was too young to be brought from their home in New York City, being only six weeks old.

Each Has Christmas Tree.

"The youngsters had to be kept in separate rooms," said Mrs. Curtis B. Dall, daughter of the governor, "but I fixed up tiny Christmas trees for them. Their stockings were hung last night in their grandfather's room and I took them up to them."

After breakfast, Gov. and Mrs. Roosevelt and the other members of the party attended services at St. James' Protestant Episcopal church in Hyde Park village. After that Mrs. Roosevelt visited a few neighbors who are ill.

The family dinner followed.

SIX MERRILY SING, THEN DRINK, DIE ON CHRISTMAS DAY

New York, Dec. 25. — [Special.] — Death lurked in the yuletide cup that cheers for six men today.

Drinking their Christmas toasts to the refrain of "better times next year," the luckless celebrants were stricken in their rejoicing when they drained the deadly dregs of poison hootch.

Besides these fatalities, a 70 year old grandmother was a victim of acute alcoholism; a middle aged man went blind after a single drink, and 25 delirious tipplers groaned and tossed on their hospital cots tonight.

In addition to those under treatment at institutions, private physicians, druggists, ambulance surgeons and clinic internes reported they had treated hundreds of men and women for acute alcoholism.

Coolidges Spend a Quiet Christmas; Attend Church

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge, former President, and Mrs. Coolidge spent Christmas quietly. They attended morning services at the Edwards Congregational church, and returned immediately by automobile to their home, the Beeches. Mrs. Coolidge joined in singing the Christmas music at the church services. The former President does not sing.

XMAS AMNESTY WAVE ENVELOPS CENTRAL EUROPE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Dec. 25.—A wave of amnesty decrees hit central and southeastern Europe this Christmas day. In Italy Premier Mussolini made a bid for Austrian sympathies by pardoning Greta Blaha, an Austrian dancer sentenced to 30 years for espionage, who already has served eight months of the sentence.

In Hungary Regent Horthy pardoned 140 minor political offenders or changed sentences from imprisonment to fines. A similar step will be taken by the Austrian government before the new year.

Austrian Hitlerites spoiled the picture, however, by carrying out a series of attacks on shops of Jewish merchants, in the course of which windows were broken and tear gas bombs exploded.

ESCAPE FROM JAIL 5 CAUGHT.

Dotson, N. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Five of seven prisoners who escaped from the Surry county jail here were still at liberty today. Two of the men were recaptured shortly after their break for liberty. The prisoners sawed the cell bars and lowered themselves to the ground by tying cot blankets together. Three of the men were awaiting commitment to the state penitentiary.

TRAP YOUTH, 18, IN PLOT AGAINST WEALTHY WIDOW

Sends Extortion Notes to Mrs. Rose Kellogg.

Joseph White, 18 years old, of Crystal Lake, was held yesterday in the McHenry county jail at Woodstock as the confessed writer of three extortion letters to Mrs. Rose Kellogg, wealthy widow of Charles Watson Kellogg, Chicago attorney. Mrs. Kellogg lives in Crystal Lake, but is active in Chicago charities, especially the Chicago Commons.

Young White was arrested Saturday night as he picked up a decoy package, supposedly containing $5,000. Questioned yesterday, he admitted writing the notes, but said that he did not know why he did it.

Mrs. Kellogg received the letters on Dec. 8, Dec. 13, and Dec. 23. All demanded $5,000, and threatened her with death if she failed to pay. The letters mentioned that machine guns would be used to carry out the death threat.

House Is Burned.

Two apparently warning incidents preceded the receipt of the missives. On the morning of Dec. 4, Mrs. Kellogg found the three doors of her home wide open. An unidentified intruder had been in the place during the night. About 10 p. m., Dec. 5, a small house owned by Mrs. Kellogg and located across the street from her home was burned.

These events attained significance when the first extortion letter was received. This note mentioned: "I've been in your home," and "I was at your house the night of the fire." Believing these references to be warnings, Mrs. Kellogg notified Chief Deputy Harold Reese of McHenry county. On Friday the third letter arrived. It told Mrs. Kellogg to place $5,000 in small bills behind St. Thomas' church in Crystal Lake before 6 p.m. Saturday.

At 5 o'clock that evening, Mrs. Kellogg placed a decoy package at the designated spot. Meanwhile, Chief Reese and six deputies lay in concealment near by. At 9 o'clock young White appeared, and picked up the package. He was seized. He refused to talk until yesterday after he was arraigned before Justice W. S. Batter at Woodstock and held in bonds of $5,000.

Admits Writing Letters.

After the arraignment, Reese requestioned White, and the youth broke down.

"Yes, I wrote them," he said, "but I don't know why. I had an idea I would like the money to take a trip. I knew Mrs. Kellogg had plenty."

White denied that he had entered Mrs. Kellogg's home on Dec. 4, or had set fire to the house. He admitted, however, that he possessed a key to the Kellogg home. Reese said this key was given to White some time ago by a former maid employed by Mrs. Kellogg. White is the son of John White, until recently owner of a general store in Crystal Lake. The father is now working in Hebron, Ill.

GERMAN PLANE POINTS WAY TO SAEETY IN AIR

Demonstrates Value of Slots and Flaps.

Aeronautic engineers say the day is not far distant when the large passenger air liners on the nation's airways will combine the high speed characteristics of the racing plane and the slow landing virtues of the autogiro. This trend is seen already in the newest fighters designed for the army air corps.

The plane that demonstrates to a high degree the anticipated speed range of future air liners is a small plane built in Germany, the Heinkel. It is a low wing monoplane, powered by an inline, air cooled motor of 140 horsepower. The pilot and passenger are inclosed in a cabin. The Heinkel takes off at a sharp angle, climbs rapidly, and attains a top speed of 152 miles an hour. It will descend at as steep an angle as the autogiro, and lands at only 38 miles an hour.

These characteristics make the Heinkel the ideal plane for sportsmen, according to J. S. McDonnell, engineer and designer of the Doodle Bug, the slot and flap equipped plane that startled the aviation industry with its performance in 1929. The Heinkel plane also is equipped with slots and flaps.

"Large passenger air liners can be built with slots and flaps and their performance will be as effective if the design is engineered well," Mr. McDonnell said. "Slots and flaps cannot be attached to the wings of air liners now in operation. To obtain the greatest effectiveness the equipment must be designed into the plane.

"The little Heinkel demonstrates very well what slots and flaps will do for larger planes. The speed range of the Heinkel is four times the landing speed. If applied to commercial planes slots and flaps would allow them to land at 60 miles an hour and reach a top speed of 240 miles an hour, cruising well above 200 miles an hour.

"In addition, a most valuable attribute of slots and flaps is the sharper angle at which they permit planes to take off and land. That is a paramount safety feature. The angle of glide in an emergency often means the difference between a safe landing and a crash. The railroads have adopted suitable safety measures, notably the block system, and it is time the air lines consider the safety attributes of slots and flaps before legislation requires their adoption."

GOOD WORK, GOOD FELLOWS!

The big depression met more than its match when it collided with the Good Fellows. In spite of losses and discouragements that reach every one in the community, in spite of the unseasonable weather, there has been no retreat in this annual movement of neighborliness and fellowship. On the contrary, there has been a 50 per cent increase in the number of contributors and 24 per cent increase in the number of persons cared for.

This has been accomplished without sensational appeals to the charitable. The campaign has appealed to the joy of giving.

It has been inspiring to note the response of people who have very little to give in money but sent what they could, sums small in terms of money but huge in terms of human kindness and unselfish sacrifice. We do not think the significance of this can be exaggerated. It is one aspect of the spirit of the American people manifested through the difficulties of the present time in every city, town, and countryside. In this spirit, the nation will come through its ordeal strengthened and deeply unified for whatever trials and triumphs the future has for us.

THE MONARCHY IN GREAT BRITAIN.

British broadcasting obtained the consent of King George for a Christmas radio feature which the king provided by sitting in his domestic circle Christmas day, with a microphone before him, and speaking familiarly to his subjects on a Christmas theme. The loyal Briton was able to sit in his domestic circle and hear his sovereign address him in those intimacies. The London Times, in commenting upon this arrangement, finds itself not untouched by awe. The Times remarks that "It is one thing to hear him addressing some great national or imperial gathering, making a speech officially in the character of the emperor and king, and quite another to hear him talking from his private house on Christmas afternoon to each and every one of us. 'This means you' is a phrase that is very unlikely to fall from his majesty's lips, but every one who listens to his Christmas message will be able to say, 'This means me. The king is talking to me.'"

History may not quite sustain the opinion the Times has of this momentous event, but it no doubt will regard the survival of monarchist loyalties in Great Britain as one of the remarkable traditional persistences in an age of extraordinary changes and make-overs. The Japanese reverence of the person and spirit of the emperor has an explanation in the theory of divinity, which no doubt has been as carefully cultivated by Japanese caste society as the English equivalent has been cultivated by English caste. Of course the aristocratic privilege in Great Britain may be assumed to rise or fall with the violability or inviolability of the monarchical idea.

Aristocracy, in a real sense, in a political and material sense, does not ordinarily survive the fall of monarchy. It may exist in phrase and form, but the barons find that they do not do well or long without the king. The proletarian view of such an organization of society is not always reverential and frequently is disrespectful. A Laborite recently challenged the good faith of the king's speech from the throne to parliament and was regarded as being in the worst of bad form, for one reason because he had spoken against a man who couldn't talk back. The king couldn't answer him.

The persistence of the monarchical idea in Great Britain may be regarded as a curiosity because, with all the precautions which have been taken to preserve the inviolable respect accorded the king, the English have never taken the slightest pains to produce competence in the monarch. Possibly that puts a finger oddly enough upon the secret of the durability of the institution.

Across the channel, in the days of monarchical France, the training of a prince, of the heir apparent, or the heir presumptive was an affair of state. The schooling of a prince who might at some time reign in France needed an establishment which was virtually a state department. It required a minister and the services of the most learned men of the nation. In the time of Louis XIV, the dauphin had the philosopher Bossuet as his principal instructor, and the dauphin's son had Fénelon as his headmaster, and both these distinguished scholars gave everything they had to train these pupils, both in learning and in disposition for their future duties.

This was the custom of most monarchical countries, whether occidental or Asiatic, but England for the most part paid no attention whatever to the heir. The prince was accepted as nature made him, and unless he came to the throne in his minority he ranged a free field of his own inclinations and associations. He developed the worst or the best in him, just as he saw fit, and if he kept out of serious mischief, which he frequently did not, that was merely a piece of good luck. His actions might cause his family trouble, and they might even humiliate the nation, but he went his own way. It may seem curious that in lands in which so much care was taken in the education of the prince the institution disappeared, and in the land in which he grew up as Topsy the institution is going strong today. But there is probably the whole reason for it. France carried the monarchy to absolutism and destruction. The English hedged it, restricted it, took away its powers, and out of a careless procedure produced an institution which could be brought into modern times. By taking it without any consideration whatever for results in one direction they have managed to perpetuate it and keep it to the present day. The only occidental king who could fill his subjects with a feeling of almost awe by talking to them confidentially Christmas is the king of Great Britain.

THE DEBTS IN CONFERENCE.

President Hoover's attempt to draw Gov. Roosevelt into the debt problem at this time has again met with the governor's refusal. Mr. Hoover's purpose undoubtedly is to bridge the interim, the last period of his administration, and provide something like a continuity of purpose. This apparently will not work, and whatever the disadvantages of the situation may be, they remain. The President elect professes his willingness to be of any assistance possible, but is convinced that no real team work can be had. He does not see eye to eye with Mr. Hoover in the matter of methods, and, such being the case, he does not wish to commit himself at this time, when he would be necessarily subordinate to the President's leadership.

It is indicated that Gov. Roosevelt distrusts the commission and conference method of negotiation, probably because it is not as congenial to him as it has been to Mr. Hoover. To Mr. Hoover it has seemed the logical means of meeting any problem requiring inquiry, fact finding, negotiation, and conciliation. Gov. Roosevelt makes it apparent that he prefers a simpler and more direct method. In the matter of the debts he would deal with each individual debtor in the circumstances in which it and the United States find themselves and by ordinary government procedure come to certain conclusions which would be submitted to congress.

It is easy to like Mr. Roosevelt's idea of procedure. There has been very little in international conferences of the last ten years to recommend them to American liking. American participation in them has left Americans with a feeling not only that they were inherently futile but that they contained great possibilities of national injury. The American negotiators have seldom seemed competent for the occasion, either in resolution or in knowledge of what their country's interests were. Consequently, Americans have come to think, we believe, that not only failure but danger is inherent in these ponderous, highly publicized international conferences. Frequently the best press agent seems to win the day, and Lord Riddell of Great Britain has few equals in that capacity.

In the matter of the debts the American position is undoubtedly weakened in negotiations which by their form unite all the debtors against their creditor and pool all their arguments for joint attack upon him. This country can feel much safer if it is dealing with each case on its own merits, and in a simplicity which will have none of the extraneous elements so influential to a general gathering of the high hats of Europe. The debts are a business question. The American side requires an American agent whose national interest in undiluted, whose common sense is unimpaired by extraneous matter, and who is not susceptible to any consideration other than that of the best deal for the people he represents.

To get such a deal seems beyond the probabilities of any conference conducted as those with which the United States has become familiar.

Editorial of the Day

TWO REEL BIOGRAPHY.

[The London Times.]

Many people, pressing their noses against the infrequent bookshops of England, have thought they detected signs of a feverish restlessness on the part of biographers, as though they were consciously writing against time. And so indeed they are, though not necessarily for eternity. It is not the knowledge that the dead, for all they are so proudly styled the great majority, are numerically limited, and that speed is necessary before they are all gone. There is also the sense that the whole process of manufacture may be superseded by improved methods. What those methods are likely to be has just been foreshadowed by the duke of Sutherland. Dukes, though they may be redolent of the history book, can look ahead like anybody else; and the duke of Sutherland has envisaged before an appreciative audience of camera lovers the day when, instead of recording the doings of important people in posthumous volumes, we shall commemorate them with films of their lives. It is likely enough; and soon that familiar figure, the friend of the family, to whom all letters and reminiscences are to be sent, will be writing to the press for any films. For much of the material will already be complete.

The early life of the hero, which is commonly so weak a part of even two volume biographies, will be shown with unusual strength. Already there are many parents who are encouraged to take moving pictures of their offspring. But the case for taking those films becomes much stronger when it can also be thought of as a real service to the nation at large. Schools are making increasing use of the cinema as a record of school activities, and the lack of pre-existing material is likely to be first felt by the biographer when the late teens and early twenties are reached. At that age, when parents have stopped hoping and press photographers have not thought of appearing, a man must marry young and cleverly who is not going to leave the film of his life incomplete at the very point where the imagination of his biographer might most easily do him injustice, and dressed up actors might most easily do his memory a wrong. So far, with all the desire there is to honor memories in a fitting manner, no one gives free or penny readings from book biographies on the anniversary of a great man's death. His day passes with a few wreaths and printed tributes. But his film will certainly be shown, and the contemplated Film institute might have, among its amenities, a special hall set apart for those commemorations. It should be a great help to laborious ambition, and even to common rectitude, to be able to whisper in the ear of a great man in temptation of doing evil to "Remember your film" and to warn him to live in such a manner that his children will not be thankful for the darkness to hide their blushes when it is displayed. The man of action easily comes to despise what is put in books and buried there; but he will feel very differently about the prospect of a film, with its large colored posters and its electric signs, blazoning to all the world the pageant of his past.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

CHRISTMAS CAROL.

(In the mediæval manner.)

Green be the garland thy window adorning;
Bright be the candle within it aglow!
Swiftly bud midnight for thee into morning;
Fragrant thy evergreen breathe on the snow!
Palace of Herod and Temple hall scorning,
Look! In a manger His head lieth low.
Far on yon snowy hill ringeth high warning;
"Ye who seek Heaven, to Bethlehem go!"

Earth, be at peace, beholding God's glory!
End, O long night, in marvelous morn!
Gladly for us also soundeth that story,
Yea, for we all in God's son are newborn!

FRIAR TUCK.

THE STORES are all closed today and we'll have to wait until tomorrow before we exchange 'em. And the worst thing about the day after Christmas is looking at the presents we got from people to whom we didn't send any. Well, nothing to do but dust off the old alibis about their getting lost in the mail or stuck in a snowdrift.

THIS VERY MORNING.

"Ah," said old Doc Tonsils as old John Gotcash (he is petitioning the court to change it to Hadcash) limped into his office the day after Christmas (that would be today) and dropped heavily into a chair. The doc might have said more than "ah," but he is an up to date specialist and "ah" is an encouraging remark which invites confidence and does not commit one to a statement which might be erroneous.

The "ah" was really the safest remark under the circumstances, for Mr. Gotcash limped very badly and could not have come into the office at all but for the assistance of his chauffeur (he still has one, although slightly in arrears for the chauffeur's back salary). Mr. Gotcash had one of his hands tied up in a bandage, his left eye was likewise bandaged, he had large strips of adhesive on his face, and he smelled like the inside of a First Aid for Accidents in the Home box.

Dr. Tonsils was about to say, "Did you go into the ditch or run through a red light?" but another glance at Mr. Gotcash convinced him that such a surmise might be wrong. Mr. Gotcash looked more as though he had tried to beat the 9:15 New York Whizzer express to the crossing. And, however the 9:15 may have looked, it could not have come out much worse than Mr. Gotcash. So Dr. Tonsils wisely said "ah" again and waited.

But Mr. Gotcash seemed unable to talk, and so the chauffeur spoke up: "You know, doctor," said the chauffeur, "Mr. Gotcash has four children, all boys, and——"

"Ah," said Dr. Tonsils, "these mechanical toys! They're all right for small boys, but I do wish parents would have sense enough to leave 'em alone."

"And There Were Shepherds—"

The shepherds were many who lay that night
Guarding their sheep from danger and fright.
The angels sang—a host of them.
The dogs were restless and sniffed and whined.
The men were weary, and little inclined
To leave their beds were most of them.

So some but dreamed of following
When they heard in their sleep the angels sing,
And stirred in their slumber and slept again.
And some of them wakened and partly rose,
But shivered to feel the winds and the snows,
And back to their blankets crept again.

But a few leaped up and followed the song
That came in the night nor lingered long.
If the drowsy slept, small blame to them.
But those who heard and woke and went
Made the frost and snow a sacrament,
And the world was never the same to them.

WINFRED E. GARRISON.

THEY'RE PUTTING GYROSCOPES on ocean liners now to keep them steady in the heaviest seas, and the ecstatic steamer agents are now singing the glad refrain, "There'll Be No Seasickness Now." Won't, huh? Try and stop it. The sickest people we ever saw on a boat got that way hours before the ship left the dock. Some earnest sea sickers get sick as they step out of the taxi and just look at the steamer. The enthusiastic and persistent sea sickers will sneer derisively at the efforts of the gyroscope to keep them from being stricken with mal de mer. Go ahead, gyroscope, try and stop 'em!

MERRY CHRISTMAS and Happy New Year to one and all! And congratulations to you if you got a Linebook, and, while we will not mention the subject today, it being the day after Christmas, we wish we might say to you who didn't get a Pt. H. L. Linebook of 1932 from Santa Claus that you can get one of your own at the Trib. Pub. Serv. offices and the news stands. And tomorrow the bookstores will be open. And not for words would we even hint they cost 10 cents on the hoof or 12 cents by mail.

CHRISTMAS CANDLE.

The Christmas candle, joyously
Upon my ledge, I light;
So that the Christmas Child may be Safeguarded through the night.

O Christmas candle! Could we keep
You burning night and day,
Perhaps the Christ Child would not weep,
Nor need to turn away.

But when the Christmas flame burns low,
The Christmas Child must weep, and go.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

ADDISON'S DISEASE.

THERE is considerable interest in the new remedy for the treatment of Addison's disease. The severity of this disease is so well known that any one who offers a treatment that seems reasonable is certain to have a hearing. The people who suffer from Addison's retain their mental clearness and they are sick several years. Naturally they live in hope that a treatment will be found in time to save them. Since those who have it undergo such marked change in color their disease comes to be a matter of somewhat general knowledge and thus the interest in a cure for Addison's disease widens.

The new remedy is an extract of the outer part of the adrenal gland. Dr. J. M. Rogoff, who has had more experience with this drug than any one else, warns that no preparation is to be used except the one made in just the right way, from the right part of the gland. This is important to know, since most of the well known preparations are made from another portion of the glands, and he has seen harm come from using these in the treatment of Addison's disease.

Dr. Rogoff says this new remedy is not a cure in the sense that a certain number of doses will cure an advanced case of Addison's, after which no more medicine is required. The best that can be claimed for it is that it will pull a case out of the collapses that are apt to occur periodically, and that people with Addison's who take the extract live a few years beyond the expectation when treated by the older methods. Some of them improve enough to go back to work and to keep on the job a year or more.

Even if the method should be considerably improved it would only reach the level of insulin and other remedies, which merely supply a chemical which the body needs but can no longer produce. The use of the remedy must be continued indefinitely.

In most cases Addison's results from the destruction of the adrenal by tuberculosis. There is no way to restore what disease has destroyed. It may be that in time a way can be found to diagnose Addison's disease before the glands are destroyed. If that day comes we can think of a cure in the proper sense.

The commonly known symptoms are deep bronzing of the skin and great weakness of muscles and lack of endurance, with spells of profound exhaustion. Examination of the blood in this stage shows anemia and other changes.

But these are symptoms of advanced Addison's. Dr. Rogoff suggests some symptoms that come early and should cause suspicion of early Addison's. One is a distaste for fats and greases and a craving for sour and spicy foods, such as sauerkraut and pickles. Another is a tenderness on deep pressure in the back and sides near the back and over the kidney region. A third is the appearance of very dark freckles on the neck and upper trunk not explained by exposure.

But we are in great need of some better signs of early Addison's.

MAYBE IN CLOTHING.

A. M. N. writes: If a person is very clean, why do body lice return after he has rid himself of them?

REPLY.

Body lice live in the clothing. They go on the body to feed and to lay eggs. If you killed all the insects and got rid of all the eggs on the body you may have overlooked those on your clothing. Did you sterilize your undergarments? There is no direct relation between cleanliness and body lice. After a person has taken care of his infestation he should be careful of his associates. That is generally the source of reinfestation.

PSORIASIS.

L. W. G. writes: 1. Is psoriasis contagious?

2. Is it hereditary?

3. Would the offspring of a father who has this trouble be liable to have it?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. No.
3. No.

PUFFED EYELIDS.

L. E. S. writes: My eyelids are swollen to twice the normal size when I get up in the morning. Might this be due to eyestrain?

REPLY.

I don't think so. Have you been examined for heart and kidney disease and anemia? Trichinosis or some other parasitic disease causes the eyelids to puff. Is your bed comfortable and your bedroom well ventilated?

MORTGAGE RENEWAL.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A widow owns property on which the mortgage falls due in January. In the event the bondholders will not renew the mortgage [1] can they attach the proceeds of the insurance policies of her husband [deceased]? This money is deposited with the insurance companies, who pay interest and dividends. 2. If they can attach this money, which is her sole means of support, is it possible for her to transfer ownership to another person, still leaving the money with the insurance companies? [The insurance companies are not Illinois firms.] 3. The interest on the mortgage has always been paid. H. T. B.

1. If she is a maker of the mortgage notes then a judgment could be taken against her and garnishment would be in order against funds legally owing to her from other persons.
2. In general a conveyance by a debtor in order to defeat creditors can be set aside.
3. No question asked.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

UNPAID TAXES.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I recently renewed the mortgage on my residence for three years. The 1929 and part of the 1930 taxes are not paid. The holder of the mortgage refused to increase the mortgage so that I might use the increase to pay the taxes. 1. Can the holder of the mortgage pay the taxes and foreclose? I can now get a loan from another source large enough to pay the taxes and also to pay off the mortgage, but as there is nothing stipulated in the mortgage about paying it at any time [2] can the holder refuse to accept payment? R. E. S.

1. The papers are probably so worded as to give him the right to foreclose if the taxes are not paid.
2. Yes.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NO EXAMINATION NOW.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly send me any information you have as to when and where examinations are held for the Lincoln park police? C. O. H.

I am sorry to inform you there is no such examination on our schedule. We have a sufficient number of those eligible for such positions from our last examination to carry us at least another year.

Superintendent, Lincoln Park.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 26, 1916.

PETROGRAD.—The first expression of Russia's official attitude toward President Wilson's note was obtained by the Associated Press in the form of the following statement approved by the foreign office: "We pay tribute to the humanitarian motives which actuated President Wilson in turning to the warring nations with the wish to conclude peace. These motives are not foreign to us. In its true sense the German offer is now known to all. Germany considers herself a victor and thinks to dictate to us terms of peace. Under such conditions the beginning of peace negotiations with Germany would signify our acknowledgment of such a belief. We are not vanquished and cannot therefore make an acknowledgment of defeat."

BERLIN.—Near Cimbroslavwk German patrols dominating the advance ground repulsed several Russian detachments. North of Sosmeoce, in the Oitus valley, our fire pushed back the Russians, who twice attacked. In Great Wallachia new engagements are in progress. Our Dobrudja army has captured Isaktcha and is now attacking the bridgehead of Matchin.

PETROGRAD.—On the River Bystritza Russian scouts made some successful reconnoissances in the region of Stary Lisic, capturing a number of prisoners, rifles, and hand grenades. In the wooded Carpathians and on the Moldavian frontier, in the region north of the Usul valley, the enemy, by several repeated attacks following artillery preparation, attempted to recapture the heights occupied by us yesterday. These were foiled.

PARIS.—On the Somme front three German airplanes were brought down by French pilots. One of our air squadrons bombarded the enemy aviation ground at Vraignes as well as ammunition depots at Athies, Ennemain, and Mons-en-Chausses.

ROME.—On the Trentino front there were only artillery actions. Italian batteries dispersed working parties in the Pasubio area and the upper Astico. On the Julian front a thick mist prevented artillery action and limited the activity to reconnoissances.

LONDON.—Emperor William will give special audiences today to James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, and to the Swiss minister, Dr. A. de Claparede, says an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company.

ROME.—A naval engagement between French and Italian and Austrian warships in the Strait of Otranto is announced in a statement issued by the admiralty, which says: "Several enemy ships attacked our patrol vessels in Ontranto channel on the night of Dec. 23. French and Italian warships came to the rescue and the enemy fled under cover of darkness after a sharp engagement. What damage he suffered is unknown. Two French destroyers and one patrol boat were hit and slightly damaged."

LONDON.—The newspapers report the engagement of ex-Premier Asquith's daughter, Elizabeth, to Hugh S. Gibson, first secretary of the American embassy in London. It is understood that the marriage is not to take place immediately.

CHICAGO.—Sister Mary Raphael McGill, 76 years old, died at the Mercy hospital on Dec. 24. For the last thirty-four years she had been the local sister superior of the hospital. Another death was that of Sister Madeline Mattingly, 87 years old, who died in St. Joseph's hospital on Dec. 24. She was one of the oldest sisters at the hospital.

TECHNOCRACY.

Oak Park, Ill., Dec. 23.—As an interested student of the data at present available on technocracy, and as a member of the engineering profession, I wish to speak in protest against several statements attributed to Prof. Ogburn in your recently published interview.

First, he states: "I for one don't think society is going to turn the world over to the mechanical engineers to run. It would be too bad if we did."

I have never heard any engineer or technocrat say that the world should be turned over to engineers. The sociologists perhaps think that they should be at the helm. What have they to offer to relieve our difficulties? I have seen no agreement among their ranks.

Second, he says: "We don't put machinery to work until there is a market." Perhaps not, but when there is a market we replace men with machines as fast as possible, which creates more unemployment, thus creating a greater problem for our—as yet—barren minded sociologists.

As I see it, a few of technocracy's main points are:

Technological unemployment is increasing by leaps and bounds.

Competition—unlimited—is economically destructive.

Efficient business and production methods make the extremely short work week possible and necessary.

Present capacity to overproduce will put us right back into another great depression once we are out of this, if we can get out of this one under our present system, as seems unlikely.

Our present system of competitive business forces us to buy inferior merchandise, because if high class merchandise were sold it would last so long that there would be no business. In short, we are forced to replace our goods in order to keep industry operating, a plan wasteful of our natural resources and also wasteful of our labor.

I hope that Prof. Ogburn has been misquoted in this interview since I and, without exception, every one else of my acquaintance who has read the article have found the statements in it to be unintelligent, completely lacking in comprehension of the subject, as well as showing lack of logical reasoning.

My mind is open on the subject, but none of the statements attributed to Prof. Ogburn could possibly carry any weight with me. W. E. THOMAS.

THE PRICE OF COAL.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Why does the price of coal remain prohibitive? Last year at this time I was paying $6.95 per ton for Pocahontas mine run and the same price now prevails, with a possibility of a raise Jan. 1. All the other living necessities, rent, clothing, food, etc., have dropped 40 to 50 per cent, and coal reaps all the benefit. One asks the retailer. He blames the operator, the operator blames the railroad, etc. Is it a racket? B. C.

THE SUCKER AND THE FAST BLONDE.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Westbrook Pegler's communication on France and its repudiation of war debts deserves special commendation. It is sad to think that nearly fourteen years must pass and events such as the repudiation of the debts ensue before war hysteria is sufficiently allayed to permit the truth to be told. Let us hope that the anti-French feeling now rising as a result of recent and coming events and journalistic comments on them will not engender hatreds for a sister republic similar to those witnessed during and immediately after the war.

The writer recalls with humiliation a scene at a meeting of a learned society in June, 1918, when one of its most respected members, a man of national and international fame, was hissed when to a protest against the abominable jazz music inflicted on the convention prior to each session he added the hope "that the war might soon be over and we again be permitted to hear the music of Handel, Bach, Beethoven and Wagner." Also a visit the same year to a leading public library in the west, known to possess a famous collection of music. On visiting the music room and asking to see the scores of Handel's "Messiah," Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" and Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis," I was told by the librarian that they could not be produced, for the reason that all music by German composers had been removed to the cellar and boxed up.

The able and sarcastic pen of a Westbrook Pegler, employing language which the man in the street will readily comprehend, should prove particularly effective in combating this tendency to a blind and narrow chauvinism and hatred of other nations, be they German, French, Russian, or Japanese.

J. C. M. H.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—The article by your Washington correspondent, Westbrook Pegler, entitled "Sucker for a Fast Blonde," could not by the wildest stretch of the imagination be classed as journalism. Criticism of the international affairs of the United States government is no doubt an inviting journalistic field, but these criticisms should be written by one who has a broader scope of the subject than is here shown.

H. R. ABBOTT.

FOR CONSTANT READER.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—"Constant Reader" says in today's TRIBUNE that he would "like to see the record" as to whether the Commonwealth Edison company has ever furnished him electric lamps, or bulbs (presumably free). If he will write or call upon Harold Wright at the Edison building, 72 West Adams street, or even telephone Mr. Wright (Randolph 1200, local 247) and give his name and address his wish will be quickly and courteously granted.

WILLIAM H. CULVER,
Assistant to the Chairman, Commonwealth Edison Company.

OUR SECRET AMBITION

This Is The Greatest Christmas This Nation Has Ever Known

We know now, by this time, that this nation will survive and that, therefore, this civilization itself will go on.

We also know that our survival will be due to the wisdom of a comparatively small handful of men whose names we have come to know through the news of their activities, and to possibly not more than a few thousand of you other far-sighted thinkers who have been making history even where you have not been making headlines.

It is almost weird for us to realize that we who are living now will go down to posterity as the generation that stood at the turning point of history. And turned it right.

To most of us, of course, the threatened breakdown of a civilization has not meant very much. We went about our Christmas shopping as usual. The stores tell us that their Christmas trade was better than they expected. And the man on the street has very definite evidence of the fact that business is picking up.

But to men of science, men, for example, like Breasted, the great Egyptologist, with all the background of all the past civilizations for his yardstick, or even like Julian Huxley of Cambridge, grandson of another great Huxley, it was none too certain that this foolish old world hadn't botched its affairs too badly ever to come back for many centuries.

So now that you have licked the job, with even the men of science beginning to lean your way, let us try to get at an analysis of what it was that you leaders of America did that was not done by any other leaders of any other civilizations who failed to lick their jobs.

If our measure of events here at True Story Magazine where we get the true reflection of the other side of the picture is right, then the analysis that we have formulated brings out one of the most interesting contrasts in history.

This analysis begins with the events of some twenty years ago which brought about what the world has now come to look upon as America's Economic Evolution. That was when you decided that America's great mass of wage-earners should cease to be a commodity and become a market. That was when you began voluntarily to shorten the hours and raise the wages of millions of men.

When you began doing this, these millions of wage-earners began buying the products they were helping to make in greater and greater quantities, thus extending your markets beyond anybody's dreams. They even became partners in your affairs. And by 1928 the last vestiges of the great barrier that had stood between Capital and Labor for a hundred and fifty years had been broken down.

Both Capital and Labor had entered into a definite commitment to work together. Both understood the deal. Both agreed to it.

Then came the great world crisis, and suddenly, without warning, these production forces of America and the consuming masses of America, capitalist and wage-earner, found themselves at the crossroads of destiny.

Anything could have happened at that time. Every factory could have been converted into a fortress, every home turned into a barricade. The mob could have been sweeping the streets, and our whole civilization could have fallen like a house of cards.

This is always what has happened before. The records of such times are many. Every civilization breaks down when the situation gets bad enough.

Why didn't it happen this time?

Why did millions of men and women, when they got out of a job, go quietly back to their homes; and when they got out of food and fuel, go quietly to the organizations that were providing for them?

Why, when you were setting up the machinery to take care of the millions of unemployed, were the thirty million wage-earners who were still employed willing to go down into their pay envelopes, week after week and month after month, and dig up by far the biggest percentage of the money necessary to carry on?

And finally, why under this tremendous upheaval in our normal affairs were these millions of wage-earners willing to continue their buying habits to the very utmost of their capacity in order to maintain the widespread markets which you and they had been building up together?

Here at True Story Magazine, where we have always so perfectly reflected the attitude of wage-earning America, we think the reason is this:

When you let loose those forces twenty years ago, you did something else that you did not count upon. You did more than make the American wage-earner into a market instead of a commodity.

You made him into an educated, thinking force as well.

You may not have realized it, but between 1908 and 1928 you put seven hundred thousand more men and women into our universities, a large percentage of them the sons and daughters of wage-earning America. You put three and a quarter million more boys and girls through high schools and junior colleges, the greater percentage of them the sons and daughters of wage-earning America. And through the betterment of your grade schools, you made it possible for some twenty-eight million children to have something more than a rudimentary education to do their thinking with.

For the first time in all history a nation was dealing with millions upon millions of educated workers instead of millions upon millions of an illiterate mass when we came to the crossroads of our destiny. That is the tremendous factor which we, of True Story Magazine, think has been overlooked both by men of science and men of affairs.

That, we think, is the reason why this battle has been won. And that is why this Christmas, which heralded the triumph of intelligence over ignorance, was the greatest Christmas this nation has ever known.

NEW RELIEF FORM DESIGNED TO END ALL PETTY FRAUD

False Information to Bring Punishment.

Applicants for relief from the Cook county bureau of public welfare are being required to fill out new forms designed to eliminate many of the petty frauds that are perpetrated on the bureau, it was announced yesterday by Joseph L. Moss, director of the bureau.

Application forms, in which the needs of the applicant and his resources must be detailed, are required to be signed and witnessed. The statements are investigated later by trained social workers, and if found to be incorrect the applicant is required to explain the inaccuracy, Mr. Moss said.

One Year's Residence.

"The Cook county bureau of public welfare helps people who have no money on which to live due to unemployment or other causes, and who have no other way of getting help," the form states. "Residence in Cook county for one year is required. The person in need, or his representative, if he cannot write English, must fill out this blank and certify to its accuracy."

The form also quotes the Illinois revised statutes on fraud as follows: "Whoever, with intent to cheat or defraud another, designedly by writing or by any false pretense, obtains from any person any money, personal property or other valuable thing, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $2,000 and imprisoned not exceeding one year, and shall be sentenced to restore the property so fraudulently obtained, if it can be restored."

Lists Family Members.

The form requires the listing of all members of the family, others living in the household, past and present residences, relatives, present part time and past employment, automobiles, savings and bank accounts, property insurance, sources of income and pensions, sources of previous aid and a list of debts owed.

"This form is being used instead of the former system of obtaining the information by questioning," Mr. Moss said. "There can be no question with the form as to the information given. If there is an attempt to deceive it will be apparent, and all who are detected in that will be prosecuted. We intend to eliminate all frauds in the administration of relief funds."

Three Youths Burn to Death Under Overturned Auto

Pound, Va., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Three youths were burned to death tonight under an automobile which caught fire as it plunged with its occupants down an embankment near here and overturned. The victims were Claude Bolling, 17; Bernice Bolling, 18, and Wayne Bolling, 19, of Flat Gap.

INSURANCE MAY PROVIDE FUNDS FOR TERMINAL

Elevator Fire May Help River Traffic.

The facts that the state of Illinois owned the grain elevator at Damen avenue and the south branch of the Chicago river, part of which burned Friday, and will collect perhaps as much as $200,000 insurance because of the explosion and fire, were made known yesterday.

Under the terms of an agreement negotiated Sept. 15, 1928, between the state and the Santa Fe and Illinois Central railroads, Illinois acquired the elevator and a twenty acre tract upon which it stands, in exchange for title to an adjacent strip of 29 acres through which runs a portion of the old Illinois and Michigan canal, an abandoned waterway built early in the last century.

Fire Destroys Elevator.

The elevator had been leased to the Stratton Grain company. Friday's fire brought death to two men, injured six more and destroyed 200,000 bushels of grain. Last night firemen were still digging in the smoldering grain, seeking the body of Charles Duval, 29 years old, a board of trade grain scaler, who is believed to have perished in the raging fire which followed a dust explosion.

The fact relative to the state's ownership raised the question of how this insurance money could best be put to use. In the Illinois-Santa Fe agreement, it was stipulated that the railroads must pay $200,000 toward improvements for a water terminal which, since 1908, has been handling the bulk of the lake-rail freight to and from Chicago. Spur tracks connect the terminal with both a belt line and leading railroads. This sum has not been paid.

Terminal Facilities Needed.

Advocates of the waterway recalled that when navigation opens in the spring the waterway will be ready for use, but that adequate terminal facilities are lacking in the Chicago area.

The matter is expected to be taken before the legislature and a decision made as to whether the insurance money should be used to rebuild the elevator or to construct a modern terminal on a slip included in the elevator tract, which is suitable for loading and unloading barges. Governor Elect Horner is expected to confer with waterway advocates before the matter is put before the legislature.

Funds May Be Found.

It was regarded possible that the insurance sum plus the $200,000 cash payment from the Santa Fe and Illinois Central roads might be sufficient to rebuild the workhouse of the elevator and construct a freight terminal adequate for present needs.

Appraisers must determine the insurance payment before this can be decided. L. D. Cornish, chief engineer of the Illinois waterway, said yesterday that the workhouse, the eight grain storage tanks and the boiler room—units of the elevator—were insured for a total of $467,000. Only the workhouse was destroyed, but its cost was the major expense of constructing the group in 1908. Mr. Cornish thought it possible that the insurance adjustors might allow as much as $200,000 to the state for the burned building.

A dozen firemen continued their search yesterday of the ruins of the grain elevator for the body of Charleton H. Duvall, 6017 South Sacramento avenue, a Board of Trade scale inspector, who is believed to have lost his life in the fire. The belief that Duvall perished in the flames was strengthened yesterday when his family reported that he had not been home since the fire nor has he been seen by any of his associates. Walter Brazel, 28 years old, 2443 South Spaulding avenue, another victim, was killed in a leap from the burning elevator.

The fire tug Illinois continued to pour water on the smoldering grain yesterday.

WOMAN DIES IN FLAMING AUTO.

Pierce, Neb., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. J. Conklin, 30, was burned to death today when the car in which she and her husband were riding upset and caught fire.

POLICE CAMPAIGN REDUCES BOMBINGS TO NEW LOW MARK

Lieut. John Treacy, head of the bomb detail at the detective bureau, reported yesterday to Chief of Detectives Schoemaker that a vigorous police drive against bombers, launched following the bombing of the home of Judge John P. McGoorty, which blinded a youth and injured his girl companion, has decreased this type of outrage in Chicago to a marked degree.

The McGoorty bombing which occurred on Sept. 20 was the 84th in Cook county this year. There was one other bombing on Sept. 30, and in nearly three months since only six bombs have been exploded in Chicago. This is by far the lowest number during the months of October, November and December in Chicago during the last five years.

In his effort to stamp out bombings, Chief Schoemaker announced that grand jury action would be sought against heads of unions and trade associations suspected of racketeering in cases where establishments were bombed in their line of business. Recently Ed Reilly, head of the Funeral Drivers' union, was questioned at the detective bureau after funeral directors, with whom the union was engaged in a lockout fight, had received threats. Similar action was taken with officers of barbers', fish peddlers' and milk organizations.

SHOT IN CHRISTMAS QUARREL.

James Lynch, 42 years old, 5415 Polk street, was shot in the left arm early yesterday by another Christmas eve celebrant with whom he quarreled in front of 814 South Western avenue. His assailant escaped.

Charge Two Ex-Convicts with Gas Station Holdup

Three youths, two of whom were released from Pontiac reformatory Nov. 13 after serving terms for stealing an automobile, were captured yesterday by Detectives John Fried and James Gabrielsen following the robbery of a gasoline station at 1718 South Canal street. The youths, identified by David Bell, the station attendant, as the bandits who took $18, are James Passentino, 25 years old, 466 West 25th street, and John Yurkaitis, 18 years old, 3542 South Union avenue, ex-convicts, and George Deuchin, 24 years old, 466 West 25th street.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

William Jensen, 52 years old, was found dead in bed yesterday in his home at 1031 North La Salle street, the victim of a heart attack.

Chief Schoemaker Plays Santa; Frees Five Prisoners

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker played Santa Claus to five prisoners in the detective bureau yesterday. From his home the chief phoned instructions to release the prisoners in the bureau lockup who did not have records and who were held on minor charges.

CHINESE TO GET $600,000 FROM U. S. FOR FARMERS

Sum Remains from Famine Fund of 1921.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 25.—After certain legal technicalities have been satisfied, probably within the next six months, some $600,000 will be turned over to the College of Agriculture and Forestry of Nanking university. The sum represents one of the largest amounts ever contributed by Americans to a missionary educational institution in China. It will be used as a permanent endowment for the teaching of modern scientific agriculture to Chinese of both sexes.

The fund originated in 1921 when an extensive drive for famine relief funds was conducted in the United States. More than $5,000,000 was raised for victims of famines in north China. The money was contributed largely by local churches and relief organizations. After all famine needs had been attended to, however, it was found that there was left about $600,000.

T. W. Lamont Named Chairman.

There followed a conference participated in by the heads of various American mission boards at which it was decided to use the remaining money to create a trust fund for encouraging the study of scientific agriculture and forestry in China. Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. was appointed chairman of the trust fund committee which included representatives of the mission boards.

The trust fund committee in New York then appointed a committee of American business men and missionaries in China to administer the money. According to the plan decided upon, two American mission institutions in China were selected to conduct the experimental work over a trial period of ten years. The schools selected were Nanking university and Yenching university, in the outskirts of Peiping. After spending $300,000 for permanent buildings and equipment, the interest from the remaining $600,000 was used for upkeep with the condition that if the work proved successful over ten years the principal was to be given to the schools.

Chinese Prove Apt.

Prior to 1922 there never had been much instruction in scientific agriculture in China, but with this American fund it soon was demonstrated that Chinese youths are as adaptable to modern farming instruction as Americans.

The college of agriculture of Nanking university was particularly successful.

Yenching university specialized in animal husbandry and a considerable success also was experienced in that area. The committee in charge of the work decided two years ago, however, to combine the work of the two institutions under the Nanking institution.

FINES IN ALKY DIVERSION CASE MOUNT TO $50,000

With the payment last week of fines following pleas of guilty by five additional defendants in the $12,000,000 alcohol diversion ring, headed by Anastasoff Srebren, a Bulgarian chemist, the government has collected approximately $50,000 in fines as a result of the indictment a year ago of more than 100 individuals and concerns.

According to Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton, only 55 defendants are now awaiting arraignment. The alcohol ring was uncovered after six months of investigating by special prohibition agents. The diversion charged was the illegal use of alcohol obtained under permit for legitimate drug purposes.

Those fined last week and the amounts of their fines were: Frank E. De Borde, treasurer of the Allied Drug and Chemical company, New York, $1,000; Benjamin I. D'Vorman, head of the Dee Drug company of New York, $1,500; Abram Sampson, former owner of the Humboldt Drug company, $250; Frank Gambino of Cleveland, $250; and Joseph C. Linderman, Joubert Cie of New York, $1,000.

were directors of the choral orchestra, and Miss Shaindel Reznick the soloist, from the Halalevy choir.

Extra police had to be called to cope with the crush in the lobbies and outside the Stadium as the time for the program drew near. Fourteen extra policemen from the Warren avenue station were rushed to the building to aid the 32 previously assigned and to handle the throng which was blocking all entrances.

CHICAGO WORSHIPS

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

As devout Christmas churchgoers arose early yesterday for their devotion, the sun broke through the clouds as though to add to the brightness of the day's spirit, but it soon receded behind heavy clouds. The absence of sunshine, however, during the rest of the day failed to dull Chicago's Christmas.

From early morn—long before sunrise—the 250 Catholic churches of the city were crowded for hourly services until the noon hour when Catholics of Chicago turned to the Holy Name cathedral, where Cardinal Mundelein pontificated at the solemn Christ mass.

A background for that service, as well as for services in other near north side churches, the New England Congregational, St. James' Episcopal, Fourth Presbyterian, was created by the carol program at 10 o'clock, broadcast from speakers on Tribune Tower. The Sunday morning quiet replacing the week day roar was filled with voices calling all within hearing to the worship of the new born king.

Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago temple, in his Christmas sermon, called attention to a traffic officer at the intersection of Madison and State streets as an example of what the birth of Christ has done for the world. Dr. Thompson said he had watched the officer halt the holiday sweep of State street traffic to allow a grandmother and her grandchildren cross the thoroughfare in safety.

Before Christ came to show men the value of "the least of these," said Dr. Thompson, the rush of traffic could not have been stopped in the interests of many persons, to say nothing of one woman and her charges.

The same point, indicating the rise of the value of human life brought by Christianity, was made yesterday at the Episcopal Cathedral shelter, Washington and Peoria streets. At that charitable center Bishop George Craig Stewart gave Christmas cheer individually to 1,500 homeless men who had accepted Canon David E. Gibson's invitation to a Christmas dinner. Canon Gibson is the director of the shelter. During the holidays, with the aid of the shelter staff, Canon Gibson has given aid to nearly 15,000 persons.

The Cook County hospital became the scene of Christmas cheer when the 18 wards of the main building were visited by singers, dancers and entertainers sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. Three pianos on wheels were taken to the various wards where the entertainments were staged.

Headquarters of the Chicago Waiters' union at 180 West Randolph street was crowded with 400 unemployed members and their families at 1 o'clock for turkey dinners provided by the union.

BRAZIL INDIANS SACK RIVERTOWN; KILL 7; KIDNAP 9

Settlers of Interior Fear Further Attacks.

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

IMPERATRIZ, Maranhao, Brazil, Dec. 25.—Refugees arriving from Conceicao do Araguaya, 75 miles west of here, tell of the sack of their town, the murder of seven white people including two women, the kidnaping of nine children and the theft of large quantities of foodstuffs, arms and ammunition by Caipos Indians, one of the fiercest tribes of the untamed interior of Brazil.

About 6 o'clock one morning the Indians, among them women, armed with modern Winchester rifles and poisoned arrows descended on the town from the north, and in a well organized attack took it completely by surprise. Native workers and farmers evacuated as quickly as possible, leaving the town to the Indians who still are celebrating their victory.

Natives Evacuate.

Natives took to their canoes going down the river [north] to Alcobaca, or fleeing east to Imperatriz which is on the border between the states of Para and Maranhao. Farmers abandoned their crops; entire families are destitute and none care to return unless strong measures are taken by state's authorities. The entire section is in a state of horror over the outrage and in fear of further attacks.

Refugees sent long telegrams to federal interventor Maj. Magallaes Barata of Para seeking help and urging him to revenge the outrage. It is reported here that a strong detachment of state police has been sent from Belem to the upper Tocantins river.

Rich and Tough Country.

Conceicao is on the Araguaya river, less than a hundred miles from where it joins the Tocantins, which it divides into upper and lower reaches. The lower reach empties into the Para, southwest of Belem. The upper reach extends far south into the interior. Conceicao is about 400 miles south of Belem.

Though the land and resources along the Tocantins and Araguaya rivers are rich, the region is one of the toughest in South America. The state through laxity or impotence is unable to manage the Indians.

Patrick Sheridan Smith On the Way to Recovery

Patrick Sheridan Smith, former city clerk, made further gains yesterday in his fight for life. He is in the Illinois Central hospital, suffering from gastric ulcers, and for a time was near death. Dr. Charles Lindsay said last night that Mr. Smith appears definitely on the way to recovery.

SINO-JAPANESE BATTLE IN JEHOL CLOSE AT HAND

Irregulars Clash North of Great Wall.

[Copyright, 1932, By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 25.—While most of the world was thinking of peace and good will today North China was flooded with reports of intensified guerrilla warfare just outside the great wall. Peiping and Tientsin are appalled at increasing indications that the long heralded hostilities destined to settle the status of Jehol are about to commence.

Japanese Drop Bombs, Pamphlets.

The Japanese confirm Chinese reports of weak long heavy fighting between irregulars and Japanese troops to the westward and northward of Chinchow, especially around Jehol and the frontier points of Chaoyang and Peipiao.

Meanwhile Japanese aerial squadrons have bombed irregulars concentrated at Kailu and other airplanes have showered pamphlets on Suichuns and other points just beyond Shanhaikwan warning that a "Manchukuo army of 100,000 strong" is preparing to attack Jehol.

Jehol Governor Loyal.

Official Chinese dispatches report heavy Japanese concentrations at Chinchow with the populace in a panic along Jehol borders. Tang Yulin, the Jehol governor, telegraphs he remains loyal and intends to resist the invasion, but demands enormous material and financial support.

Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted war lord of Manchuria, is secluded with influenza, but plans a conference, the object of which was not announced, with Han Fu-chu, the Shantung governor, and other military leaders now gathering at Peiping.

FATHER DEAD; SEEK SON HERE.

The Chicago police were asked yesterday to search for Francis Gorgin, a plasterer, and inform him that his father, Michael Gorgin, 70 years old, died Saturday in Omaha of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

IRAQ STRIVES TO TEMPER DESERT LAW TO CITY LAW

Would Soften Cruelties of Tribal Justice.

BY ERNEST MAIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BAGDAD, Dec. 25.—The declared program of the new Iraq cabinet provides for an attempt to reconcile tribal law and all its cruelties with the law recognized in national courts. Desert justice is inexorable. A tribeswoman who besmirches the family honor, for example, must be murdered by a male member of her household.

There is considerable confusion in the laws of Iraq. Among the commercial communities and in the towns generally, the old Ottoman code is the basis of the law. There are at the same time religious courts which administer the ancient Moslem law in certain matters, and in addition there are Jewish and Christian tribunals which settle the more domestic affairs. The British occupation during the war also brought in a stratum of Indian law.

All this mixture now forms a kind of code which is administered by the national courts. The average citizen is subject to them.

Tribesman Outside Town Law.

Outside the towns, however, and outside this legal composium comes the tribesman. Hundreds of thousands of tribespeople, either settled as cultivators in various parts of the country or nomadic wanderers, recognize only the law of the tribes. This in effect is the old law of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.

Tribal custom, in condemning loose women, dictates that any male relative who may be decided upon by the family must kill any girl relative who has brought dishonor upon the family. If a husband discovers that his wife is unfaithful he hands her back to her family, one of whom must proceed to have her removed.

When a tribesman comes before the court charged with such a murder there is a compromise. Ordinarily the national law provides the death penalty for all murders, but a murderer satisfying the family honor by killing a faithless woman is usually dismissed with a prison sentence.

Murder Seen as Justice.

The murder of one tribesman by another, however, is treated as an ordinary case in the national courts and the guilty slayer is condemned to death. But if the murder be merely the expiation of a blood feud, the tribesmen consider the guilty person not only blameless but as having done justice in carrying out the decrees of tribal law.

Many difficulties obviously beset the task of bringing one system of law into existence throughout the country. It is generally believed that newer generations will have to grow up before the old ideas can disappear altogether.

LEVI COOKE, WHO FOUGHT FOR BEER LAW, DROPS DEAD

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Levi Cooke, who for many years was the Washington attorney of many of the prominent liquor interests of the country, dropped dead today at his home, 2403 Wyoming avenue, northwest.

LEVI COOKE. [Acme Photo.]

Mr. Cooke came here as a newspaperman twenty-five years ago. He was born in Waynesville, O., in 1882. He was graduated from the Ohio State university and from the law school of George Washington university. He was admitted to the bar of the District of Columbia in 1906 and attracted nation-wide attention as one of the counsel for former Secretary of the Interior Fall in the Teapot Dome naval oil lease case.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Warner Cooke, who was a daughter of the late Brainerd H. Warner, millionaire Washington real estate operator.

Mr. Cooke appeared before the ways and means committee last week and submitted an argument in support of the beer tax bill and the bill to legalize wine. He represented the California wine interests.

The funeral services will be held at the residence at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Funeral Services Today for Charles A. Stevens

Funeral services will be held in the Rosehill cemetery chapel at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for Charles Anthony Stevens, founder and chairman of the board of Charles A. Stevens & Co., loop department store. Mr. Stevens died of a heart ailment in his home at 349 Fullerton parkway Saturday afternoon. He was 73 years old.

EXPERTS' FEES CUT $150,000 BY CITY THIS YEAR

Bulk of 1931 Expense on Old Bills.

City Controller Szymczak has compiled figures on the city's expenditures for "experts," indicating that they have not been overlooked in economy measures put into effect during the last year. His figures show that payments to them so far this year have dropped more than $150,000 below the fees paid out during the first eleven months of 1931.

In that period $517,641 was received by the "experts." For the first eleven months of this year the payments total only $367,481. Of the amount of $517,641 paid out during the first eleven months of 1931 $265,435 was paid during the first four months and is credited to the previous Republican administration. In the other seven months the administration of Mayor Cermak paid out $250,206.

Payments Are Compared.

The payment figures for the eleven months' period of 1931 and 1932 are:

	1931.	1932.
January	$ 31,115	$ 4,926
February	113,875	30,501
March	87,520	58,099
April	38,125	28,583
May	33,547	19,724
June	32,534	31,784
July	30,946	95,[illegible]10
August	27,872	36,[illegible]98
September	44,492	49,383
October	51,610	15,[illegible]33
November	32,641	4,610
Totals	$517,641	$367,481

The largest payment during any one month this year was in July when the city paid off a number of old vouchers, many of them for services rendered under the previous city administration. The largest payment during the eleven months of 1931 was in February when the former mayor needed money for his campaign, and the next largest payment was in March, the month prior to the mayoralty election.

A Cut of 29 Per Cent.

The reduction of $150,160 in the payments this year, a decrease of 29 per cent below the 1931 payments, and a decrease of 52 per cent under the payments totaling $765,806 which were made during the first eleven months of 1930. The budget for 1932 was reduced approximately 19 per cent under that of 1931, indicating that the experts have been harder hit than the average.

DEATH CLAIMS DR. C. J. BESTA OF BRIDEWELL

Funeral services for Dr. Charles J. Besta, staff physician and surgeon at the Bridewell hospital for seven years, will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Lawndale Masonic temple. Dr. Besta died on Saturday night after a cerebral hemorrhage suffered at the dinner table in his home at 2354 South St. Louis avenue.

Hundreds of hoodlums, taken to the Bridewell after shooting escapades, have been treated by Dr. Besta. The latest was Frank Nitti, Capone gangster shot by a policeman last Monday.

Dr. Besta was discussing plans for Christmas day with his mother and three sisters, Libby, Mary, and Blanche, when he was stricken.

He was 36 years old.

Attorney David D. Fickle Dies at Logansport, Ind.

Logansport, Ind., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—David D. Fickle, 73, lawyer, former mayor and once school superintendent, died of heart disease today.

FEWER MARRY, BUT DIVORCES ALSO DECLINE

Fewer couples are marrying but those already wed are more inclined to remain that way is the conclusion reached by Frank V. Zintak and John E. Conroy, clerks respectively of the Superior and Circuit courts, after comparing reports completed yesterday by themselves and County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer.

The computations show that with the year practically ended weddings have declined 13.7 per cent from the 1931 total while divorces in both courts declined 5 per cent. The records show that 1931 was the only year in which both marriages and divorces declined.

5,663 Fewer Married in 1932.

Weddings during 1932 dropped to 28,421, according to the tables prepared by Sidney Summerfield, marriage license clerk, as compared with 32,084 in 1931. Divorces in both courts totaled 7,331 for the year as compared with 7,806 last year, and 10,101 in 1930. In the Circuit court the decrees declined from 3,313 in 1931 to 3,275 and in the Superior court from 4,494 in 1931 to 4,166.

In 1930 three wives got divorces for each husband who won his suit, and in 1931 this ratio changed to six wives for every husband. In 1932 the court records disclose that seven wives have obtained their freedom for every husband who got a divorce. The courts divorced one couple in every 143 families in the county, at the rate of one every 58 minutes of the 300 court days in the year.

The judges, adopting a policy intended to end gold digging by wives, have allowed alimony in only 70 per cent of the cases. Last year alimony was allowed in 81 per cent of all cases. Most of those cases where alimony was allowed in 1932 involved the care of children.

$2,030,473 in Alimony Paid.

The total sum paid in alimony, settlements and support in 1932 totaled $2,030,473. In 1931 the total was $2,816,033 and in 1930 it aggregated $3,037,473. During 1932 almost $1,500,000 of the total was paid in weekly installments. Clerks in the courts said that the once popular plan of ending alimony payments by giving ex-wives cash settlements is on the wane.

In the Circuit court 1,803 children were taken under the protection of the divorce judges and in the Superior court 1,731 children were involved in the suits.

WOMAN DIES AFTER FALL.

Miss Mary R. Hewitt, 81 years old, 7537 Evans avenue, died in the County hospital yesterday as the result of a fall in her home on Dec. 19.

L. MEISTERHEIM, FORMER COUNTY JAILER, IS DEAD

Lorenz Meisterheim, one time politician in the old 11th ward and for five years assistant or acting jailer, died yesterday morning in the Norwegian American hospital. He was 60 years old.

Born in Germany, Mr. Meisterheim came to Chicago at the age of 14. In politics he was aligned at first with the Deneen faction and later with the Barrett group. He was for years a student of criminology.

The body will lie at the home, 2646 West 23d street, until Wednesday, when the funeral will be held at 2 p. m. in the chapel at 3409 Madison street. The widow, Agnes, two daughters, Edn. Meisterheim and Mrs. Walter Ray, and a granddaughter, June Ray, survive.

GRAVE MARKER SELECTED, HE KILLS HIMSELF

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Solomon Slutzkin, 53, of the Bronx, called this afternoon at the establishment of Max Goldfinger, maker of tombstones, on East Houston street, announcing he had come to select a tombstone for a fellow member of a fraternal organization. A few minutes later, Slutzkin stepped into the washroom of the establishment and committed suicide by firing a bullet through his brain.

He left two notes. One was addressed to a friend. It explained that Slutzkin had lost $200,000 in the stock market, that he was going to commit suicide, and added that when he got to heaven he would inform William Jennings Bryan that they now had 3.2 or per cent beer on earth.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"The Cat and the Fiddle" came to the Apollo theater on Christmas night to give conclusive reasons why it had a year long run on Broadway. This diversion is an operetta of notable distinction, admirably staged and brilliantly interpreted. It represents the work of two old masters of the light lyric stage in collaboration, Jerome Kern for the buoyant score and Otto Harbach for the words that are as light, as graceful and as romantic as the music. In every department of this admirable production there is assured skill and compelling charm.

The authors call their piece a "musical romance," which is a definition that has been attached to many another operetta. In this case, however, it happens to be exact. The neatly arranged story of "The Cat and the Fiddle" deals with two musicians in the ecstasies and quarrels of a romantic love affair.

He is a young high-brow composer for the symphony orchestras, and she is a girl with a knack for writing popular songs with a dash of jazz, and they get on each other's artistic nerves in a way that provides opportunities for some spirited operettish scenes, duets, finalettos, etc., before the happy ending is melodiously achieved. It is a slender plot, but is treated with ingenuity. "The Cat and the Fiddle" proves that there is a surprising amount of vitality left in the standard operetta formula when handled with intelligence.

Bettina Hall appears as the blithe American heroine of the popular song sheets who disturbs the serious musical career of a young Rumanian of lofty ambitions. She last appeared here in conjunction with her sister Natalie in "Three Little Girls," but now she stands by herself as a prima donna—the loveliest singing girl of the contemporary operetta stage. Her voice is everything that might be expected of an alumna of the American Opera company, and she is also a comedienne with an easy ripple of laughter in her heart. In brief, I am prepared to rave over Miss Hall, as the focus of this or any other musical romance.

Michael Bartlett, who is new to Chicago playgoers, fits into the rôle of the Rumanian hero as if he were born on the banks of the Danube instead of being a purely American product. He is a convincing music student, and also a persuasive, upstanding young man of the world with a sentimental fever in his blood. Miss Hall and Mr. Bartlett give a striking quality of realism to the romantic story.

Other personalities that command attention in the excellent cast are Jose Ruben, in a crisp character study of a theater manager; Odette Myrtil, still playing her violin, as an actress; Arthur Treacher, as an amusing example of the typical British wag with a vacant mind, George Meader as a street musician who ought to be in opera, Doris Carson as an American soubrette, Bobby Jarvis as a dancing lad, and Fred Walton as an absent-minded hack librettest. The company, which represents the complete lineup of the Broadway engagement, is right in every particular; and the many scenes are mounted in the picturesque and sumptuous style that has marked Max Gordon's brief but highly successful career as an impresario.

I might add that the scene of the story is Brussels, which is a welcome change in operetta locales. Thus "The Cat and the Fiddle" has the European atmosphere which seems to be necessary in operettas, but nevertheless, as Ed Wynn says in his "Laugh Parade" prologue, "It's different." This show is one of the major hits of the theatrical year and should be received with enthusiasm.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

In attic or basement recreation room, or in some convenient kitchen corner where one eats an occasional extra meal, there are convenient little combination wall cabinets and breakfast tables which can be attached to a wall. These small utilities are handy assets. The cabinet contains shelves which house dishes and glassware. Then, when the need arises, the lower part of the cabinet opens out and you have a small table ready for service. Chairs of course should match.

Holiday Visitor

[National Photo News.]

A holiday visitor to the city who is being entertained by her relatives and friends is Miss Betty Rowe, debutante daughter of Mrs. Eddy Rowe of New York, formerly of Chicago. Miss Rowe is spending the holiday season with her father, Samuel Davis Rowe, and his wife in Barrington, but she is in town with her aunt, Mrs. Alvin C. McCord, part of the time. Mr. and Mrs. Rowe will give a dinner for Miss Rowe on Monday, Jan. 2, at the Tavern club.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

(Copyright, 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.)

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

AN INNOCENT VICTIM.

Prof. Fordney, investigating the kidnaping of 7 year old Irving Bell Jr., stood on a chair, reached up and examined the window in the cellar playroom, at the same time carefully noting a man's footprints in the snow directly outside. Finding no evidence of a forced entrance, his face bore a puzzled look.

That afternoon Mrs. Bell, the child's stepmother, had left Junior alone with his Christmas toys and driven her car into town to do some shopping.

"It's just torture to see the tree and all his gifts and not know where he is," exclaimed Bell. "My wife is prostrate with grief. She said she felt perfectly safe in leaving him after securely locking all the doors and windows. She told Junior not to leave this room until she returned and for that reason I feel confident that he opened the window to some one he knew and that some one kidnaped him! Poor little fellow . . . he hasn't even got on an overcoat. I'll go mad if the police don't soon bring word! The kidnaper must have come in through that window because all others were securely bolted when my wife returned."

"Nothing has been touched?" Fordney inquired, surveying the room's slight disorder.

"No—nothing."

"Undoubtedly, Mr. Bell, you are right in surmising that the kidnaper gained entrance through that window as the inside sill has a damp spot; probably melted snow. And there are some fresh scratches also. I'm afraid what I have to say will be a shock to you, but I must see your wife immediately. I have reason to believe she is involved in the child's disappearance!"

WHY DID THE PROFESSOR THINK SO?

Good Morning!

Blithe ladies who ridicule their old fashioned husbands and wish that the dears would play about [quite innocuously, of course] outside, in order to be more 1932 and interesting at home, should take stock of "Cynara."

Here you have a man who loves no woman but his wife and has an eye for no other. Here too, behold a true and devoted wife. But the beautiful lady permits herself to be carried hither and yon by circumstances she doesn't particularly try to control and is so sure of her hold on her spouse that she makes no bones of leaving him all alone in London for weeks, yea months, at a stretch.

"Go places! Do things!" she cries merrily on the eve of one departure.

And, verily he goeth places and doeth things and there is the very devil to pay.

Did you see the play? To me it possessed a vitality that the picture lacks. Perhaps this was due to the magnificently natural and pitifully convincing performance of the actress who portrayed the shopgirl—a most important rôle not at all fitted, I thought, to its present incumbent, Miss Phyllis Barry. Don't know where else to lay the blame, for, while Philip Merivale was fascinating—so is Ronald Colman. Lovely Kay Francis' sincere performance as the wife is most praiseworthy. And the cynical old bachelor whose serpent whisperings result in such catastrophe, is portrayed by Henry Stephenson, who created the part in the stage production.

Certainly the picture has been brilliantly directed by King Vidor and is as handsomely mounted a thing as you would care to see. So then, I reluctantly accuse Miss Barry of being the fly in the ointment. She can act—but she is not the type who dies and whom worms eat—for love. Never for a moment does she "get over" as the voraciously love and pleasure hungry young woman of the story who breathlessly agreed to play for certain stakes and tried, unsuccessfully, to change them as the game neared its close.

All this aside, "Cynara" has been excellently adapted, has a sure supporting cast and presents Ronald Colman in a guise that will fetter him more tightly than ever—and that's pretty tight—to the affections of his admirers. It is an interesting photoplay—worthy of patronage.

The title, as Mr. Collins told you, is based on lines from Ernest Dowson's one time famous poem. The lines—"I have been faithful to thee, Cynara, in my fashion." Robert Gore Brown wrote the book—"An Imperfect Lover"—from which the stage play was adapted. His present rôle is Mr. Colman's third screen duplication of stage parts created by Gerald du Maurier, the English actor. "Bull Dog Drummond" and "Raffles" were the others.

See you tomorrow.

New Midseason Frocks Arrive in Smart Shops

Colorful Clothes Also Bear Tempting Price Tags.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

During the last few days while you were shopping for Christmas loot, lots of the smartest shops were busily unpacking the new midseason collections and the very next time you wander down to shop you will see these colorful new clothes hanging around, with very tempting price tags clipped to the belts.

You will see some of the newest prints, frocks of cheerful printed designs, and quite a bit different from the last year's stuff of wide and wild design. This year you will notice the 1933 printed signs of smartness, the small patterns, the soft very feminine and flattering colors, the tiny wisps of fresh, crisp, white organdy that cleverly contrast necklines, cuffs and even beltlines.

All the newest silk and thin wool frocks are still busy with tucks and pleats. Some very fetching new models have tiny puffed sleeves attached to the frocks with fat, roly-poly cartridge pleats that sort of clamp the sleeves to the dress. Others use the same kind of pleats to attach the hip sections of the skirt to the waistline.

Printed silks are tremendously attractive, just the colorful sort of dresses that you are anxious to find, to help you through the dull days that often follow the exciting month of December. Fresh greens, spotted with floral designs full of yellow-cheer, seem particularly desirable and the American made fabrics featuring these crisp green shades are everything that any color conscious shopper could possibly demand.

You are going to be delighted with all the misty shades of blue, blue-grey mauve and heather tones. Some of the best looking new silk dresses are made of these shades that will be perfect under the very new wool furless coats. These coats are knockouts. They are made by an American designer, fashioned of American fabrics, designed with a lot of snap and dash, with wide lapels, pinched-in waistlines, a double row of matching bone buttons that hold the coat tight and snug and swank around the silhouette.

The entire affair is as faultlessly tailored as anything from London, and as a final gesture for midwinter in midwestern climates, the coat is interlined. Discreetly puffed sleeves provide the feminizing influence; puffed sleeves that are just a whisper of the leg-o-mutton style of long ago. This new 1933 street and daytime coat comes in many eye thrilling colors, a blue-grey that looks like heather, a live green that makes you think of new spring foliage, a new beige with lots of yellow in it, a bright, audacious tangerine shade and some exciting checks of small dimension.

After the coats have practically taken your best adjectives, you can, and will, spend all your extra shekels on new suits, snappy, clever short jacketed affairs that are destined for instant approval. All suits have wide lapels, quantities of pockets, skirts with plenty of pleats and unusual blouses of striped and plain colored silk crêpes.

These blouses are the best finds. They are usually sleeveless with fascinating necklines that tie and twist till a scarf effect has been achieved.

R. J. Reynolds Jr., Heir of Tobacco Magnate, Is Engaged to Marry

Winston-Salem, N. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The engagement of Richard J. Reynolds Jr., eldest heir of the late tobacco magnate and brother of the late Smith Reynolds, to Miss Elizabeth McCaw Dillard of Winston-Salem, was announced today.

Reynolds and Miss Dillard have known each other since childhood, but the romance is said to have developed since he was called home from a world cruise by the shooting of his brother, Smith, last July.

The engagement was announced by Miss Dillard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Dillard. The wedding date was not set. Miss Dillard is a member of the Junior league and is active in social affairs here.

Young Reynolds has been here most of the time since his arrival in August from his cruise, although he was recently on a hunting trip with Bobby Jones in Georgia.

Smith Reynolds about a year ago married Libby Holman, Broadway favorite, who was indicted on a charge of murder growing out of his death and then cleared of the charge.

Helen Walcott's Engagement Surprises "at Home" Guests

William D. McKenzies of Hubbard Woods Join in Winnetka Christmas Party.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE friends who dropped in informally yesterday afternoon at the residence of the Chester Howe Walcotts of Winnetka, found that the "at home" to which they had been invited was for the purpose of acquainting them with the engagement of the elder daughter of the family, Helen, to Roderick McKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. McKenzie of Hubbard Woods.

It was a jolly Christmas party, with the young couple there to receive the congratulations and good wishes of their friends and with both sets of parents on hand, too, as well as the younger Walcott daughter, Julie, who is in the "sub-deb" class, and Roxane McKenzie, who is even younger than that, being about twelve.

Miss Walcott made her debut a year ago last September at a dance at the Indian Hill club. She is a graduate of the North Shore Country Day school and last year attended Smith college. Mr. McKenzie is a student at Northwestern university now, having attended Princeton and having "prepped" at the Asheville school. No date for the wedding has been set.

30 Debutantes to Be Guests at Casino Party.

About thirty of this year's debutantes and their beaux will have luncheon today at the Casino as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Johnson, at a party they are giving for the Misses Lydia Swift, Marie Swift and Elizabeth Baum. There will be a pianist to provide music during luncheon and for dancing later, if the young people want to dance.

Tonight the debutantes and their beaux will dine and dance at a party which Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Boysen will give to introduce to society their daughter, Bobette, who is at home from Vassar for the holidays. The affair, which will be given at the "900," will be attended by about 150, with the invitation list limited to this year's buds and plenty of young men; for of course there must be two men to every girl to make it a successful dancing party!

Later tonight, probably around midnight, the whole Boysen party will go to the Casino, where Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey are giving a dance for their debutante daughter, Louise. Miss Dewey will be at the Boysen party, but her parents are giving a dinner before the dance for the former Suzette Dewey and her husband, Frederick M. Alger Jr., who arrive this morning from Detroit for a visit with the Deweys.

Parties Arranged for Richard E. Danielsons.

Among the numerous dinner parties to be given for Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Danielson of Boston [Barbara Deering], who are to arrive tomorrow for the dedication on Wednesday of the Charles Deering library at Northwestern university, is one that Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn are to have next Friday evening. The guests will include Mrs. Robert R. McCormick,

DR. MARY GREGG, NOTED MEDICAL MISSIONARY, DIES

Fall in Home Is Fatal to 74 Year Old Physician.

Dr. Mary E. Gregg, noted medical missionary, died yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital. Death resulted from injuries received on Dec. 12, when she fell in her home at 2304 West 111th place. She was 74 years old.

Dr. Gregg, who was unmarried, was born in Monmouth, Ill., in 1858. Her father, the late William M. Gregg, was a banker. In 1883 he came to Chicago, founded a commission firm and became a member of the Board of Trade.

Dr. Gregg received her early education in Monmouth. In 1891 she was graduated from the Hahnemann Medical college and served a two year internship at the Hahnemann hospital. In 1906 she went to Guatemala as a representative of the Presbyterian church. She remained for ten years, establishing a hospital and a training school for nurses.

Weakened in health by recurrent attacks of tropical fever she returned to the United States in 1916 and immediately began missionary work among Mexicans in Chicago. She retired from active practice a year ago after she suffered a paralytic stroke.

She was a member of the American Medical association, the Chicago Medical society and the Illinois State Medical society. She is survived by a nephew, Harold E. Gregg, with whom she lived, and a sister, Mrs. Emma McCain of San Francisco.

Funeral services will be held this morning in the Buena Memorial church by Dr. Henry Hepburn.

Mrs. Matt W. Pinkerton Dead; Funeral Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Ann Emma Pinkerton, 81 years old, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in her home at 4430 Ellis avenue. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery. Mrs. Pinkerton died Saturday night. For 50 years she had been active in the Rock River conference of the Methodist church, holding executives offices in the women's divisions. She was a leading member of St. James' Methodist church. Mrs. Pinkerton was the widow of Matt W. Pinkerton, operator of a detective agency. Although Mr. Pinkerton was distantly related to Allan Pinkerton of Pinkerton's National Detective agency, the two agencies were not connected. Mrs. Pinkerton is survived by a son, Ralph.

Harrison B. Walter Rites Will Be Held Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 for Harrison B. Walter, who died on Saturday at his home, 923 Margate terrace. Mr. Walter, a native of Covington, Ky., was 69 years old. He had been manager of one of the engineering departments of the Container Corporation of America. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mathilda B. Walter, and three daughters, Beverly of Chicago, Helen of New York City, and Mrs. Frank Deacon of Philadelphia. The services will be in the chapel at 2701 North Clark street.

H. W. Fox Dies in Florida; Hold Rites Here Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon in the Rosehill cemetery chapel for Harold W. Fox, former engineer for the Illinois Bell Telephone company, who died suddenly in St. Petersburg, Fla., on Saturday. He was 62 years old. Mr. Fox had served the telephone company for 24 years until his retirement in April of 1929. Since his retirement he had spent his winters in Florida. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Elmer Jewell Dick, and a son, Stuart K. Fox.

Helen Walcott Engagement Is Xmas Surprise

Winnetka Girl to Be Bride of Roderick McKenzie.

Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, Arthur Orr, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Wolf. The Danielsons and their two children, Marion and James Deering Danielson, are to be guests of the Chauncey McCormicks during their stay in Chicago.

Mrs. Charles Deering, who, with her daughter, Mrs. McCormick, and Mrs. Danielson, is giving the library to the university in memory of her husband and their father, has moved from the McCormick apartment to the Fortnightly. The McCormicks went out to Wheaton on Saturday to spend the Christmas week-end at their country estate, and Mrs. Deering, of course, went with them.

Mr. and Mrs. McCormick are to give a dinner tomorrow evening for the Danielsons.

Miss Helen Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Johnson, made her formal debut yesterday at a Christmas reception and tea at her parents' residence in Evanston. The debutants wore a white velvet gown and green slippers of the same shade as her jade necklace. Her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Johnson, who received with her daughter, wore a brown velvet dress and an orchid corsage.

After the tea Mrs. John C. Slade of Evanston and her daughter, Miss Carroll Slade, gave a supper dance for Miss Johnson and her 14 assistants at the Glen View Country club. Miss Slade's engagement to Kenneth C. McKeown of Hubbard Woods was announced a week ago.

Miss Benoist Selects Assistants for Her Debut.

When Miss Elmira Lee Benoist is presented to society by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Benoist, at a New Year's day reception at their Winnetka residence she will be assisted by the following young women: Miss Frances Bell, Miss Lucy Trumbull, Miss Nancy Traylor, Miss Martha Jenkins, Miss Elizabeth Gillies, Miss Ellen Truax, Miss Catherine Korroday, and Miss Elizabeth Edmonds, who is to make her bow at a tea on Monday, Jan. 2. Miss Benoist spent several weeks in St. Louis this winter and was introduced to society there by her grandmother, Mrs. Edmond Garesche.

The Garesche and Benoist families are two of St. Louis' oldest and most aristocratic families and the "coming out" of "Mira" Benoist there this fall was one of the most important of the season's debuts in the Missouri city. The "impertinent magazine"—as society describes that daring publication which attempts to grade the debutantes of the various eastern and middle western cities, quite rightly put lovely Miss Benoist in grade "A."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Baker, who arrived recently to spend several weeks at their Chicago residence, will entertain about fifty at a buffet supper tonight at the home, 2344 Lincoln Park West. Mrs. Baker is the former Miss Marjorie Ward.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Emy Reed to Samuel A. Harper on Dec. 20 at the residence of the bride at 4755 Lake Park avenue. After Jan. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Harper are to depart for Florida. The bride is the widow of Earl H. Reed.

Miss Rose Whitman to Arrive Wednesday.

A young visitor in whom society will be greatly interested is arriving Wednesday in time for Miss Marjorie Goodman's dinner dance at the Palmer House. The visitor is Miss Rose Whitman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks H. Whitman of Boston and granddaughter of the late Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Taylor of Chicago, the former Rose Farwell, one of society's most beautiful and best loved women. Miss Whitman is to be with Miss Goodman and her mother, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, for several days and then she will go to Lake Forest to visit her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor.

Mrs. Waller Borden spent Christmas eve in Lake Forest with her son-in-law and daughter, the Robert S. Firies, and their baby daughter, Joan. The other Borden daughter, Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, and Mr. Stevenson and their two wee sons, Adlai Jr. and Borde., also were there. Mrs. Borden had the family with her at her residence in town, 1020 Lake Shore drive, for Christmas dinner last night.

The young "Jack" Noyeses had the family for dinner Christmas eve at their residence, 1242 Lake Shore drive, and today they and their two babies and Mr. Noyes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest High Noyes, and Mr. and Mrs. George Senseney [Florence Noyes] are motoring to Geneva to spend the day with the senior Mrs. Noyes' uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah McRoberts.

Olive Atwater Returns; Wedding Date Undecided.

Miss Olive Atwater has returned from Pasadena, where she has been with her grandfather, A. G. Cox, and has joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Atwater, at the Drake. Miss Atwater's marriage to George F. Getz Jr. will take place late this winter or early in the spring, but no definite date has been set.

Dr. and Mrs. Horace Kent Tenney of Madison, Wis., and their three sons arrived in Winnetka on Christmas day for a visit with Dr. Tenney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Kent Tenney. They will remain just a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James Fleming of 210 East Pearson street are spending a month in Phoenix, and later will go to Santa Barbara for a short stay before returning home about Feb. 1.

Fred W. Fairman Jr. of Winnetka has returned from Yale to spend the holidays with his parents. His sister, Miss Joy Fairman, celebrated her Christmas in Rome, where she is at school.

Governor and Mrs. Louis Lincoln Emmerson will hold their annual New Year reception next Monday afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock at the executive mansion in Springfield.

The Chicago Drama league has invitations out for an event which probably will be well attended despite the rush of holiday activities this week. It's to be a breakfast for Mme. Alla Nazimova and members of "The Good Earth" company, on Friday at 12 o'clock at the Blackstone hotel.

This Exercise Makes Fat Vanish from Waistline, Hips and Legs

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You understand, of course, that in offering this series of exercises the object is not reducing alone but BEAUTIFUL reducing. We want you to have those "lines" of silhouette that today distinguish the smart figure from the dowdy or just so-so. Dieting alone, as said before, takes down weight, but it does not leave the body limbered, young, and alert in motion. And this you simply must have.

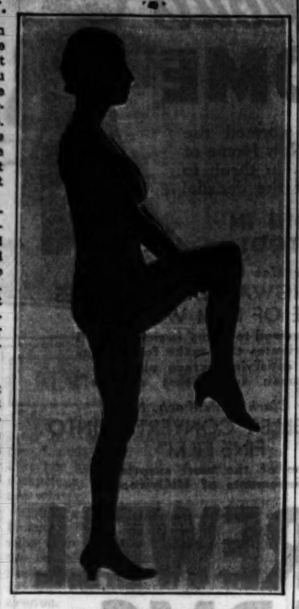
Today's exercise is everybody's exercise! It's a perfectly grand one—whether you want to get slimmed down, or whether you want a curved bust line, or whether you want to smarten those stiffish muscles of yours. It'll give you "pep." And what it will do for a waistline is every woman's business. For better posture, for a better hip line, better spine, it is simply swell.

If there's fat moored along the waist sides, try this exercise and see what happens. Don't try it once and expect something to happen. Be on the square with it—and repeat from fifteen to twenty times at a stretch—morning, noon, or night—and SEE what happens in six weeks' time. All that middle thickishness that's a worse giveaway than the crepy throat will vanish.

You know you must have a concave line under the bust for this year's clothes. No pouter pigeon puffiness. This exercise will give it.

But get it right! Do it slowly until you have the hang of it. First do it with foot planted firmly on the ground. Then, when you get the technique of the whole movement, do it on tiptoes. You stretch better on tiptoes. Also, you're helping to slim the leg.

You're standing erect. Now, raise the arms wide, wide, on outward and up sweep until the back of the fingertips touch. Stretch the torso and lean backward from the waist (not too much of a lean at first). Raise the right knee and bring the arms down with a wide, sweeping gesture; let the hands touch under the raised knee. Back up with the arms on a wide out and up sweep and bring the hands down to touch under the other knee, now raised. You get a fine reach of the body in this general movement and the action is altogether rejuvenating. Do it with snap!



Raise the arms in a wide swing overhead. Stretch the body tall and lean back from the waist slightly. Raise the left knee and swing the hands down to touch under the raised knee. Alternate with the other knee raised. Do this quickly and try it on tiptoes.

Lake Forest Alumni to Have Father-Son Luncheon

Alumni of Lake Forest academy will hold their annual Christmas father-and-son luncheon tomorrow at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club. Plans for the celebration of the diamond jubilee of the academy next June will be discussed. The academy held its first classes in the winter of 1857-8 and at the beginning of its third year lost a large proportion of its student body of 49, who went off to the civil war as members of the Ellsworth Guards.

Put Away Some of Child's Toys for Rainy Day

He's Usually Swamped at Christmas.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The story of the little boy who was found on Christmas afternoon happily playing with a hammer and a board while all his Christmas glory lay unnoticed under the tree is an experience many of us could duplicate. Or if we haven't had that experience we've had another—that of our small child attaching himself to just one toy for the whole of Christmas day to the exclusion of everything else. He can't play with everything at once and he's not old enough to count over his treasures, feeling very happy and rich in having so many things he likes. He's not quite old enough to gloat.

In fact, little children are confused by the possession of too many toys. The collection they find themselves with after Christmas often proves an embarrassment of riches. To play with just one for a few minutes and then another would not be either natural nor wise.

What to do then? The wisest thing is to notice which few playthings he likes best and leave those out for him, putting the others away. When he has discovered all their possibilities and seems ready for something fresh one of the other toys may be taken out. If he should remember and ask for it, of course, give it to him, even if he hasn't exhausted the others.

Several mothers I know make it a point to bring out one of these reserve toys on a rainy day or during a long spell of bad weather when the children are bored by being shut in. Or when they are convalescent or at some other "psychological moment," perhaps.

Besides this consideration of not letting too great quantity make the toys go stale together, there is the matter of suitability for age. Children usually receive some gifts that are too young for them and also some that are too old or difficult. After a few days the former may be given away and the latter put aside until the child has reached the age where he has the skill to handle them.

Vionnet's Pet Coat with Fur Bolero Indorsed by Discriminating Women

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—There are, in Paris, about five dressmakers who are famous for making coats and coat fashions. Madeleine Vionnet is at the top of this list. Her favorite coat in any season is sure to be a leading fashion, and therefore the coat illustrated today is of double interest. It is Vionnet's pet winter wrap, and many of the most elegant women in Paris are wearing it this season.

Around Paris this coat can be seen in a variety of colors. I have seen it in all black, in black and gray, in green and brown, in brown and beige, and in its original color scheme of rusty red and black.

The material is a Rodier woolen called burnell, a hairy fabric that is warm but not bulky. The body of this model is fitted, and the skirt is comfortably flared with an increased fullness toward the back, giving a new Vionnet coat silhouette. The sleeves are Vionnet's adapted peasant sleeves, with black Persian lamb cuffs that reach to the elbows.

Over the cloth coat Vionnet puts a sleeveless bolero jacket of black Persian lamb, with a wide shawl collar. The jacket and cuffs may be removed, and the furlined coat is ready for early spring. The cleverest detail of this coat is the black satin ribbon sash that closes it at the waistline and that gives the slimmest of slim lines.

New Scientific Honor Medal for Advancing Medicine Announced

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—A new scientific honor medal, awarded for advancing knowledge of human medicine, was announced today by George C. Lewis, president of the Chemists club of New York City.

The medal is endowed with funds furnished by Mrs. Madelyn Conne, of New York and New Orleans, in memory of her late husband, Philip A. Conne. It will be known as the Philip A. Conne medal.

The first annual award was also announced, the recipient being Prof. John J. Abel of Johns Hopkins medical school. Dr. Abel is president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the medal will be presented to him in Atlantic City next week, at the annual meeting of the association.

Dr. Abel isolated in pure form three of the most potent modern medical remedies: insulin, the hormone which alleviates diabetes; epinephrin, or adrenalin, the energy producing hormone from the suprarenal glands; and histamine, a digitalis like substance which he obtained first from toad skins.

He is sometimes called the "father of pharmacology in America."

The Chemists club of New York will administer the endowment for awarding the Conne medal.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Children Need Clothing.

"I wonder if you can help this family. The mother has four children and has been deserted by her husband. The children need clothing and she cannot buy it for them. I know she would be grateful to you if you get it for them. The boys are 7, 5, and 1 year old; the little girl is 3. They need everything, including underwear, shoes, and stockings. She has gone to live with her brother, but he is unable to give her more than a home.

"Mrs. C. H."

With these small children to care for and no one to help her, Mrs. H. has much cause for worry and anxiety. The question of clothing is an important one, and if settled would be an immense relief to her.

Travel Books Soothe Nerves After Feasts

These Authors Take You on Charming Trips.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THE day after Christmas and all through the house, the family all beginning to grouse . . . two holidays together wear the shine off highly polished nerves, too much noise, too much food, too much high spirits are liable to send the sensitive person into his mental hutch. Then ah, my foes, and O, my friends, the lovely light that is given, not by the candle burned at both ends, but by the thought of far places, perhaps gay and hilarious in their own right, but filled with a gayety of which you are a spectator, not a good provider. My secret solace for the after-Christmas blues is to take allopathic doses of words and pictures of remembered or longed-for spots and thus to pillow myself in the lap of the luxury of darting over the face of the globe like a fly on a half-inch globe.

C. S. BROOKS.

All of the seasons of the year are celebrated in books of the fall. There are, for instance, "English Spring," by Charles S. Brooks [Harcourt-Brace]; "German Summer," by Cornelia Stratton Parker [Liveright], and "The French Riviera," by Douglas Goldring [Farrar & Rinehart], which immediately takes care of the rest of the year. One book tells you to "Break Your Lease" [Brentano's] because it is cheaper to move—abroad—than pay rent, according to Helen H. Gay, and Charles Graves frankly teaches you how to travel in your own armchair in "Gone Abroad" [Dutton].

Charles S. Brooks has a genius for foot and head traveling. He has proved it before in "A Thread of English Road," which was the record of a cycling trip, and "Roundabout to Canterbury." He travels by foot, and his mind explores every byway that allures him. Walking on English country roads has a peculiar charm for the contemplative soul. England is somehow scaled to walking—as our country is scaled to motoring, or even swifter transport.

Charles S. Brooks is one of the best of all literary trampers, and the "footing" [as the French call it] on that ancient trail, worn by many feet, from Dorchester around to Bath by way of the rugged coast is an apotheosis of what William Hazlitt called "Going a Journey."

Do you remember the "English Summer" that Cornelia Stratton Parker chronicled so delightfully a few years ago? Now she spends a "German Summer" just as delightfully. In a collapsible rubberized river boat she and her young daughter made a waterways tour of Germany. And if you think that paddling your own collapsible canoe isn't as much fun as pedaling your own too-often collapsing feet, read of all the thrilling and amusing and delightful and gay things that happen to the Parkers. It is rumored that the stocks of the collapsible boat business in Germany rose immediately when "German Summer" was published.

There is nothing so primitive as tramping or hand boating about "The French Riviera"—just in case you're not feeling especially vigorous at the moment. All of the luxuries of that golden land are offered vicariously to the reader, its rich sophistication and its rich natural beauties. The physical map of the region is illumined by the author with the gayest colored chalks of man's life and his doings, both past and present.

After those three books you are just in a mood to go right out and "Break Your Lease," especially as the author of the book with that title, Helen H. Gay, assures you that you can have luxury abroad on a slim purse, and tells you exactly how to accomplish it, with budgets and blue prints. Choose your "abroad" North Africa, Europe, the West Indies, the Canaries . . . and you'll find out how to manage in the spot of your choice.

While you're on the way to the clothes closet to snap on the galoshes and set out for a steamship office, if your eye lights on "Gone Abroad" you'll sink back in the armchair and be gone with Charles Graves.

And when you've gone through all five of the books you'll be all set up by your foreign travel, yes?

Anyway, the after-Christmas blue blues will have disappeared.

Try it. Dr. Butcher's favorite prescription.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four master ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title, known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer, an unemployed French chauffeur, named Raoul, Roberts Millbank, and Peter Cavan. Roberts's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employé. Benny, a cook, blows up for his keep. Henery Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. The ship is seized by four stowaways on the high seas. A warning comes in over the radio about four bank robbers being at large and the captain realizes he and his crew are in their hands. After several days the bandits are overpowered and set adrift. The ship reaches Cape Town, where Henery's cargo is traded at a large profit. Their next destination is Sydney, Australia. Peter finds the robbers' loot hidden on the boat. The captain turns it over to the U. S. consul at Sydney. The cargo is discharged at Sydney and another picked up for delivery to Japan, where another profitable trade is made. The ship now sails to the island, where the sunken treasure craft is located. Capt. Hiram, Adam, and Peter take turns diving for the oysters.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

MENTAL RADIO WARNINGS.

Two days' work cleaned up the deck of the sunk lighter. She was a small but burdensome craft of not more than fifty-five feet overall, but very beamy, of high free board. In her after end were the oil engines and a deck house, on the forward end of which was the raised wheel house. There was a roomy hatchway, and forward of that just abaft where a derrick mast had been there was a small and rather low rectangular structure that had probably been built later when her service became tropical as a galley or cook house and to berth two hands. The Captain had looked into it and seen a corroded old square cook stove and two bunks.

The hatch cover had been removed, but secured so that it could not float away when the vessel had been sunk. There was a heap of shell below.

It seemed he heard a curious pulsation above the roar of the surf.

They could not tell how much. It now became necessary to hoist that out, a more arduous and disagreeable labor.

This shell looked like all the rest. As it was gradually discharged, Capt. Hiram explored the hold and found it empty except for some cases of stores and a few drums of fuel oil. Some of them were empty, but had been pierced.

He did not bother to remove anything but the shell. Each day now, every hour in fact, their sojourn in the lagoon was becoming more dangerous. At any time a patrol boat might be sighted.

Finally Capt. Hiram could stand the suspense no longer.

"She's nearly empty," he said one evening. "If there's not a fortune in that bin, then what's left won't matter much. We're going to get out. I've got a hunch that we ought not to hang around here any longer than we have to."

Ladybird nodded. "I don't need a hunch to believe that."

Capt. Hiram said apologetically, "I've never been superstitious like so many sailors, but I've had presentiments before, and most times they've been justified."

"Why not?" Peter asked. He had at times interested himself mildly in metaphysics, numerology, and psychic phenomena. "Sailors and plainsmen and people that live close to nature with long periods of slight human contact naturally get sensitive to such impressions. Their mental radio is more susceptible."

Nobody challenged this opinion. They were by this time all too tense. Taking a vote as he invariably did when an important move was to be decided, all were in favor of letting what was left of the scattered shell remain and getting out the next morning at dawn before the breeze came in. The tide would be falling then and a sluggish current going seaward through the entrance. Their two motor boats could drift the schooner out under these conditions far enough to set sail and work clear with safety.

They were all tired, Peter particularly. He was strong and sinewy, but for some reason the diving work exhausted him more than it did the other two. This was probably because of a nervous temperament that made it impossible for him to work slowly and keep within the limits of his strength. It was the same in whatever he undertook. Little by little he sped up the movement.

They had rigged a rough crows' nest in the fore crosstrees so that the lookout would be in no danger of falling from a careless movement. The Captain and Peter and Adam took three hours each that carried them through the darkness. It was a hard climb, and seemed easier for one man to stay aloft until relieved than to make several trips.

Adam took the evening watch and came down and called Peter at 11. Peter had not been asleep from overfatigue, perhaps. He was getting drowsy when called, and once settled comfortably aloft sleep overwhelmed him. As sometimes happens, even if with the most conscientious of sentries, it descended on him without warning. Ashore or on deck a man may distrust his ability to fight off sleep and keep in motion or even stand erect. But up aloft comfortably bestowed on the lashed platform with a plank rigged to keep from rolling off it and his back against the big spar, Peter was awake one minute and asleep the next.

He slept straight through his watch and well into the next, which should have been the Captain's. All hands were plunged in that profundity of sleep that came from relief of tension now that the hard work was over and they were to get out to sea at dawn.

Peter was roused by a muscular cramp and his long fixed position. He woke and saw by the luminous dial of a wrist watch loaned by Adam that it was nearly three. He decided then to make a virtue of necessity and save himself reprimand for sleeping on watch by taking that of the Captain that had but an hour to go, when they would start getting up anchor to move out.

There was steam in the donkey engine and Peter decided to go down and build up the fire. He rose to his feet and took a look around. It was dark and clear and still, with an old gibbous moon low toward the horizon. A sector of about forty degrees was cut off from observation close into the atoll to the west of the entrance by slightly higher ground and a fringe of palms.

Peter went below and forward to stoke and coal the donkey. He decided then to clear the other power boat and have it in readiness for getting overside. As he was doing this it seemed to him that he heard a curious pulsation distinguishable above the constant heavy roar of the surf.

At first he could not be sure. He went up on to the high forecastle to listen, but heard nothing and decided what seemed to be an alien sound must have come from his ears that had been affected somewhat from his diving.

At any rate, it was time to call the Captain; almost time, in fact, to call all hands, as they should be starting to weigh anchor, then haul astern and pick up the kedge anchor before the dawn. The breeze did not come usually until the sun had risen about 20 degrees.

It seems to be the consensus among the directors of the kitchen that, considering the bounty of the Christmas feast, it is neither considerate nor normal for folk to be interested in food on Dec. 26. And yet the feeling seems to be just as widespread among the members in question—and the directors, too, when they pause to reflect—that, contrary to all the laws of capacity, folks will be just as ravenous by dinner time today as if they had never yesterday gone down in blissful defeat after the third clinch with turkey and trimmings. But the facts remain and it's up to us to do things.

First of all, may I register a petition? Don't, no matter how many wings, drumsticks, thighs, and sectors of breast there may be remaining, don't bring the carcass of the once noble bird back to the table! It is too reminiscent of rehashed bridge hands. Consider instead the gay assortment of devices for camouflaging his highness.

Goose, turkey gobbler, and chicken are all birds of a feather when it comes to using up the left-overs, so whatever I may say of one may readily be switched to fit either of his cousins. Certain accessories which especially enjoy keeping company with the bird you boast will serve to give the accent of propriety to the menu.

First of all, I do most decidedly approve of fat crunchy-soft turkey croquettes swooning under a toasting hot blanket of mushroom sauce. Remember, however, you're not making handballs. Soft, luscious mixtures which you would swear will never shape and fry—will do both if catered to in the proper manner—are vastly superior to the hard-hearted, foolproof variety. You will need the following ingredients:

TURKEY CROQUETTES.

1½ tablespoons finely minced onion
Grated rind of one-half lemon
1-3 cup finely chopped celery
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup scalded milk
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour

Make a cream sauce from the milk, butter, and flour, cooking until smooth and thick. Add the remaining ingredients and mix well. Spread out the mixture in a shallow pan and chill. If the meat is predominately white it will take up more sauce than the dark and a little more white sauce may be needed. Form the mixture into balls, dip in beaten egg, and then roll in finely crushed cracker crumbs. Shape into cones, cutlets, "bones," or rolls and fry in deep, hot fat (380 degrees F.) until golden brown. Serve with the following sauce:

MUSHROOM SAUCE FOR TURKEY CROQUETTES.

3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 cup meat stock
1½ cups sliced fresh mushrooms
Butter for sautéing

Prepare a brown sauce from the first six ingredients. When thick and smooth add the mushrooms, which have been sautéed in butter. Season more if desired and serve hot over turkey croquettes. It's delicious!

Or here are more thoughts for tonight's delectation. You may glorify the left-overs in a chicken and ham casserole. Let the meat be skirted and capped with baking powder biscuit or puff paste and let it swim in savory cream sauce peppered with pimiento bits. Instead you may choose chicken marengo and alternate layers of sautéed chicken or turkey meat with layers of thickened, stewed tomatoes and still more layers of cut, sautéed mushrooms. Sprinkle the tomato layers lightly with cheese and top with more of the same. Cook in a moderate oven until heated through and lusciously brown on top. Serve on crisp toast fingers amid the cheers of the family.

Or why not a turkey, chicken, or goose curry or a turkey chop suey? For the first, mince the chicken or goose meat into a creamy sauce seasoned judiciously with curry powder. Serve it in the center of a baked rice ring and accompany it in true Indian style with vivacious chutney. For the chop suey a speedily prepared dish calls for a can of mixed Chinese chop suey vegetables, two cups of minced turkey meat, one cup of chopped celery, and a seasoning of two tablespoons of soy sauce and one tablespoon molasses. Onions or mushrooms make tasty additions.

Clever Girl Can 'Outsmart' a Pretty Rival

Study Her Tactics, Then Go Her One Better.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Recently, you wrote advice to 'outsmart' your girl rival when your boy friend's affections are at stake. I'd like to ask you how a girl can outsmart another, what tactics to use, etc."

That's a stickler to answer! I don't even guarantee it can always be done! But my theory is that if you have your heart set on a boy and have had reasonable encouragement from him, it's not in the modern trend to walk off the lot without putting up a fair fight! After all, it matters at all odds that a girl get the man she wants. Or, hangs on to the one she has and wants to keep.

But how to outsmart the sister-rival now that I've recommended it?

Let's take a case to illustrate. "Kathy" had her boy friend almost pinioned—until "Bess" came bearing down with her bagful of hundred per cent female tricks. "Kathy" was one of the straight forward, honest to goodness girls. Direct, square as could be. Every bit of O. K. and all right. Good dancer, could swim, play tennis, golf, bridge. Did everything well and was a wholesome sight for the eyes.

She kidded the B. F. Laughed off his compliments and was a bit too meager with praise for the suitor. Just a little given to wisecracks. Well, she studied "Bess'" tactics—an obvious little minx with a line as old as woman, but she saw that time did not dim its usefulness—on the boy friend. "Kathy" went a bit more fluttery, played the "lean to" darling, leaned down hard on the "wonderful big boy you" stuff—and got away with it. And the B. F. eventually.

That's outsmarting!

You might outsmart a rival chatterbox by being a good listener. You might outsmart another girl by being up and doing in athletic pursuits. You might outsmart her as a dancer, as a "cheer" sister. At being more glamorous, more pictorial, more fun. I don't say that if a man is hopelessly in love with your rival what she does or doesn't do is going to be any influence in your favor. But if the affair is still in the making to both girls the outsmarting game may be played with considerable success.

Victor McLaglen gave away 200 turkeys and pheasants to friends as Christmas presents.

Oscar Smith, head bootblack at the Paramount lot, and Harold "Slickum" Garrison, similar factotum at MGM studio, have formed a partnership to provide colored people as extras for the movies. Smith has already taken part in several films and "Slickum" has acted as valet and chauffeur for movie people, including the late Paul Bern. They plan to collect a commission from each extra they provide, and their plan is agreeable to the film casting directors, for it will save them work. Oscar and Slickum have visions of growing rich in the next year if the tropical African pictures hold out.

Having prepared to walk out last Tuesday, and packed her belongings at the Paramount studio last Wednesday, Claudette Colbert signed a new contract with the company on Thursday, unpacked on Friday, and took a day off yesterday to celebrate and buy

BLACKHAWKS LOSE 4-0 BATTLE TO DETROIT

16 PREP TEAMS TO START STAGG TOURNEY TODAY

Morton Five Defends Title.

Games Today

PAIRINGS for the first day's play in the University of Chicago's Christmas Week basketball tournament follow:

1 p. m.—Parker vs. Maine Township.
2 p. m.—Roosevelt vs. La Grange.
3 p. m.—York vs. Senger.
4 p. m.—St. Charles vs. Austin.
5 p. m.—McKinley vs. Elgin.
7 p. m.—Tilden vs. Senn.
8 p. m.—New Trier vs. Englewood.
9 p. m.—Proviso vs. Morgan Park.

Sixteen high school basketball teams from the Chicago region will swing into action at the University of Chicago field house today in the opening round matches of A. A. Stagg's third Christmas week tournament. Six days and four games hence, next Saturday night, one of the teams will fight it out for the championship trophy with the survivor of another group of 16 teams which starts play tomorrow.

Coach Wasserman's Parker High school team will open the meet at 1 p. m. against Maine Township. Roosevelt will meet La Grange at 2 p. m., York will meet Senger at 3 p. m., St. Charles will meet Austin at 4 p. m., McKinley will meet Elgin at 5 p. m., the 6 o'clock hour will be a dinner recess, Tilden will meet Senn at 7 p. m., New Trier will meet Englewood at 8 p. m., and Proviso and Morgan Park will wind up the day's assault on the hoops at 9.

Maroons Play Beloit.

Tomorrow's games will begin at noon. The Maroon varsity will play Beloit college at 8 p. m., prior to the final first round encounter, between Crane and Thornton Township. All of the prep games will consist of four eight-minute quarters.

This year's meet has an unusual preponderance of city teams enlisted. Twenty of the thirty-two entrants are Chicago City league squads. Every city school with the exception of Medill, which has no basketball team, Wendell Phillips and Harrison, has entered its squad. Today, however, seven of the eight games will pit city teams against suburban or sub-suburban squads. The eighth game is between Tilden and Senn.

Morton Starts Tomorrow.

In general, tomorrow's round appears to promise better basketball than today's, though the strength of the suburban teams playing today is comparatively unknown. Playing tomorrow will be Morton, defending champion, which nosed out Marshall, 15 to 16, in the finals last year. Marshall, a light squad of dazzling speed; Crane, third last year; Hyde Park, fourth last year; Lindblom, champion two years ago, and Bowen, runner-up to Lindblom that year. In addition, Lake View, sporting a 6 foot 8 inch center in Fred Troutwine, and talked of as a championship contender, will play.

This year's meet promises a more even distribution of ability, with ruggedness and a strong defense as the marks of the ultimate winner. Morton was a good tournament team last year, largely because of the presence of Kopecky and Vopicka, a couple of husky boys, and the Cicero squad depended on power to defeat the more clever Marshall quintet.

Second Round Wednesday.

Wednesday's second round game will follow the same time schedule as today's. The quarter-finals are scheduled for 3, 4, 8, and 9 p. m. Thursday, the semi-finals for 7 p. m. and 9:30 p. m. Friday, with the Chicago-Kentucky game interposed, and the finals for 9 p. m. Saturday, with the third place game at 7. Admission to the opening rounds is 35 cents, except tomorrow evening, which is 40 cents.

Tomorrow's games:

12 noon.—Blue Island vs. Morton.
1 p. m.—Tuley vs. Lindblom.
2 p. m.—Waller vs. Riverside-Brookfield.
3 p. m.—Marshall vs. Downer's Grove.
4 p. m.—Calumet vs. Lane.
5 p. m.—Hyde Park vs. Schurz.
7 p. m.—Bowen vs. Lake View.
8 p. m.—Chicago vs. Beloit.
9:30 p. m.—Crane vs. Thornton Township.

THE OLD GRADS ARE CLEARING UP KREBS MYSTERY

But Mr. Yost Is Silent on Kansas Tackle.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—More recollections are to hand to fatten the saga of the mysterious young giant who showed up at the University of Kansas when Fielding H. Yost was coaching there in 1899, played mightily through the football season and then vanished as abruptly as he had come.

Kansas old grads of that and subsequent years have told the story wherever football people convene in the fall and winter, and because football people are the most garrulous and imaginative of all the all-night sitters and talkers of sport the tale has acquired such dramatic embellishment as to make it a legend of the school.

The player who became the Paul Bunyan of Kansas is depicted as a shaggy youth who amused the football team by asking ignorant questions about this strange game which they were playing but suddenly became a star of the forward line and contributed much to the winning of some sort of championship that year. When he disappeared, leaving no trace, curiosity was aroused as to why he had come to Kansas so opportunely. Where had he played before?

The correspondence generally agrees that his name was Krebs but he is variously said to have come from Colorado and from West Virginia. I now have a letter from Paul E. Green, of Chicago, an engineer who was graduated from West Virginia in 1899, which seems to bear on the mystery.

"Fielding H. Yost was a student at the University of West Virginia and graduated in 1897," Mr. Green writes. "To the best of my recollection, he was there four years and was an outstanding member of the football team. In 1896, if my recollection is correct, West Virginia played a series of three games with Lafayette. Late in the season Yost went to Lafayette for a total of about two weeks and played one game as a member of their team against Pennsylvania. He came back to West Virginia on crutches.

"One of the students in my class at West Virginia was G. R. Krebs, of Charleston, W. Va. He was a great big, ungainly giant, weighing about 235, lean as a rail and shaggy. He never played at Lafayette, or if he did, it was only for one game. I have little doubt that this Krebs is the man that is mentioned. To the best of my knowledge he is still living and is a member of the firm of Clark & Krebs, mining engineers, of Charleston, W. Va."

I will here mention that the ethics of football in the day referred to were very free and easy and that coaches and players were held to no such formal rules of eligibility as are now laid down. Players could transfer from school to school at will, and Daniel Baum of Omaha, an alumnus of Lafayette, writes that Yost transferred from West Virginia to Lafayette during the football season of 1896.

Comes Mr. Davis.

"As I recall, our team under Park H. Davis, coach, more familiarly known as Dink, went down to the University of West Virginia to play one of the early games in 1896 and Yost was on the West Virginia team. He was persuaded to come to Lafayette and was on that famous squad which waded through everybody to victory and most notably beat Penn on Franklin field, 6 to 4.

"Yost was a tackle in that game and in a pileup Gelbert and one other player, if I remember correctly, by the name of Jackson, on the Penn team, saw his leg sticking out of a pile and dropped on him in such a way that his knee was knocked out. From that day, Yost was on crutches. He played no more at Lafayette and left for good at the end of the fall season."

The Gelbert referred to probably is the father of Charley Gelbert, the shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals, who is now in a hospital in Philadelphia, suffering from shotgun wounds in the leg, the result of a hunting accident. I am quite sure young Gelbert told me that his father had been a football player on one of the old Penn teams.

Now a Kansas alumnus adds this fragment:

Krebs was discovered by Dr. James

East, West Teams Feast, but Drill, Too

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Relaxing momentarily from a program of heavy practice preceding their Shrine charity football contest here Jan. 2, grid stars of the east and west took time out today to put away turkey dinners and otherwise celebrate Christmas properly.

Yuletide festivities were not the complete order of the day, however, as each squad went through a heavy workout. The west eleven, training at Berkeley, held a two hour drill in the morning, while the east, quartered at Palo Alto, practiced for an hour in the afternoon at Stanford university.

Tomorrow will see the opening of the last week of preparation for the game. Coaches Andy Kerr and Dick Hanley of the east and Dana Bible and Orin Hollingbery for the west will redouble efforts to develop two smooth teams.

East Gets More Plays.

The eastern squad was given a few more plays. Coaches gave their first attention to a passing attack today. Coach Kerr said his team would employ between 12 and 15 plays, adding this was enough of an offense for a team made ready on such short notice.

At this time Coach Kerr said he was particularly impressed with the work of Joe Zapustas, Fordham quarter back; Gil Berry, Illinois half back, Bob Rowe, Colgate full back; Pug Rentner, Northwestern half back, and José Martinez-Zorrilla, 166 pound end from Cornell. Joe Crowley, Yale half back who has been laid up with a wrenched knee, was in uniform today, to the relief of the coaching staff. With Crowley in the back field, Jack Manders, Minnesota full back who was brought out to play guard, resumed his position in the line.

West Back Field Shifted.

The western back field was switched around today. In one unit George Sander, Washington State half back, was given the quarter back rôle, with Hank Schaldach, California, and Max Krause, Gonzaga, as half backs and Buck Koy, Texas, full back. The other combination included Frank Christensen, Utah, at quarter back; Harry Stafford, Texas, and Ernie Caddel, Stanford, half backs, and Angel Brovelli, St. Mary's, full back. Coach Hollingbery pointed out the changes were only tentative.

Champion Bears Held to 6 to 6 Tie by Portsmouth

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Chicago Bears, who beat Portsmouth, 9 to 0, to win the National league professional football championship last Sunday, were held to a 6 to 6 tie by the Ohioans in an exhibition game today. A crowd estimated at 2,000 saw the contest.

Portsmouth scored first, Cavosie taking a 21 yard pass from Presnell to cross the goal line in the first quarter. Presnell paved the way for the touchdown by intercepting Nagurski's pass on the Bears' 48 yard line.

In the second quarter the Bears went around right end for 8 yards and a touchdown after Chicago had marched from Portsmouth's 32 yard line on passes and line plunges by Nagurski, Doehring and Molesworth. The Bears lost a touchdown in the second quarter when Johnson stepped out of bounds from the Portsmouth end zone after taking a pass from Doehring.

BUNNY COOK'S TWO GOALS WIN FOR RANGERS, 2-0

New York, Dec. 25. — (AP) — Two flashy third period goals by Bunny Cook enabled the New York Rangers to defeat the Montreal Maroons, 2 to 0, tonight and regain the lead in the American division of the National Hockey league after spending a day in second place.

Bun Cook's two scoring shots were made from almost the same spot about 30 feet in front of the net. The first was a careful, well aimed drive on Frank Boucher's pass out; the second a flying "golf" shot at a loose puck after Bill Cook and Ott Heller had broken away from Montreal's closing attack.

U. S. C. FANS FEAR AVERAGES MORE THAN PITTSBURGH

Maybe Trojans Are Due for a Fall Jan. 2.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 25.—(AP)—University of Southern California supporters looked on the impending Rose tournament football game at Pasadena Jan. 2 with fear and trembling today lest the law of averages catch up with the Trojans when they play Pittsburgh.

The Panthers in their two previous Rose bowl appearances were defeated, while the Trojans boast of three victories in as many calls to represent the West.

Then, too, the East has triumphed only once, although two contests resulted in ties. To top this off, Southern California has not experienced a reverse or tie in 19 starts.

Brown Beaten in First Game.

The East has been unfortunate since that first battle of the Roses in 1916, when Washington State beat Brown, 14 to 0, in the mud of old Tournament park. The next year Oregon beat Pennsylvania by the same score.

Harvard set things somewhat aright with a 7 to 6 win from Oregon in 1920, but California beat Ohio State, 28 to 0, in 1921. Then Washington and Jefferson battled California to a scoreless tie in the mud in 1922.

Southern California popped into the picture in 1923 with a 14 to 3 win at the expense of Penn State. The Navy tied Washington, 14 to 14, the next New Year's day.

Notre Dame Wins.

In 1925 Notre Dame whipped Stanford, 27 to 10. Alabama beat Washington, 20 to 19 in 1926, but the next year was held to a tie by Stanford, 7 to 7.

Pitt first came to the West for Rose tourney play in 1928, with Stanford winning, 7 to 6, in a game of fumbles. Biff Hoffman scored the winning kick after touchdown. In 1929 Georgia Tech beat California, 8 to 7. The Panthers returned in 1930 and submitted to the worst defeat in the history of the tournament, 47 to 14, because Southern California blossomed out with a great passing attack.

That was the last appearance of the East in the Rose bowl. In 1931 Alabama beat Washington State, 24 to 0, and last year Southern California whipped Tulane, 21 to 12.

Of the eight games played by eastern teams in the intersectional classic, elevens from Pennsylvania were the representatives on five occasions. The state of California has put a team on the gridiron in nine of the seventeen games, including two service contests during the world war.

PITT SPENDS DAY IN DESERT.

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Christmas day on the desert with the weather as warm and gentle as that of an Indian summer was the novel experience enjoyed today by the University of Pittsburgh football squad.

The players arose late this morning but in plenty of time to eat a hearty breakfast and go to church. This afternoon special buses took the Panthers for a tour to points of interest on the desert, including San Xavier mission south of here and a dude ranch. The high point of the day's festivities came tonight when the players were allowed to eat their fill of turkey and everything that goes with it.

Although there was no set training routine for the day, Coach Jock Sutherland saw to it that each man got a generous share of exercise. Heavy work of preparing for the Trojan clash will be resumed again tomorrow with a light workout on the desert in the forenoon and a hard and long drill at the University of Arizona gridiron in the afternoon.

PHILS SCHEDULE 23 CONTESTS FOR SPRING TRAINING

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Twenty-three games have been listed by the Philadelphia National league baseball team for the spring training season, it was announced today by Gerald Nugent, newly reelected president of the club.

For the sixth successive year the team will train at Winter Haven, Fla., with the pitchers and catchers reporting March 1 and the rest of the players on March 10. New teams to be met during the training season include the Boston Braves, Boston Red Sox, Montreal, and Princeton university.

SHE'S GOOD AT THIS, TOO

Babe Didrikson, tiring of a wallflower role, decides to shoot herself a few games of pool. She defeated her manager yesterday as easily as she set world's records in the Olympic games. [FTRDENE Photo.]

Babe Didrikson Drops Garbo Stuff, Shoots Game of Pool

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Mildred Babe Didrikson, who had set out on a campaign of Greta Garbo aloofness and mystery, yesterday became disconsolate in the rôle and broke down, crying aloud to her manager, George T. Emerson, that she wanted to be escorted to a recreation parlor for a few games of pool.

In case you haven't been reading the papers during the last two weeks, we will remind you that Babe is the one woman track team from Texas who gained nation-wide fame when she accomplished great things for the United States at the Olympic games and, more recently, gained miles of publicity because of a clash with the A. A. U. relative to her amateur standing.

Chalks a Mean Cue.

Much has been known of Babe's prowess in practically all track and field events and basketball, and during recent months pieces have been written about her promise as a golfer, a swimmer, and a baseball pitcher. It had not been generally known in this section, however, that Babe chalks and shoots a mean cue.

As you know, pool, or pocket billiards, as the trade prefers that the game be known, is outlawed as a public amusement in Texas even as playing cards are barred in public places. For this reason most Texas young ladies don't go in for pool shooting.

But it seems that Babe, being Texas' greatest heroine, has been invited to all the best Texas homes which have pool tables and there has learned to bank an eight ball like nobody's business.

Back to Our Knitting.

However, let us return to the spot news about Miss Didrikson:

Miss Didrikson has been in town for several days—and most elusive while planning to launch her career as a pro athlete. Yesterday the little lady said to her manager, Mr. Emerson, and her sister and chaperon, Mrs. Esther Elam:

"I hone to work out in a gymnasium."

Mr. Emerson allowed that this should be an easy matter to arrange and set about in quest of a gym, accompanied by the rest of the entourage. But it was Christmas day, which is not a busy day in Chicago gymnasia. In fact the Didrikson party couldn't find one that was open.

Away With Garbo Stuff!

After the hunt had failed Miss Babe, 'way up north on Christmas, seemed most unhappy. A friendly Texas girl, she was tiring of the Greta Garbo stuff her advisers have urged upon her. Suddenly she threw off the queenly pose, saying:

"Let's go some place and shoot some pool."

Well, Mr. Emerson had better luck finding a pool table. Bensinger's Randolph street establishment was open—as nice a place for a lady to shoot pool as there is in all the land.

Babe Wins Again.

Babe was recognized and as soon as the brass cuspidors had been cleared away, she and Mr. Emerson lagged for the break and went about the fun of playing a game of bank-banking the five, ten and fifteen ball. Babe was handicapped at first, not having her own cue, but soon steadied and defeated her manager in the first, second and third games.

While the tournament was going on an astute young journalist busted into the picture and almost made Babe break her stick, as the sayin' goes in describing a miscue.

Babe said she hadn't a word to say. And her manager said he would have a big announcement "within 48 hours."

She'll Be Busy.

Mr. Emerson revealed, however, that Babe's activity will be threefold, at least. She's going to act in the films, she's going to write, and she's going to broadcast.

And, of course, she's going to keep on indorsing, the practice that got her jammed with the A. A. U. In fact there was evidence yesterday that she's already signed with Mr. Wrigley. But then, too, it might have been Beeman's.

Penalties—Emms, Cook.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—A drive in the first period that netted three goals carried the Detroit Red Wings to their second shutout victory of the season here tonight. They defeated the Chicago Blackhawks, 4 to 0.

A tired Chicago team, minus the services of Vic Ripley, was outskated and outplayed generally by a band of Red Wings who were in top form throughout a fast and hard bumping game.

Doug Young, youthful defense man, played a lone hand in scoring of the first goal early in the opening period. He beat the whole Chicago team to the net, and his backhand shot had Goalie Gardiner handcuffed.

Goodfellow in Form.

Ebbie Goodfellow, in his stride for the first time this season, took a long forward pass from Happy Emms to ring up Detroit's second goal five minutes later. The third one, scored at 14:06, was neted by Carl Voss, who took a pass from Eddie Wiseman.

There was no scoring in the second period, but the Wings, never on the defensive, bagged another midway in the third when Carson took Goodfellow's perfect pass and rode into the goal mouth before rifling the puck past Gardiner.

After nearly seven minutes of fast and hard checking hockey, Young put the Red Wings out in front on a solo effort. He broke from inside his defense zone and beat out the whole Chicago team as he raced down the right side of the rink, swung around Coulter and beat Gardiner with a back-hand shot that picked a high corner.

Gardiner made a beautiful save on a shot by Goodfellow midway in the period. A minute later Jenkins drew the first penalty for tripping Goodfellow.

Detroit was two up when Goodfellow took Emms' long forward pass in front of the goal and slammed it past Gardiner.

Mush Gets Penalty.

Lewis was on his way goalward when March tripped him. Mush joined Jenkins in the penalty box. March still was in the penalty box when the Red Wings got their third goal. Voss took Wiseman's perfect pass and Gardiner again was helpless.

Sorrell replaced March in the box for charging Graham, but the Hawks did not threaten while he was off the ice. Just before the period ended Goodfellow and Cook were chased for high sticks.

Roach made a spectacular save of Graham's shot just before Goodfellow and Cook returned in the first minute of the second period. He had to fall on another from March a minute later.

Gardiner was given a busy session for the next five minutes. Jenkins was penalized for holding Lewis midway in the period, but the Red Wings did not make a serious bid while he was off the ice.

Couture Ruled Off.

Graham slashed Emms and drew a penalty. Emms joined him for charging March. Evans was the third man in the box for slashing Abel. Roach made a sensational save from Gottselig and at the other end Gardiner took a tough one from Young.

Couture spilled Wiseman with his knee and was sent to the box with three minutes to go, but the Wings did not have a scoring chance while he was off. With a minute to go Evans was penalized for tripping Jenkins.

Shortly after the start of the third period Emms held Jenkins and replaced Evans in the box. Roach took a tough one from March, and Gardiner had to be just as good to take one from Aurie.

Carson Gets Goal.

Both Roach and Gardiner were kept hopping about their cages as both teams played wide open hockey. Thompson had only Roach to beat, but the goalie outsmarted him.

Midway in the period the Wings broke away for another tally, Goodfellow making a perfect pass to Carson and the right winger skated in close before firing past Gardiner.

Goodfellow was in the clear for another goal, but Cook tripped him from behind and was penalized. Thompson drove Roach a hard chance

HIGHEST PAID JOCKEY? HE'LL BE BOBBY JONES

Can Earn $50,000 on New Kilmer Contrac.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Bobby Jones, bronze skinned California youth, who gained most of his fame on Chicago race tracks, will be the highest paid jockey in America next season.

It has just been revealed that his new contract with Willis Sharpe Kilmer calls for a salary of $12,000 plus 10 per cent of all the money won by the horses he rides. The Kilmer stable is one of the most pretentious in America. If the Kilmer horses have an average year they should win $200,000 which will boost the earnings of Jockey Jones to $32,000. If Kilmer should develop a 2 year old or a 3 year old champion in 1933, which is more than possible, his horses could win upwards of $400,000 which would send Jones' earnings above $50,000. It will be easy for him to pick up another $10,000 or $15,000 riding for other owners.

For several seasons Pony McAtee, under contract to Marshall Field and Robert L. Gerry, was the highest paid jockey in the country. Sonny Workman, under contract to Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, had the second largest income. McAtee's annual salary was $15,000 plus 10 per cent of the earnings of his mounts. His yearly stipend frequently went above $60,000 and is reported to have been nearly $100,000 during one season.

Workman Earns $50,000.

Workman's contract was at $10,000 plus 10 per cent which it is reported netted him in excess of $50,000 in 1930, his biggest year with the famous Whitney stable.

McAtee announced his retirement last fall. According to rumors that come from sources close to the Whitney turf affairs, Workman a few days ago again signed a new contract with Whitney. His salary still will be $10,000 but his share of the winnings of the horses he rides will be only 5 per cent. Only a spectacular Whitney and Workman season would boost the jockey's earnings above $30,000.

Mack Garner, under contract to Joseph E. Widener; Laverne Fator, who was with Col. E. R. Bradley's stable; A. Robertson, another Whitney rider, and Buddy Hanford with the Preston Burch stable were other big money makers among the jockeys last year. But Garner has not been reengaged by Mr. Widener and Col. Bradley has released the veteran Fator. Hanford will ride for Widener at Miami, but will join the Burch stable again on April 1 and it is hardly likely the Burch owned and trained horses will win anywhere near as many purses as the Kilmer horses do next season. Robertson took the same sort of a cut in salary as Workman did from Owner Whitney.

Gilbert and Mills to Get $10,000.

Johnny Gilbert and Hank Mills, who have been staging a sensational battle for the 1932 riding championship, both will be among the jockeys who pay high income tax next year. Mills is under contract to the Wheatley stable, a very rich establishment, and Gilbert's contract is held by Samuel D. Riddle, who owned Man o' War and who races most of the sons and daughters of the super horse.

The salaries of Gilbert and Mills will be around $10,000. At the time their contracts were made, neither had gained much fame. Naturally, they could not demand a very large percentage of the winnings of the horses they ride. It will be different when it comes time to renew their contracts.

Jones' home in California is only a couple of miles north of the boundary line which separates California from Mexico. It is only a few miles from the old Tia Juana race track. He got his first lessons in riding at that notorious old course some seven or eight years ago.

Creech Takes Jones.

He has been improving ever since and last year, when the greatest riders and horses in the country came together during the Arlington Park meeting he developed into a sensational jockey. His contract was snapped up by Ben Creech, trainer for W. R. Coe, and Jones rode Mr. Coe's Ladysman to all his victories.

Creech quit the Coe stable late in the fall and signed with Kilmer. He took Jockey Jones to the Kilmer stable with him.

Jones comes from a family of far western horsemen. His father, A. L. Jones, trains the horses which race for Willard Mack, the playwright.

Pheasant Flies Into Evanston for Holidays

BY BOB BECKER.

There is no telling what kind of bird guests Chicagoland residents may have during the holidays because we have a fairly large variety in northern Illinois. However, Evanston seems to win all the blue ribbons for reporting the most insistent demand for hospitality from winter birds in view of the fact that a hen pheasant flew into the heart of that city, landed on the window sill of an apartment in a 24 flat building, and there took up an attitude of watchful waiting.

This surprise visit from a hen pheasant has been recorded by John A. Bairnsfather, 604 Sheridan road, Evanston. The bird landed on the window sill of one of his living room windows. This part of Evanston is not near any open country in which ringnecks might be spending the winter, which makes the visit of the bird all the more surprising.

He's Bold Fellow.

Of course one may expect anything from a handsome ringneck pheasant because he is a bold fellow that can get along anywhere and apparently is so sharp and shrewd and has so much poise that little things like automobile traffic and big apartment buildings wouldn't bother him at all. In fact, one of the things about the pheasant which has continued to surprise sportsmen is the way this big game bird can adapt itself to living conditions close to towns and communities.

The ringneck is one game bird that can flourish most anywhere. He boldly moves right into town and does as he pleases. Quail and prairie chickens give way to civilization, but pheasants think nothing of walking around a village and invading suburban backyards. Late in November we had three ringnecks visiting our backyard every day.

Likes Weeds, Brush.

There is a vacant piece of property near us which is well covered with weeds and brush. This lot offers just the kind of cover that the pheasant likes. Apparently the birds spend some time in this spot and then casually walk from it into our yard where we put out some food for them.

The way the hardy ringneck pheasant has filled the gap left by the disappearance of our native game birds hardly is realized by the average sportsmen. The figures tell the story very graphically. Last year in Minnesota the kill of grouse and prairie chickens, once a banner state for both species, was only 14,125 birds. But the hardy ringneck filled the gap. The total bag was 1,018,600 birds. In other words, 1,400 tons of pheasants! This was almost twice the number of ducks and 72 times the kill of grouse and chickens.

That is an example of how the ringneck is furnishing sport and food for American sportsmen and successfully taking the place of the vanishing upland game birds which are native to this country.

Darkness prevented the Forest Park and Schwaben team from finishing their game for the National Amateur cup. Forest Park was leading 2 to 1 when the game was called.

Two games will be played today at the Sparta stadium. The first game, between the Sparta second team and the Macabees Juniors, will start at 1 p. m. The final game will see the champion Sparta team clash with the Macabees All Stars.

ABE KOSKEY AND JACK SMITH SIGN FOR MAT MATCH

Abe Koskey and Jack Smith, heavyweights, have been signed by Promoter Doc Krone for the fifth match on his wrestling card Wednesday night at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark and Lawrence avenue. Koskey has never appeared here, but is reported to be a colorful performer.

The main event is between Joe Stecher, three-time world champion, and Rudy Dusek of Omaha. John Katan meets Jim McMillen.

The other two supporting matches are Hans Kampfer against Ernie Dusek, brother of Rudy, and Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame football player, against Johnny Plummer, Iowa youngster.

Memphis Holds Braves to Second Scoreless Tie

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Boston Braves of the National league and the Memphis Tigers played their second scoreless tie in a professional football game today. Their first scoreless game was played last Sunday.

N. U. Opens Drill Today for Return Notre Dame Game

Northwestern's basketball team will terminate its holiday vacation today with the resumption of practice in preparation for the return game with Notre Dame at Patten gymnasium New Year's eve. The Wildcat team has been idle since its 28 to 25 defeat at the hands of Notre Dame a week ago.

Saturday night's engagement will be the sixth annual New Year's eve clash between Northwestern and Notre Dame. Each year the game has been held at Patten gymnasium and always has been closely contested. Throughout the series the margin of victory never has varied more than five points, and on three occasions the games were decided by one point.

Krause Clinches Notre Dame Victory.

This year's encounter seems destined to join the others in this respect. In the game at South Bend last Monday night the Irish were victorious after one of the most stubbornly fought contests ever held in the Notre Dame gymnasium. The score was tied three times in the last ten minutes. With only five minutes remaining Northwestern held a two point lead, but this advantage was soon dissipated when Ed Krause, Notre Dame's center, sank three field goals in succession to clinch the victory.

Northwestern will present the same lineup which played throughout the first game without a substitution. Capt. Joe Reiff, who led Northwestern's attack with three baskets and two field goals, again will be counted on for the left forward assignment.

He will be paired with Don Brewer, the Freeport, Ill., boy who has clinched a regular forward position in his second year.

Elmer Johnson, center, again will be assigned the task of guarding Krause, Notre Dame's scoring threat. These two boys will renew their personal argument, now in its second year. Culver and Moonshower will be stationed at the guard positions.

FROSCHAUER TO RETURN TODAY.

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Although Frank Froschauer, sophomore forward on the Illinois basketball team, has a sprained wrist in a splint as the result of a bump during the game against Missouri last week, he will report tomorrow, when the Illini resume practice. Froschauer is expected soon to be able to compete.

Capt. Red Owen, who spent Christmas in the university hospital because of ear trouble, will not be able to play before January, it is feared.

Coach Craig Ruby has selected these players for the drill tomorrow: Bennett, Hellmich, Beynon, Theobald, Fencl, Gibbs, Jake Kamm, Mills, Moore, Port, Rohlen, Heidrick and Froschauer.

North Dakota State college, which plays the Illini here Friday afternoon also will practice here tomorrow.

IOWA SQUAD BACK AT WORK.

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—University of Iowa's varsity basketball squad will return here tomorrow after a five day vacation to prepare for a pair of home games early in January.

The Hawkeyes will meet North Dakota State in the fifth non-conference affair of the season Jan. 3, and will open Big Ten competition against Michigan Jan. 7.

SUNDOT VICTOR IN FEATURE RACE AT AGUA CALIENTE

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Sundot, fleet colt from the Northway stable of Norman D. Church, won the Greetings handicap, feature race of the opening of the fourth winter meeting of the Agua Caliente Jockey club track here this afternoon.

Sundot scored a decisive victory, leading the rest of the field of ten home by a length and one-half in the six furlong sprint with Up and Bamboula battling it out through the stretch for second and third places. They finished in that order.

Joan Palfrey Seeded No. 1 in Junior Girls' Net Meet

Brookline, Mass., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Joan Palfrey of Sharon today was seeded No. 1 in the national junior girls' indoor tennis championship matches which will get under way Tuesday at the Longwood Cricket club.

C. Y. O. Picks 16 to Battle Coast Boxers

Packey McFarland, boxing director of the Catholic Youth organization, last night announced the lineup of the two C. Y. O. teams which will fight in the intercity bouts against Los Angeles and San Francisco at the Chicago Stadium on the night of Jan. 6.

The eight titleholders of the Chicago archdiocese will fight the team from Los Angeles and another team selected by McFarland will meet the San Francisco boxers.

Oscar O'Hanlon from Immaculate Conception parish in Waukegan will represent Chicago in the 112 pound division. O'Hanlon won his bout at Los Angeles last year.

Rothier on Card.

Buddy Ginter from St. Jerome's parish will vie for honors in the bantamweight class. Harry Booker, colored boy who entered the tournament finals as a substitute for Leo Rodak in the featherweight class and whipped Jimmy Christy, the favorite for the title, will represent the Chicago team in the 126 pound class.

James O'Connell, another boxer who hails from St. Jerome's parish, will fight in the 135 pound division, while Henry Rothier, the young Belgian lightweight, will box in the 147 pound class. Rothier is the Golden Gloves champion and was a winner in the international bouts with Germany.

William Nurczyk of Holy Cross parish, Joliet, will be the 160 pounder. In the light heavyweight class the Chicago team will have Max Marek. In the heavyweight class Chester Buchowski, who won the championship from the hard hitting Frank Ketter, will compete.

Picked to Box San Francisco.

Willie Ritchie's San Francisco contingent of fighters will be opposed by another strong team of Chicago amateurs. Henry Fuscaldo of St. Peter and Paul's parish will fight in the 112 pound division. Sam Gudara of All Saints is the nominee to fight against Edward Laurie in the 118 pound division.

Jimmy Christy will have an opportunity to redeem himself in the featherweight class when he mixes with Lester Marston of San Francisco. Joe Montello will be the C. Y. O. hope in the lightweight battle. He is matched with Norbert Meehan, quarter back on the University of San Francisco football team.

In the 147 pound division Valentine Penko, St. Joseph's parish, Rockdale, will be matched against Tommy Trueman. Charles Wozniak of St. Alexander's parish, Villa Park, will fight in the 160 pound class with Herman Jackson. Chicago's chances of winning the light heavyweight bout will be up to Thomas Pacetti. In the heavyweight division Frank Ketter is the Chicago nominee.

Eight Bouts for Junior Titles.

In addition to the 16 intercity bouts there will be eight preliminary fights to determine the titleholders in the junior tournament of the Catholic Youth organization. McFarland notified the boxers to be on hand at the C. Y. O. Athletic center tomorrow to begin training for the show.

FAIR GROUNDS TO CHARGE $1.25 FOR CLUBHOUSE SEATS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Lines of clubhouse aristocracy are to be wiped out when the Fair Grounds, racing plant of the Crescent City Jockey club, opens on Jan. 23.

Those in charge of the club have announced that persons who pay $1.25 per day will be admitted to the clubhouse, and this price will include the federal tax.

The plant recently changed hands and the new owners have announced that no club memberships will be sold this year.

In lieu of the membership, said the club management, complimentary clubhouse badges will be sent to all former clubhouse members and their families, giving them all privileges upon the payment of a service charge, "which will be collected only on days that the privileges are used."

In recent weeks Jefferson Park has admitted everybody free at the races. This program was inaugurated only this year and the racing officials said that the crowds increased.

Stadium Bouts to Help Settle Title Tangles

Featherweight and light heavyweight boxers will make up the card at the Chicago Stadium Thursday night. There will be two featherweight and two light heavyweight fights. The contests and the way the boxers are rated by the National Boxing association follows:

FEATHERWEIGHTS.

Tommy Paul, champion, vs. Fidel La Barba, No. 3 [10 rounds].
Freddy Miller, No. 6, vs. Jackie Sharkey [8].

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHTS.

Georgie Nichols, No. 6, vs. Martin Levandowski [10].
Maxie Rosenbloom, No. 1, vs. Billy Jones, No. 3 [10].

There is a difference of opinion as to the champions in these two classes and the matches Thursday may help solve the puzzle.

Paul is champion of the featherweights in N. B. A. territory only, and he is slowly losing his hold on his claim. Since winning a tournament at Detroit seven months ago, Tommy has post pretige. A victory over La Barba would restore his high rating, but by Jan. 26 he must go further than that as far as the N. B. A. is concerned. Paul must sign to defend his claim on the championship. The bout Thursday is an overweight affair.

Baby Arizmendi won title recognition in California and Mexico by whipping Paul at Los Angeles several months ago. Lew Feldman was given a hold on the crown when Bat Battalino, former champion, came in overweight in a title fight at New York early this year.

Feldman forfeited his claim by losing to Kid Chocolate in 12 rounds at New York last fall. As a result the New York athletic commission has crowned Chocolate as its featherweight champion. The Kid defended that honor against La Barba

BLAME NATIONS' AID EFFORTS FOR LOW GRAIN PRICE

Traders Say Speculative Interest Lost.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders who have been seeking the primary cause for what is regarded as the lowest price level in recorded history have come to the conclusion that government interference with the free flow of grain from one country to another is responsible.

According to a recent report from the bureau of agricultural economics there are thirty-seven governments engaged at the present time in an effort to advance wheat prices, either in the way of milling regulations, prohibitive import duties or other edicts. Each government has sought to lift the price in its respective country, and according to trade views each new regulation has simply aided in increasing the world-wide economic depression.

Ignore Bullish News.

One result of the governmental interference with supply and demand has been to practically strangle speculative interest in the wheat and other grain markets, as seen by trade leaders, and this is regarded as one of the main factors why the market refuses to respond to news which under normal conditions might be regarded as sensationally bullish. This was strikingly apparent last week when the Chicago market advanced only ½c at the extreme following the issuance of the government estimate on winter wheat. It suggested a yield of under 400,000,000 bu, the smallest since 1904 and probably 75,000,000 bu under actual domestic requirements for this variety of wheat.

During the last few weeks there has been a gradual change in sentiment noted in many quarters, and there is now a strong underlying belief that somewhat higher prices will be witnessed between now and the end of the current crop year. This is based to a considerable extent on the belief that an increase in general speculative interest will develop not only here but in other markets, especially when there is more certainty as to the probable outcome of the new crop.

Surplus Above Normal.

From a statistical standpoint it is estimated there is a world's surplus of wheat of about 500,000,000 bu above normal. Should the world's crop for 1933-'34 prove to be somewhat under average instead of above average as has been the case for several years many traders feel that the excess wheat could be readily absorbed, and the prices would be considerably higher.

Both May and July wheat in Chicago sold at a new low for the season during the past week, with the close on Saturday showing 1¼@2c under the finish of the previous week. December showed the most strength and closed at 43⅝c, or 1⅜c under May and the narrowest difference of the season, while the July was 45⅛@45¼c.

Farmers Hold Corn.

Farmers are apparently determined that they will not dispose of any material part of their corn crop at a price of 55@10c per bushel net to them at country loading points. The movement in the leading sections has declined to the point where only a trickle of grain is going forward to terminal markets and at a period that normally witnesses large receipts.

While governmental interference in the distribution of corn is not as pronounced as in wheat, at the same time the former has felt the full effect, and prices in the local market last week sold at the lowest level since September, 1896, 19¼c for cash grain and the close Saturday was 16@15¾c lower than the previous week. December finished at 21¼c with May at 26¼c and July, 37⅝@37¾c. Range of prices follow:

Oats Near Record Low.

Prevailing prices of oats futures are about the lowest on record and speculative interest is at a minimum. Prices are so low that there is only a few cents per bu left for the farmer after paying freight and other charges to terminals. For the week there was a net loss of ¾c on the deferred futures, while the December closed unchanged at 15c. May was 16⅜c and July 17⅛c at the close on Saturday. Range of prices follows:

Says Britain to Steer Ship Line Finances

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 25.—Governmental supervision of the White Star line's affairs was predicted today by Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express. It announced that four directors will be appointed early next year to safeguard important interests in the line, which has figured in financial and shipping news for years.

The new "big four" will not interfere with the ordinary operation of the line, the Express declares, but they will hold an active interest on behalf of the British and Northern Ireland governments, the Bank of England, Glyn, Mills & Co., a private banking house, and the company's debenture holders.

Will Watch Investments.

It is asserted that no governmental interference with the line's operation is contemplated, but that a close check will be kept on the heavy investments represented. The move was decided upon so as to assure some ultimate return for advances on the company's behalf in the past, the newspaper asserted.

The British government's guarantees to the White Star were made during the chairmanship of Lord Kylsant, who recently completed a prison sentence for issuing a false financial prospectus on the company's affairs. The government made the advances under the trade facilities act to enable the company to build new ships. Northern Ireland made similar grants in the hope of obtaining contracts for Belfast shipyards and other creditors.

Line May Go to U. S.

There is still a possibility that the line will return to American hands, which is undesirable to British interests. It is impossible to sell the fleet ship by ship without a heavy loss, however, all of which is believed to explain the precautionary steps now reported under way.

What's Wrong with Illinois.

Dear Sir: I just finished reading your article in this morning's TRIBUNE in regard to stricter state control of life insurance.

First of all, I want to commend you upon this article because it will inform the insurance buying public of the thing that we all know has been true in the state of Illinois for some years past, namely, very lax insurance laws.

If I am correct, your paper wrote several articles a year or so ago in regard to the reason for Chicago not having any large outstanding life insurance companies. I believe the experience that Illinois companies are now passing through will explain, in a great measure, the main reason for the above question.

I believe I am right when I state that the majority of life insurance company failures were due to mismanagement of funds and promotion schemes. If the failing companies had adhered to strict life insurance principles as advanced and practiced by the leading life insurance companies today we would have no failures at this time to regret.

It is also mighty disappointing to read the article in regard to the Missouri State Life which is placed next to your article, because it is bound to cause certain people to have less confidence in the institution of life insurance which, as we both know, is not conducive to a happy state of affairs. Why the Missouri State Life is able to borrow $850,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and in turn guarantee an $800,000 loan to the newly formed Equities corporation so that two individuals might retire the interest of the third individual in order to control a company that is entrusted to carry out a large obligation to its policyholders is more than the average layman can understand.

I just wanted you to know how I felt as not only a salesman of life insurance but also an investor in life insurance.

WINSTON H. ROBBINS,
Chartered Life Underwriter.

Few Companies in Difficulties.

Dear Sir: Because of the great publicity being given to the tangled affairs of the Illinois Life, I am wondering whether it would not be well to have attention again called to the fact that only about 1 per cent of the legal reserve life insurance companies in the United States are in any difficulty, and that this 1 per cent are in difficulty not because of any weakness in the institution of life insurance but because of the willful misuse of the policyholders' money made possible because of inadequate supervision by the state in which they are organized, or by woefully weak laws.

While the amount of life insurance and policyholders' funds involved in these companies which are in difficulty might seem large were it not compared with the vast amount of life insurance and money held by legal reserve life insurance companies, the public should not become at all apprehensive as to their security. J. W. WOODHAMS,
General Agent, Midland Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Late Shoppers Boost Volume of Xmas Trade

An unexpected rush of late holiday buying was experienced by the department stores in Chicago last week. Throngs of belated Christmas shoppers in quest of last minute gifts surged through the loop despite the inclement weather, and trade officials stated that the rush was greater than any they had experienced in the last fifteen years, according to reports made to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Until the earlier part of the week the volume and dollar value of purchases was still 30 per cent below the averages for the like period last year, but this unexpected spurt reduced the difference.

Employment in Chicago experienced a seasonal upturn. Several thousands of temporary workers were added to the forces of the department stores to handle the rush.

A loan of over two million dollars for water works projects is expected to put several hundred building mechanics to work. There are also several other smaller projects under way in connection with the World's Fair that are giving employment to a large number of workers.

Cold weather last week was responsible for a sharp increase in the demand for electricity, and as a result production in the Chicago district made the best showing of any week this year, in comparison with 1931, with the exception of one week in February.

RAIL MATURITIES IN 1933 PLACED AT $295,100,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—Railroad financial obligations maturing in 1933 are estimated at approximately $295,100,000. This compares with 1932 maturities aggregating about $181,000,000, according to a tabulation by Fitch Publishing company, as reported by the Associated Press.

Principal loans falling due next year involve eight roads and consist of about $187,697,000 in bonds and $107,474,000 in equipment trusts. In the year now ending the bond maturities were $70,299,000, and the equipment obligations $110,782,000.

Most of the 1933 bond maturities are small. The most important are $34,548,000 first mortgage 4s of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern and $41,963,000 of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba. The former is a subsidiary of the Missouri Pacific and the latter is controlled by the Great Northern.

Baltimore & Ohio also has a large maturity—$63,250,000 convertible 4½s maturing March 1—but the road already has made plans for meeting this obligation through an offer of 50 per cent in cash obtained from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and 50 per cent in 5 per cent bonds maturing in 1996.

Extend Time for Deposit of Lehigh Valley Bonds

Extension of time to Dec. 31 for deposit of Lehigh Valley Coal company first mortgage 4 and 5 per cent bonds, which mature Jan. 1, 1933, is announced in a statement by the coal company and by the Lehigh Valley Railroad company, guarantor of the bonds.

INQUIRY LOOMS AS SCHOOL BOARD COUPONS VANISH

Oklahoma City, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Revelation of a shortage of $40,000 in negotiable interest coupons on bonds in the Oklahoma school land department has brought the prospect of a legislative investigation in an effort to establish criminal liability.

At the same time Al L. Beckett, secretary of the school land commission, announced department records disclosed almost 8,500 loans delinquent as of the close of the 1930-'31 fiscal year.

He estimated total losses to the state through irregular or poor business management were around $10,000,000.

Beckett said a special audit revealed the alleged theft of school funds at various times in a previous administration.

State Auditor Frank Carter said he would ask a legislative investigation next month. The legislature convenes Jan. 3.

"I do not know the exact amount," said Beckett, "but about $40,000 is missing; it is in matured interest coupons on negotiable bonds. The coupons are negotiable just like $5 bills. They were on municipal bonds from all sections of the state. The interest was paid, the coupons are gone and the money has vanished."

Four Companies to Act on Dividend This Week

Only a few dividend meetings are scheduled for the final week of the year. The most important are those of American Can company and Allied Chemical company, both scheduled for Tuesday. Dividend action is also due this week on Hershey Chocolate, McCrory Stores preferred stock, and Southern California Edison.

AIR MAIL LINES LATEST SUBJECT OF SENATE QUIZ

Nye Demands Trade Commission Probe.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—A demand for a thorough inquiry into the country's airmail lines is pending before the senate as the result of the introduction by Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota radical, just before the Christmas recess, of a resolution asking the federal trade commission for a lengthy list of facts.

The resolution requires the commission to report the following:

1. List of stocks held by aviation holding corporations.

2. List showing the various corporations owning stock in airmail transport lines and the amount of stock held in each instance.

3. List showing directors of aviation holding companies owning aviation stocks in airmail transport lines and having membership on the board of directors of such air transport companies.

4. List showing airplane manufacturers, airplane motor manufacturers and airplane parts and instrument manufacturers owning stock in either aviation holding companies or airmail transport lines and the amount so held in each instance.

Manufacturers Included.

5. List of officers and directors of aviation holding companies who through stock ownership are officers and directors of airmail transport lines and companies manufacturing or distributing airplanes, airplane motors, and airplane parts and instruments.

6. List showing employés of aviation holding companies who are also employés of airmail transport lines and companies manufacturing or distributing airplanes, airplane motors and airplane parts and instruments and the compensation, if any, received in each instance.

7. List of employés, officers and directors now in the employ of airmail transport lines or aviation holding companies or companies manufacturing or distributing airplanes, airplane motors and airplane parts and instruments, who were formerly employed by the United States postoffice department, giving the position each formerly held in the postoffice department and the compensation received in the employ of the said department and the compensation they are now receiving in the aviation industry.

8. List of employés, officers and directors of airmail transport lines and aviation holding companies and companies manufacturing or distributing airplanes, airplane motors and airplane parts and instruments who are relatives of present employés or officials in the said postoffice department, all such listings to be as of Dec. 20, 1932.

Basis for Action.

The theory on which the resolution is based—whether rightly or wrongly—is that the 20 millions which the federal government pays annually in mail subsidies to the airmail lines is going in large part to a small number of inter-connected stockholders.

According to the records of the postoffice department as disclosed in recent house appropriations committee hearings, the airmail subsidies go to eleven companies operating over twenty-three air routes.

The appropriations for the present fiscal year carry $19,460,000 for the airplane contract mail service. For 1934 the sum of $19,000,000 has been approved by the house and now awaits senate action. For this outlay the postal department receives some $8,000,000 in airmail revenues.

Contract Routes.

The contract airmail routes and the companies operating them are as follows:

CONTRACT AIRMAIL SERVICE.

Testifying at the hearings, W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general, asserted that he believed, but was not positive, that there were no interlocking connections between these companies. He thought there might possibly be small amounts of stock held in one company by another.

The average rate per mile paid in subsidies is 57 cents.

The poundage carried for the present fiscal year is expected to show the falling off which has characterized the whole postal service. In the case of the airmail the current decrease is about 21 per cent, though revenues have been somewhat increased by the higher airmail postage rate.

Mr. Glover testified that the Western Air Express was the only company so far to pay a dividend, though he believed two or three others were just out of the red.

Railroads Are Chief Interest in Market Now

Principal commodity and security markets throughout the world will be closed today, a legal holiday. Banks and business houses will also be closed. Business will be resumed in all markets tomorrow.

BY FRED HARVEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—Wry faces are being worn in Wall street this holiday season.

Within the next ten days or two weeks, the first of the 1932 corporation earnings "confessions" will begin to dribble in, and no one doubts the nature of the reports.

Most traders would like to believe that the impending statistics have been discounted in large measure by the market's reaction from its Sept. 8 peaks—a recession amounting to approximately 19 points when measured by the yardstick of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's "average" index of fifty representative stocks.

Prices Near October Low.

Protracted selling of the last week has brought the average to within about 2 points of the "resistance" bottom established on Oct. 10 and duplicated on Nov. 3 and again on Dec. 3.

The railroad shares are now the market's chief interest. The Central of Georgia receivership and vague rumors of difficulties by other roads, some of them rating as leading systems of the country, have caused uneasiness, and some of the highest grade issues, such as Atchison, New York Central and the like, have been sold heavily.

Steel Shares Weak.

Next to the rails the selling has centered on steel shares. The knowledge that the industry will end the year at perhaps a lower operating rate than it fell to last summer—probably about 10 per cent of capacity—has cost holders of the common and preferred shares of the United States Steel corporation many thousands of dollars in the last week. Other steels have shrunk in value proportionately. Car loadings figures continue on the downtrend, and other lines of business—with the exception of department stores, which were helped by the Christmas trade—are feeling the seasonal letdown.

There is an inclination to blame last week's setback, amounting to about 3 points, on premature attempts to start a "New Year" rally by strong arm methods. There was no apparent basis for the "push." Business statistics were declining steadily.

The handful of constructive forces were unable to get up enough steam to buck the seasonal trend, and prices came down faster than they had been built up. Now the fear is that the market may have difficulty in realizing on such favorable news as may come its way when the season fixed by tradition for the spring rally—January to March or April—comes.

Western Pacific Reports Decline in Operating Net

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Western Pacific Railroad company reported net operating income for November was $17,954, compared with $452,793 in October and $49,809 in November last year. The company's 11 months net from operations was $590,101 compared with $276,979 in the 1931 period.

TELLS OF GREAT ENERGY RESERVE YET TO BE TAPPED

Prof. Lamb Urges Better Power Control.

Potential energy reserves nearly sixty million times as great as any yet tapped by the world's industry exist in the heat of the earth, the energy radiated by the sun, in the winds, and in the water contained in clouds, asserts Prof. Arthur B. Lamb of Harvard university, president elect of the American Chemical society. The heat of the earth alone, he says, is a reserve sixty million times greater than that represented by all the known coal fields in the world.

Reviewing the energy progress of civilization, Prof. Lamb finds that every American today has at his disposal sixty times as much free energy, or power, as aboriginal man.

"It is this huge increment of power without a corresponding understanding of its socialized control which is doubtless the fundamental cause of our industrial and economic distress and our social unrest," he declares. "Better control, distribution, and coördination of this energy is the most pressing problem of the human family today.

Energy Supply to Grow.

"Nevertheless, while perhaps our sorest need for the moment is the consolidation of our present gains, there can be no question that mankind will steadily strive to secure and in the end will secure a greater per capita energy supply. It is worth while, therefore, to examine our energy supplies and the possibilities of conserving, increasing, or adding to them."

A survey of the annual supplies of energy for the world from present sources shows, according to Prof. Lamb, that approximately 35 per cent of it is developed in the United States. Forty-six per cent of the world's energy produced from coal, 50 per cent of that from oil, 46 per cent from wood, and 80 per cent from gas come from the United States, his figures show.

"Any considerable increase in per capita energy supply in a highly industrialized country like ours will entail, in addition to the better economic organization referred to above, a further increase in the efficiency of power production, and, at the start, from our present sources of energy, chiefly coal," he states. "Much can doubtless still be done with our present prime movers.

Efficiency Increases.

"The steam engine has been increased in overall efficiency from 15 per cent in 1910 to 28 per cent in 1932, and this should continue, although at a diminishing rate. The mercury turbine is relatively in its infancy, and may be congenitally limited in its possibilities, but it already exhibits an efficiency of 34 per cent.

"An alluring possibility is the fuel cell using carbon or carbon monoxide as one depolarizer and air as the other. The electrochemical feasibility of such cells at 800 degrees appears to have been convincingly demonstrated, and their operation at room temperature is not entirely out of the question."

But the largest of all energy reserves remain virtually untapped, Prof. Lamb says. These are solar energy and the heat of the earth.

Problems of Earth's Heat.

"Terrestrial heat, present in such huge amounts and available only a relatively few miles from every point on the earth's surface, appears very hopeful at first," he points out. "One would think that deep shafts might be sunk and the subterranean heat used to generate steam. Simple calculations show that this is wholly out of the question. The only hope is to take advantage of accidental supplies of hot water, or, best of all, of superheated steam occurring in certain volcanic regions, such, for instance, as Count Conti has utilized with conspicuous success in Italy and as Dr. Allen believes can be utilized in Sonoma county, Cal.

"Ocean heat is also available in huge amounts and has actually been utilized by George Claude—but to date his pumps have consumed more energy than his huge turbines have generated. He assures us, nevertheless, that the method can be made an economic success."

STEEL INDUSTRY LOOKING TO 1933 FOR BETTERMENT

Believe Output Will Stay Above 1932 Low.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 25.—(AP)—With steel production at 12 per cent for the week ended today, the magazine Steel said that "January is expected to bring some improvement." The magazine said that "it is not expected that the average daily rate for December will decline to the level of the all-time low of August."

Automotive releases, especially for strip and sheets, will restore some of the capacity Dec. 27 that was expected to stay down, the magazine said. "Shutdowns for Dec. 23 to 27 were the most sweeping in the history of the industry.

Inventories Low.

"As usual consumers have permitted their inventories to run down, and while many have signed contracts for the first quarter they have not specified. Producers, however, expect that with the turn of the year specifying will be resumed, and they look to January to bring some measure of improvement.

"Structural awards approach the year-end with the second highest total for any week this year—70,513 tons—due largely to placing of steel for the federal aid belt line railroad bridge at New Orleans.

Auto Makers Buying.

"Automobile manufacturers are maintaining high rates of assembly for new models and December output will approximate the 111,141 units for July. For January the outlook is equally good. Many railroads are generous buyers of rivets, indicating an early start on car repair programs.

"Of finished steel products sheets are the most active, due to automotive releases, and strip second. Scrap is in no demand and prices are nominal."

SOLUTION TO AN INNOCENT VICTIM

IF Mrs. Bell had locked the window in question as she claimed to have done it would have been physically impossible for the 7 year old boy to have opened it. Fordney had to STAND ON A CHAIR to do it. It was later learned that Mrs. Bell had purposely left this window unlocked and informed her brother, who did the actual kidnaping, of that fact. They intended splitting the ransom money.
